

Revenge On My First Love Chapter 37

With that, he forced her body around and started blowing.

Sophia's heart inexplicably fluttered, but she told herself that she was in her twenties and didn't need to be affected by such a small gesture from him.

"I know what you want, isn't it to ask me about your grandfather's whereabouts?"

"No, I've made sure of it, he's right here with you."

Sophia was afraid that when he blew her, he suddenly made the move of laying a killer.

Who knew that the next second he said, "The older he gets, the more confused he is, and he can't read people, so I decided to let him suffer in your place for a few days."

Sophia : "....."

"Also, he deserves a lesson for what he did to you in the first place."

Sophia really couldn't see what this man was thinking and looked back at him.

Drake, on the other hand, was blowing her hair in front of her, one at a time, very gently, like this thing did not know how many times.

"Sophia, I know you didn't really want to do anything to him when you took him into custody, you were just teaching him a lesson, and although I know exactly what my grandfather did to you, from what I know about him, he must have done a lot to hurt you."

"There's no excuse for what you're doing, I won't call the police and I won't go back to him, just make sure he doesn't die."

Sophia is really getting confused with this man.

When his hair was almost dry, he put down the hair dryer in his hand and bent over to look at her.

From her one face, to her fine white neck, to her charming collarbone, and even down .....

Sophia quickly covered the important places with her hands, her eyes dripping round.

"Drake, you rascal!"

The corners of Drake's mouth lifted with depth, as if he were hearing a joke.

"Sophia , I haven't done anything rogue yet, what makes you think I'm a rogue, are you saying ..... you're expecting me to do something rogue?"
