

Right Person 521

Chapter 521 Nick's Help

At that moment, the man's perfect plan was being shattered into pieces—his sister had indeed died from cancer.

Then, Colton tugged on Nicole, making her snap out of her trance. She quickly walked up and said, "There is nothing wrong with our vaccine. Prior to using it in our clinical trials, we went through several experiments.

This batch of vaccines is made to save lives. We don't need to be famous for it, but we want to help those innocent lives with all our might." Her words won the applause of the reporters.

Seeing that his plan had failed, the man was devastated. After some time, he felt his strength coming back. Then, he raised his head and looked at Colton. "President Gardner, I didn't know that my sister died from cancer. I said those words only because someone told me that she died from taking the vaccine."

the man hoped that Colton could let him off the hook. In his heart, he was cursing the unknown man who had ordered him. Even though he told told the truth, I would've let you go. However, you didn't. You did this to yourself, prison for the rest of my life... No, absolutely not. My days are just beginning. How can this happen to supposed to save lives, but it has been delayed because of you. Based on the situation in Espad, thousands of lives are being lost every single day. Do you think you can looked at him. She had to admit that he was indeed was clarified, the vaccine that thought about doing something to him, but since there was no evidence, people would suspect that Nicole had bribed the doctor instead.

Pierre as Nicole and Colton had turned the tables over when he