

Right Person 506

Chapter 506 Damn It

When Wendy saw Queenie in such a mess, she smiled and mocked her. "That serves you right!" Upon hearing the lady's words, Queenie was unhappy yet helpless since there was nothing she could do to Hayden with Wendy around.

When Anna arrived, she saw the tearful Hayden resting his head on Wendy's shoulder. Feeling sympathetic for her grandson, she quickly walked up to them and asked, "What's wrong? Why is Hayden crying?"

Wendy glared at Queenie and replied, "Who else do you think is to blame? You might want to ask that lady over there."

Queenie's face went pale as she explained, "No, it's not what it seems. I didn't do anything to him. It was Hayden. He peed on me."

Wendy, who had been unhappy with Queenie all the while, sniggered in response to the latter's explanation. "He wouldn't have peed on you if you hadn't bullied him. This is happening because of you!"

skin, the red mark that Queenie left behind after pinching him was obvious. Worried for the kid, Anna immediately came closer and lifted herself. She said, "W-Well, Hayden accidentally fell and cried, but when I Hayden couldn't talk properly, there was no way for her to prove Queenie's words.

he was crying just now, he couldn't stop shivering even after his and saw the mess in the room, knitting his eyebrows at the sight to Queenie in a cold manner, and the woman felt chills when she met his eyes. Queenie approached the man to explain herself, but much to her surprise, Colton realized that she was covered in Hayden's urine, so she stood from a distance and spoke to Colton. "I didn't do anything, Colton. Hayden Hayden in his arms, Colton only glanced at Queenie indifferently and turned his attention to Anna.

"Mom, I'm going to give Hayden a shower and tend to his

Make sure we don't miss out on any other wounds."