

Revenge On My First Love Chapter 289

"Shut up," Olivia mouthed these two words silently.

Soon, Drake raised his bidder card again, "300 million."

Holy crap.

It turned out that it was Drake Riley who was in charge of the Riley family. For him, money was only a number in his bank account. Comparing with Drake's bid price, Roman clearly was not wealthy enough.

Roman just added 1 million while Drake added 100 million directly. How humiliating it was for Drake.

As expected, Roman's face darkened. 201 million was the most he could offer. It didn't occur to him that Drake would offer 300 million. That was totally out of his reach.

Drake looked at Roman and said, "Do you still want it? If you do, I could let you have it."

Being humiliated in public like this, Roman could not feel more ashamed.

Olivia felt a headache. She had warned Roman before, but he still acted so impulsively and didn't obey her. If she had expected all this, she would not have brought him here.

The crowd was waiting for his answer. Roman had no other choice but to say through gritted teeth, "No."

Some people were laughing.

Drake said in a mocking tone, "Good boy."

It was as if he was cajoling a child.

The hostess continued, "300 million once. 300 million twice. Sold."

The pink diamond eventually went into Drake's pocket.

"Now let's see the next object. It's an artistic one. The First Communion from Picasso."

"It's Picasso's first painting that ever showed up in an auction. When it was first auctioned, it was sold for 600 million. As its owner is in the last days of his life, he would like to find it another keeper."

"The starting price is 100 million. Please offer a price at least 1 million higher each time."

Anyone who knew something about art should know that the First Communion from Picasso had a great value of the collection. The painting was so delicate. The seven rocks were so alive as if they were something real.
