

Rejecting Your Rejection

Rejecting Your Rejection By Veronica Vito chapter 12

“I hope you’re more than happy now, to see me like this”

Dante smile inwardly to himself, today he was going to make her accept the damn rejection. He knew what he was going to do with her, he’s going to show her his side that only his enemies knew of.

His wolf has warn him not to do anything to her yet he was too stubborn to listen. His pack is his first priority and he did not want anyone to realise his Mate is her. Therefore, he wanted her to accept it quickly as dangerous was lurking around his territory especially the territory that he wants to take over.

He smirk at her hiding his emotions and everything that would give away his seriousness in doing this.

“It’s good to see you again mate”

he leans forward to her, his hold on her chin was tight in which she pushes him off with so much force making him landed on his b since he was on his haunches. Scurrying away from him, her eyes roaming around for anything that could help her defend herself.

“Stay away from me” she warns him, “make another move and I’ll... I’ll” she stutters.

Dante who watches in amus*t laugh at her with mockery. He stood up dusting off the dirt on his short. He wasn’t going to r her. No he would never do that or has ever done that to any girl, forcing them against their will. Same goes with his mate but all he needed to do was just to scare her and place the thought of him being the disgusting mate in her head.

Taking another step towards her Daniella move backwards until he trapped her in a corner and she has nowhere else to go. Dante saw a fear in her eyes along with that vulnerable state she’s in. Yet he didn’t seem to faze by it, he grin picking her up and slam her against the cell wall

“I’ll keep doing this until you say I accept your rejection” Daniella nodded her head no. He tighten his hold around her neck

ADVERTISEMENT

“shall we go on”

“do your best I don’t care”

he slam his other fist near her in which she flinch before throwing her on the other side. She wince in pain still she refuse to give him her answer he then close the gap between them holding her up against the wall again.

Only this time he was closer to her with their clothes keeping them apart.

He smirks at her again “interesting how about this” his breath was hot on her face, he was to rip the side of her shirt when she became hysterical and scream thrashing in his arms like a feral beast.

Dante suddenly let go of her and she began to sob on the ground murmuring more like begging him not to do this to her. Emotions swell within him seeing this other side of her that he wasn’t aware of.

He move to her but her scream increases then her body began to shook. Dante began to panic he didn’t know what to do. He was only going to scare her a little but seeing her like this, definitely tells him another story.

His Mate was not the perfect one like those luna he saw and read of she was just as broken as him. He ignore her screams and gather her in his arms holding her tight to his chest whispering soothing words to her ear.

Her body and scream began to calm, her breathing slowly diminish. Then the most unthinkable thing happens which make Dante gone crazy and his wolf almost took over his body. Daniella went limp in his arms, there was no sign of her breathing.

ADVERTISEMENT

Her body just shut down immediately.

The cell door opens Jem who was alert through the mindlink thought something must have happen to his Alpha. He stood there watching him hold her body close.

He look up with tears in his eyes “I think she’s...she’s”

Jem rushed to his side “Dante, she needs a doctor” he growl at him but Jem understood his Alpha this must be his Mate.

“Alpha she’s going to be Okay after the doctor check on her” he then mindlinks their doctor with urgency without delay.

“Dante, Betram is almost here, do you still wants others to know about her” he finally let go of her body. Dr. Betram stood in the doorway he made his way to Jem rapidly who now held Daniella in his arms.

They lay her on the ground and Dante tries to suppress his possessive side from showing. After few minutes of the doctor and Jem busying around, Daniella finally breath at last. Dante was more than grateful at the moment Jem thanks the doctor before taking her out of the cell.

Dante stay in there for a minute before releasing his growls, his wolf side and all their anger destroying the cell. He went back to their pack house taking a shower then went to a room that Jem mindlinks he has put her in.

He saw her lying there on the bed, the only thing moving in the room was the beat of her heart. He couldn't believe what he has done today lead to her in bed.

ADVERTISEMENT

Closing his eyes Dante knew that today he has totally destroyed their bond and there was nothing good he could do to return what he did to her in the cell and all those past few weeks he was torturing her.

There was no need to scare or torture her anymore as it is clear now that what he did was unforgivable. He took out his phone to dial down the number of one person whom he has been ignoring for years now. The one person who could understand and could give him the best advice in this situation.

