Ex-Husband Wants Badly to Resume Their Marriage Chapter 20

Blacklist His Phone Number

Jameson's voice grew colder, "In your eyes, can you let any woman marry into our family as long as she has my child?"

"I'm doing this for your own good! Could you want to leave your child outside? Back then, you..."

There's no need for you to remind me. I won't let that thing happen.' After saying that, Jameson hung up.

He looked at the divorce certificate on the desk for a while.

Then he suddenly got up, put the certificate in his pocket, and walked out of the office.

In the press conference of Lumiere Jewelry.

Throughout the press conference, Sharon was very calm and directly faced all the sharp words of the reporters.

She was not a star. So, she didn't need popularity on the Internet or sell the public persona.

She just wanted to declare the innocence of Lumiere Jewelry and herself before the incident caused irreparable damage.

A reporter asked, "Since Ms. Ally just said that it was a rumor that you interfered in someone else's marriage, could Ms. Ally explain the sudden disappearance three years ago?"

"I married."

"Then is your husband the wealthy businessman that the post refers to..."

Sharon said, "I'm sorry I can't tell you all about my ex-husband. What I can tell is that when my ex-husband and I met and got married, we were both single."

A few reporters sensitively noticed that she used the word "ex-husband" and asked several questions about her marriage.

Sharon smiled and said in a calm voice, "I think we are sitting here to clarify the rumor on the Internet. As for my personal life, I can't tell more."

This sentence choked these reporters, but it was correct.

Sharon was not a public figure, so she didn't need to report her private life to everyone.

The netizens had thought that she was a shameless home wrecker, so they began to boycott her.

Now that she had come out to clarify, and Lumiere Jewelry guaranteed her innocence.

Moreover, these reporters presented usually had a good relationship with Lumiere Jewelry.

So, no one was willing to offend Lumiere Jewelry.

Soon after the press conference was over, a press release was issued.

Lumiere Jewelry also issued a statement simultaneously, which said that the rumor on the Internet was false.

It would accept all the returns, and it would also prosecute the rumor maker on behalf of the designer.

It hoped that everyone would like the following works.

After the announcement, a crowd of fashion bloggers and celebrities reposted the statement and showed their support.

Very quickly, sales of the three items in the First Love collection rose instead of falling.

The revenues tripled and made up the loss caused by refunds before.

After the press conference, Sharon rushed to the bathroom immediately.

Tiffany waited at the entrance for ten minutes before Sharon came out.

Tiffany asked worriedly, "Sharon, are you okay?"

Sharon shook her head and said with a pale face, "Tell Lance that I am sorry. Everything that happened today was just because of me. If the magazine wants to cancel the contract, I can sign it immediately."

"What are you talking about? A wise man can tell that someone is deliberately messing with you. How can Lance cancel the contract just because of the rumor? Besides, if he really wants to cancel the contract with you, he doesn't have to hold a press conference to defend. He can have just issued a statement and blamed you."

"Sharon had just said one word when she felt a wave of nausea, but this time, she did not spit it out at last. She rubbed her stomach, feeling a little disturbed.

The baby was really a bad guy.

Tiffany poured a cup of water and handed it over, "Sharon, I'll take you home now."

At this time, a few clerks of Lumiere Jewelry passed by and whispered.

"Why would the Proctor Group come to help us this time? They actually sent out their public relations team. Giana didn't even enjoy the privilege."

"That's right. No matter what, Giana is still a famous movie queen, the No. 1 actress in the Proctor Group. Once Giana's scandal was spread widely on the Internet, the public relations team of the Proctor Group didn't show up."

"I heard from my friend that Giana's team went to negotiate with the president of the Proctor Group and wanted to get help from the public relations team. Guess what the president said? He said that Giana would better leave the entertainment industry if she couldn't solve the matter independently."

"Isn't this too unreasonable?"

"Hey, Giana's scandal has been yesterday's news. Mr. Proctor has a new girlfriend now."

The few of them instantly pricked up their ears when they heard the gossip.

Even Sharon and Tiffany were unconsciously attracted.

The girl added, "You know Sheila? She is actually Mr. Proctor's sweetheart now. Didn't Sheila want to be the cover model of our magazine? But Lance refused her because he thought she wasn't suitable. However, I heard that when the 'First Love' series were still in preparation, Sheila wanted to cooperate with our magazine for a cover promotion."

"Yes, I've heard about her before. Lance rejected her anyway. But didn't Mr. Proctor come to the press conference yesterday? I heard that he wanted to buy the jewelry from the "First Love" series as a gift. Could he give the jewelry to Sheila? He must be helping Sheila get a chance to be a cover model."

"If that's the case, then why the public relations team came to help us this time is clear that the Proctor Group wants Lumiere Jewelry to owe a favor and paves the way for Sheila. Mr. Proctor really puts in a lot of effort."

The few of them talked as they walked further and further away.

Tiffany scolded sincerely, "The shameless couple is actually showing off."

Sharon only touched the divorce certificate in her bag.

Sure enough, the two old sayings were correct.

Men's mouths, deceptive ghosts.

If a man can be trusted, a sow can climb a tree.

If Jameson didn't have an affair with Sheila, she would slap herself in the face.

Sharon regained herself and said, "Tiffany, I still have something to do. I have to go somewhere else."

Although the incident this time had been settled properly, she had something to deal with.

However, as soon as she left Lumiere Jewelry appeared, Sharon's phone rang.

She watched the screen flicker quietly but did not pick up the call.

After a long time, the phone finally quieted down.

She had made it clear that there was no need for Martin to contact her, no matter the reason.

Just as Sharon was about to take a taxi, her phone rang again.

She looked at the phone and didn't want to answer it.

A two-faced man. Sharon directly put his name on the blacklist.
