

Right Person 516

Chapter 516 Being Ganged Up On

As the bodyguards escorted the man to the break room, people from the research center followed suit.

Although they had never encountered such a situation, they were sure their vaccine was not deadly. After all, they had done multiple tests on the lab rats before proceeding with clinical trials. Most of the medicine used at clinical trials would not harm the human body. Even if there was, it would not cause the death of someone.

“Why don’t we let the specialists handle this? I’m all for the vaccine being tested again to ensure there is nothing deadly inside,” the people from the research center said confidently.

Then, Nicole lowered her head and looked at the man while smiling. “Do you think that I’d believe your words? If there really was something wrong with the vaccine, why did you cremate her body and not keep it as evidence?”

The man trembled as he listened to her words. At first, he thought he could let this matter spread for a while, but he never expected Nicole to retort his words. As long as he kept saying that his sister was dead because of the vaccine, he would get a lot of money after all of this was over was, all he had to do was play innocent, saying that he was furious about his sister’s death to the point that I didn’t cremate her, what would I have done if the virus spread?” The man insisted, heard his words, she chuckled and looked at him. “This matter will put the country in a crisis. Are you sure that nothing sister died because of your vaccine. I’m not lying, and you guys can’t threaten me with this!” the man gritted his teeth and let’s investigate it. However, if you talk nonsense during the process, I don’t mind appealing a slander charge to make you stay was panicking. They didn’t know do? I’m sure that there is nothing wrong with this batch of vaccines. If it gets delayed, the virus will kill thousands of lives a day since the situation in Espad a dead case on their vaccine. Plus, all the reporters had heard the man’s words, and they would tell the public about this.

solve the man’s problem. Since there were many reporters at