He place it to his ear listening as it rang before it picked up. The female with a cheering voice answers. Many years has paed, the years they separated yet he could still remember her voice “Hello,” she repeated again still he doesn't answer.

“Look if you are pranking me then I suggest you play with some other kid, I swear I'll whip your a” he call out her name cutting her rambling off.

They were both silence until she utter his name more surprisingly “Dante.”

.....

What do you think of Dante and what's going to happen next?

Make sure to enjoy your weekend everyone and thanks again for your support

Love Xox,

Nica

Chapter 13 Life As It Is

After you, I will make sure to never love again. At least its what you taught me as a Mate.

When she woke up a day after Dante scare the hell out of her more like giving her a lifetime nightmare she finds herself back in their house.

Laura spend most of her time with the kids while Cameron was being attentive to her most of the time. He has always been there for her trying to make her act normal and live a normal life without fear. He went to an extent where he train her for the past two weeks how to defend herself.

Cameron told her that Dante has suggested for him to when he dropped her off that day. He told her that Dante never explain what happens to her and Daniella didn't even bother to share.

Speaking of Dante Daniella never saw him again since the incident in his pack cell. She was doing better and for a whole week she managed to get back up on her feet plus her training were really helpful. The council has been giving out warning alerts for Rogues around the border.

“Hey” Cameron came from the stairs with Holly in his arm.

“You're working today?”

“yeah... Why?”

he put her in her crib next to Clyde who was on the floor in the living room playing with his pile of toys.

“I want you to come home early. I already ask Kyle to drop by to pick you up”

ADVERTISEMENT

“Kyle?” she ask in confusion “how did-”

“you forgot Alpha Dantes sister was one of our friend, and I know almost everyone in that Pack,”

“okay” and she grab her bag then kisses Holly and Clyde before heading out “see you later guys.”

She decided to go by taxi to work today and let her car rest for a day. After all she didn't have the money to fix it if it broke down again.

Cora has shown up to her work today "Heya Dani" she beams at her "how have you been doing?"

"great" she replies.

Cora took a seat by the counter eyeing the pastries on display "I'll have your afghan cookie and a mocha." Daniella quickly attend to her order then settle down behind the counter opposite her.

Luckily they have fewer guests to attend to, so it was good to have a little chat with her new friend.

"I've heard you been to our Pack"

ADVERTISEMENT

Daniella gawk aside "yeah I was, due to a rogue's attack and I happened to be here when they did." She didn't want to talk about the real reason so she watches as Cora took a bite of her cookie. "Hmm this is so good" then she leans forward "and I also know our sy Kyle is picking you up."

"Oh yeah my brother in law Cameron ask him to" Cora just nod her head and took a sip of her mocha.

"So do you want to visit to my pack again?" Daniella half smile "I would love to but I just can't" Cora pressed her lips together "okay."

The door bell ring they both turn to Kiev who waves at her. Kiev has been there for her in the past weeks. He has been a very supportive friend to her and Daniella never told him anything about her life as she just avoid the topic and talk on other things.

He was near to them Cora suddenly have that distasteful look on her face. She pushes away her plate standing up.

"I think I just lost my appete, umm I'll see you some other day Dani" she grab her purse from the counter and head out.

"What's with you and the Crimson pack members," she ask Kiev

"they're just jealous that they don't get to have this handsome face and body" he jokes taking a seat before her.

“Really Kiev, are you sure? You didn’t do anything to make you the number one hater to your former pack members?”

ADVERTISEMENT

“Nah, not sure of but I think they just didn’t like the fact I turned down little miss prissy who was walking out of here. Oh yeah before you say mate no were not” he grins.

Daniella whack him on the back of the head. “Ms. Prissy is a friend of mine so don’t mock her,” he warns him.

They talk again for a while before he went back to his work. He still works at the restaurant she used to work. After him she went back to continue with her duties in the cafe.

When she closes down for the day Kyle was already there to pick her up then to drop her off home. They didn’t talk that much on their way as it was so awkward to her. So they just made small talk and then that was it.

She opens the door to only welcome with voices and she closes her eyes once she heard the other unwanted voice coming from the living room.

.....

Another update for my lovely readers and I would like to apologise to @jheraisy for not having more updates as you have comments. I was kinda busy baby-sitting my twin nieces on the weekend... Thank you for encouraging me dear Thank you again everyone for your continous support.. More updates today!☺☐

Love Xox,

Nica

