

Rejecting Your Rejection

Chapter 21 Brides And Grooms

Watching you was tortuous but I think I can live with that.

Kiev came and took her the next day, he told her that his aunt Evelyn who lives in the Crescent pack wants to meet her at the cafe she use to work at. They were kind of quarrel in the morning when he came to pick her up as she didn't know he has an aunt and she wasn't prepared to meet her.

They never talked to each other on their way until they arrived at the cafe where at the corner sat Ms. Cringe, the type who was more than ready to murder her with their words and opinions.

When she saw them both she has a big grin on her face her hands going around Kiev hugging him. Yet that smile was for Kiev alone as when her eyes met hers she frown pulling away from him then sat back down on the chair. She nervously smile sitting down next to Kiev opposite her.

"Aunt Eve, I would like you to meet my fiancée Daniella" she took a sip of her black coffee "and when do you two intend to marry"

"well we haven't thought of the date yet as we're still just young and-"

"gosh" she obviously cut her off. "Are you kidding me" she roll her eyes at the two of them. "Who in their right mind in our race would propose and expected to be married after 3 years"

Daniella was to say something but again Evelyn stops her before she could say anything else.

"Did you have a Mate?"

"yes I did" she took a sip again of her coffee "poor soul, is he an Alpha?"

"No" she lies.

Turning beside her she saw Kiev tighten his hold and she knew that he didn't like her answer. Evelyn's phone rang she answer it before putting it down and ready to be gone somewhere.

"Schedule your wedding from four weeks now" Evelyn took her by surprise "I'm sorry but-"

"No but dear, four weeks from now on.. Go on prepare everything time is ticking children" and she left them there.

“What the hell was that?”

Kiev whisper yell at her which makes her wolf growl a little more felt threatened by his tone at him. Daniella’s wolf never resurfaced since she accepted Kiev as her boyfriend. Hani her wolf totally shut her off but surprisingly she just react just because Kiev seems to be a threat.

“Look I’m sorry but you know Eve is just my only family and you seems to disrespect her which hurt me the most” he took her hands in to his making her wolf shut her out again.

“I didn’t disrespect her, did you really have to listen to what your aunt is saying”

“are you saying you don’t want to marry me”

“No but four weeks are you kidding me, how am I supposed to plan it within four weeks” she sigh with frustration.

He beams at her “we could start now, come on what’s the use of your man here” he bang on his chest taking her hand and drag her out of the cafe.

They went around looking for a venue first, she was looking in to something more affordable and simple yet Kiev was going for the big shot. She knew her saving and his salary wouldn’t made up to it but Kiev insist on for them to have an expensive wedding saying he’ll pay for it. She thought for a minute where he would get the money from then

“Daniella would you wait here I have somewhere to go to”

“yeah I could take a look around” he kissed her on the cheek then left to go wherever he’s going.

She walk around the town for a while couldn’t even remember most of the things here, a lot of things changes around since Dante took it over. Not in a bad way but impressively he turn it more in to a fairytale place.

Suddenly she remembered that she could have been a rogue if she wasn’t part of a rogue which seems strange to her. Betas and guard should drag her back to the main Crimson Pack territory for questioning but nothing happens.

She came across a shop with clay windows it’s has a sign of Lisa’s fashion and jewellery. She watches from the outside through the big gla window as the ladies inside rushes from here to there while the other one was fixing the bride to be’s dress.

She tries to imagine herself doing that only if she has the money to buy a beautiful wedding dress yet since she can’t afford it for the mean time she would settle for a simple one.

The bride to be stretches her arms, turning from side to side while the ladies gasp in awe. Slowly she twirl around and turn facing her direction.

The bride was beautiful indeed but her mind and wolf was telling her she's not as the bride to be was the one who was going to marry Dante, her mate.

She tries to take small breathing in but once the groom to be, appear beside the bride her world stops. She shouldn't felt this way yet her feelings was betraying her and her love for Kiev. She wishes the moon goddess would have created their world so big like the humans God create theirs.

As if he knew her presence his eyes met hers from inside to outside even though he was kind of far inside.

"There you are" Kiev's voice interrupts her, she quickly walk to him taking his attention away from the shop and walk away.

She spends the whole day with him, going around to organize things for their wedding and him taking her on dinner before dropping her off at the house. She kick off her shoes and walk inside the living room only to be met with the husband and wife to be along with Cameron.

"Hi"

Dante greeted her and she felt her insides slowly burning in to flame from his voice.
