

Right Person 515

Chapter 515 Objection

Nicole's tone was heavy, emphasizing the importance of this matter. However, the man clung to his view. "After injecting the vaccine, my sister died within a week. The doctor said that there were toxins inside her body. Other than injecting the vaccine, she hadn't done anything!"

As the man spoke, Nicole was observing him, and it seemed like he was not lying. "Why don't you come to the research center with us? We will be responsible for your sister's death," she said.

However, the man looked at her with caution, for he did not trust her. "Why should I believe you? You are just brushing me off. You might even kill me!" He raised his eyes and looked at her skeptically.

man's words, Nicole burst out laughing. "You are so funny, sir. We are a standard medical institution. Moreover, there are many reporters here. We won't do anything to you." She had a faint smile on her face as she continued, "I'm sure there must be a misunderstanding dignified words of yours. You guys are all hats and no cattle. My sister died an unjustful death, yet you guys are holding a conference with ease. Shame on you for introducing such a problematic product to the public!" he ruckus right here. If you want to know how she died, someone would have to investigate it." Before the man could speak, she cut him off. "Could it be that you are here to disrupt the scene? Or are you blackmailing us words seemed to have struck a nerve in him. "Nonsense!

research center will man was at a loss for words. At last, he said in a small voice, "Her didn't you call us firsthand when your sister died because of the vaccine? All volunteers had our contact numbers. Secondly, if the vaccine was toxic, why did you cremate her body