

Rejecting Your Rejection

Chapter 24 Reasons

There is so much to say but I just couldn't. I am too exhausted and too numb to give you reasons.

Dante was walking Daniella by the door when Cora who has been listening and hearing the shocking piece of information confront them both. The boys, Kyle and Jem just stood by watching them.

"Now I know, you're the reason why he's been like that" Daniella's heart start to beat faster. Cora look furious at her not even giving Daniella any time to respond.

"You really did break my brother, didn't you? when my sister beg you why didn't you come for him?" Daniella became stiff in her place.

"Why exactly are you doing here huh Dani? I mean why the f did you have to come back here?" she sneers at her. "Are you here to shove it in his face, that you're going to be happily married? To watch him slowly dies while you smile with glee" she shouted at Daniella.

"No" she answers

"No, then why is your wedding taking place here knowing really well my brother could get hurt," she continues to shout at her "come on Dani enlighten us!!" she threw her hands up laughing shortly scoffing at her.

Daniella didn't speak she was too overwhelming by it, she felt someone held her hand with the sparks she knew it was him. Cora snarl at that

ADVERTISEMENT

"You should at least be kind enough and accepted his rejection,"

"Cora it's complicated," she bluffs at her "complicated are you kidding me? then why didn't you accept his rejection? or even accept him back when he said he was sorry like you said in there"

"because I just can't help the idea of being compared to her"

All eyes were set on her, Dante stood with shock Dani never explains anything to him. He thought his rejection was the only thing she despise him over but now it was more than just his rejection. There she finally said what really was being holding her back.

Cora still didn't back out from him she pushes her again "maybe it was true and it's sad because it's so true that our first luna Alexis was way better than you," her world shattered at her words, Daniella didn't stop either even though her tears slowly drop from her eyes.

"It's hurt to be rejected and come as his last choice," she felt his hand slips away from her his face casting down with shame. She didn't want him to keep distance from her, she needed him now yet Dante took several steps away from her and she was all on her own.

"All my life I've always been compared and I thought just for once my mate would be mine, even though I knew there's a chance he might reject me but I still hope for it. How wrong is that?" she started to sob uncontrollably

"your brother broke me completely when he rejected me after comparing me with his first mate. I was fifteen almost in the brink of death because of my own pack" She beats on her heart "and how can I compete with the dead huh...how can I compete with everyone else when all I've ever known was no better than everyone out there. I'll always be known as the other mate, the second one but not his first. The weak one, the one who was bully and aaulted by others. Yes he deeply hurt me beyond his rejection"

ADVERTISEMENT

She could now see pity and sympathy "I could never take her place or be the perfect mate and you were still right about that."

She runs and push past them getting to the door

"but you walk away like you couldn't care,"

"that because I do but it was too much."

She opens the door wide and run away from the pack house, her body was not the only pain she felt, her heart was unbearable to her. It was like someone stabs her there, currently torturing her whole body then grip her heart and stabs it in to thousands time.

"Dani"

she felt sparks ignite through her when he held back her hand turning her around then his hands cupping her face

"you're not her" she sobs "I never meant what I say" she still sobs in his hands "you're my first Dani in everything, she was nothing like you. Nobody was ever good enough not like you. You were too good for me at the time. Just so you know she never owns my heart like you did and I never kiss her the way I kiss with you."

ADVERTISEMENT

She stops him when her lips find his taking him off guard. He responded to her, his hands tangling through her head holding her, he could still taste her salty tears with their kiss. Pulling away she caress his cheek "I'm sorry but we can't" she wanted to die when she said those words, Cameron was right she made a mistake by marrying someone else

"I Daniella" she sobs not even wanting to accept his rejection because deep down inside her she has feelings for him but Cora was right

"Maynard accept your rejection" and she runs off crying leaving him behind.

.....
Oh well, she just finally accepted his rejection. Hope you enjoy reading this chapter.

△□△□△□ On the next chapter, it might contain some sual aault scene.

Love Xox,

Nica