Chapter 991 - 992

Chapter 991 You Are My Wife Now

Kisa's sudden switch in the subject caused Gilbert to pause momentarily before he nodded. "Yeah. Why?"

"Can I go with you?"

She still could not find any information about her mother's bracelet.

However, she felt something peculiar about the birthmark on Peter's chest. She suspected that Peter might be the child that her mother gave birth to back then though her assumption may be bold and absurd. She still did not want to eliminate any possibility, so she wanted to personally look it up.

Gilbert looked at her strangely, "Why do you want to go to Oceanville?"

"I just want to be with you all the time. Why? Do you not want me to follow you?"

She had almost forgotten about her nightmare just now.

Kisa sat up from Gilbert's arm. "Do you remember when I messed up your documents that day? I accidentally noticed that there were a few contracts involving the Webb family from Oceanville. I figured that you've got to sign the contracts with them again since the previous ones were stained, right?"

Suddenly, Gilbert stared at her playfully. "Now that you mentioned it, I'm starting to think that you spilled the sauce on my contracts on purpose."

"How are you going to punish me if I really did?"

Kisa got serious.

She had just finished crying, and tears were still rolling in her eyes. Her eyes were wide open as she looked at Gilbert. Gilbert just did not have the heart to punish her, even though he was really mad.

He fumbled her long hair behind her neck and said softly, "You got me good. I'll just let it slip this time."

“So... Oceanville?”

“We’ll go together if you’re free by then. I don’t want to be away from you for too long, either.”

Kisa laughed after hearing what he said. “Too long? How many days are you planning to stay there?”

“To me, even one day away from you feels like forever to me.”

Kisa never knew that Gilbert was so good at saying cheesy stuff like this, realizing that she indeed did not know that man very well. She then asked Gilbert, “When do you want to go there, then? I’ll make some arrangements.”

“There’s no rush. Don’t you have to attend Mr. Mullen Sr.’s birthday ceremony? We’ll only make our way to Oceanville after visiting Athadale.

Kisa was shocked. “How did you know I’m going to visit the Mullens?”

She was talking about Anthony Mullen’s family. To be honest, she was not very fond of Anthony and did not even feel like attending the birthday ceremony.

However, she was a rather famous public figure. The media would definitely say something bad about her if she chose not to attend after Mr. Muller Sr. personally invited her. She only decided to go, figuring things would not go well for her if the public started criticizing her for her absence.

Gilbert hugged her in his arms. “You’re my wife now. It’s only right for me to know everything about your schedule.”

Kisa was startled when she heard the word ‘wife’. It was just something very simple, yet she just could not associate herself with it.

At night, Kisa did not really sleep as she kept thinking about her mother and the birthmark on Peter’s body. She figured that she might be able to find David through Peter if he was really the child that her mother secretly gave birth to back then. She just had to tell David about what her mother wanted, no matter what.

Kisa’s mother was still saying his name before she died. Kisa thought that David would know how much she missed him and desperate she was.

Kisa was awakened by her phone’s ringing tone the next morning. She picked up her phone, seeing an unsaved number on the screen, and hesitated for a second before nonchalantly accepting the call

“Ms. Becker, it’s me.”

Kisa heard a strange yet familiar voice. Then, she frowned and sat up.

Chapter 992 A Different Shaun

“Who is this?”

“It’s Shaun. I’m standing right outside of the Kooper residence now. I have something to tell you. Could you come down?”

‘Shaun?’

Kisa knitted her brows.

‘Didn’t Shaun get very mad and leave on the day J & K Film Group merged with GK Pictures? What is it that he wants to tell me?’

Kisa did not refuse to see him, considering that he was the most loyal man around Jensen. “Give me a minute,” she replied.

Kisa hurriedly rushed to the bathroom, freshened herself up, got changed, and ran outside.

Gilbert had woken up way before her. Before this, Kisa touched the empty space on her bed, not feeling the warmth, and wondered if Gilbert had already returned to the office.

It was still early in the morning, and the living room was silent. Kisa made her way out of the front yard and saw a big man smoking while leaning on the wall outside.

“Ms. Becker!” Shaun stood upright as soon as he saw her, sounding more respectful than before.

Kisa looked at him, confused. “What is this about?”

Shaun put out his cigarette as he said apologetically, “Ms. Becker, I was too rude that day, and I spoke without thinking it through. Please forgive me.”

Kisa shook her head, completely forgetting what had happened that day. Besides, she was the one who handed Jensen’s company to a person who hurt him. She perfectly understood why Shaun acted that way since he was Jensen’s right-hand man.

“I came here today because...”

“I don’t want to quit anymore,” Shaun spoke in a serious manner. “I’ve been working with Mr. Kooper since he started the company. I just don’t feel very good leaving like this.”

Kisa pursed her lips dejectedly.

“However, J & K Film Group isn’t the same as before anymore. It’s just a subsidiary company of GK now.”

“That’s fine. I have no problems with that. I wouldn’t mind even if I’m just going to be a random employee there.” Shaun said nervously. “Besides, I’ll do everything you said. You can tell me to do anything if you ever need help.”

Kisa looked at Shaun oddly. She had no idea why this man’s attitude suddenly took such a big turn.

As if he noticed Kisa’s suspicion, Shaun immediately put on a sad face.

“I went to visit Mr. Jensen Kooper that day...”

Kisa’s heart tightened. Then, she asked, “How is he? Is he awake?”

Shaun shook his head. “I looked at him and thought about the things he had said to me previously.

“He said that J & K Film Group belongs to you, and we must obey your orders if he isn’t around anymore. He wanted us to treat you like how we treated him. However, I failed him by standing up to you that day.”

Kisa felt sad as tears welled up in her eyes. Jensen was just so thoughtful and considerate of her, but what had she done to him?

She was the reason why he ended up in the hospital because of her love.

Kisa took a deep breath and looked at Shaun. “There’s no need for you to follow everything Jensen said. You should leave if you have better offers or other plans elsewhere. You don’t have to constrain yourself because of what he said.”

“No!” Shaun immediately shook his head. “I’ve been working for him my whole life. You’re my new boss now since he said so. We’ll wait for him to wake up together.”

After seeing his determination, Kisa did not feel like rejecting him. Then, she said, "Okay, I'll let Gilbert know about this and tell him to reinstate you to your old position."

"Thank you, Ms. Becker."

Shaun got into the car and watched Kisa walk back into the mansion as a cold smirk flashed across his face.
