

Right Person 504

Chapter 504 I Will Cooperate

Although Anna had done her best to keep the news from spreading out, Queenie still received word about Hayden's status, knowing that he was alive but mentally ill.

That kid is pretty strong-willed, isn't he? Anyway, I suppose there is nothing to worry about since he is now mentally ill. After all, I'm sure the Gardner Family will not appoint an unsound child to be their heir.

At the thought of that, Queenie couldn't help but feel gleeful until she heard another news that Anna wanted to investigate everyone who visited the Gardner Family that day.

At that moment, Queenie's face darkened; she knew her plan to marry Colton would be ruined if she was found to be responsible for Hayden's 'tragedy'. Thus, she quickly packed her belongings and made her way to the Gardner Residence.

rumored. Desperate to answer the question

Gardner Residence, the place was filled with nothing but silence. At the same time, there were more bodyguards than there were before at the door as some of them were even seen patrolling there, but instead of giving in to them, she glared at the men with her hands on her waist, grunting unhappily. "Open your goddamn eyes! I'm Colton's wife, the young mistress of the Gardner Family. Why

Anna had instructed them not to allow outsiders into the mansion, yet they had no showed up out of nowhere and looked brightly and scurried closer to the man while trying to seize his arm, but Colton subtly avoided her reach. Nonetheless, Queenie didn't seem dismayed at all as she smiled at Colton and said, "Thanks for the help back there, Colton, or I'd still Queenie into the house and replied, "Don't mention it. My mother wants to have everyone who visited herself together and asked, "Yesterday? Oh, I did come here yesterday. I was waiting for the lady played dumb, admitting that she was a good pretender because he could not see anything wrong with her expressions thus