

She is a ceo Chapter 147

Spencer came here at the risk of being discovered by Arthur that he was still in Athegate, but he had to say something to Juliana face to face.

“Spencer, still home?” Led downstairs, Juliana changed color when she saw Spencer.

“Yep, I am here to see you.” Spencer smiled and watched Juliana walking toward him.

As expected, Juliana was in low spirits and it was a good time.

“See me?” Juliana raised her eyebrows and wondered why Spencer suddenly showed concern for her.

They came to the living room and sat down. Spencer said, “A few days ago, I went to visit an old friend at Luawell Harmony Hospital. I saw you walking with a man there, I called you several times but you didn’t seem to hear me. In the blink of an eye, you were gone. Julia, are you sick?”

As soon as Spencer finished his words, he noticed that Juliana’s face turned pale and she shifted her gaze to the ground with a guilty look.

He smiled and said casually, “Why did you go to Luawell to see the doctor? Davonnis has invested in the hospital in Athegate. You can ask Arthur to take you to the hospital.”

“No!” Juliana raised her eyes abruptly and said in a hurry.

Spencer pretended to be surprised and raised his eyebrows. He didn’t say anything but waited for Juliana’s explanation.

“No need... I went to Luawell to see pink peach blossoms with my friend. I felt unwell due to some local cause, so I went to the hospital.” Juliana made up an excuse to cover up for herself. But she was very nervous and afraid that Spencer would tell Arthur about it.

“Really?” drawled Spencer. He said doubtfully, “I don’t think that’s true. You look so haggard. I am worried about you. How about I ask Arthur to take you to the hospital.”

“No!” Juliana shouted and stood up excitedly.

When she realized that she overreacted, she slowly sat down and tried to keep smiling.

“Don’t disturb yourself. I have been resting at home for several days.”

“Really?” Spencer looked at Juliana suspiciously.

“That’s good...” Juliana breathed a sigh of relief.

Her reaction amused Spencer, who thought it was so easy to read her thoughts.

Then he continued, “Julia, are you in a relationship with Arthur?”

Spencer’s question confused Juliana. She didn’t understand why he asked that.

Spencer explained, “Well, I have been with my friend since I came back. He is a celebrity in Athegate. I heard from him that you and Arthur often attended parties together, so I thought...”

"It's not what you think." Juliana denied his speculation. Though she misled everyone on purpose by doing so, it was not a good idea to make Spencer, Arthur's cousin, misunderstand her. So, she explained, "I'm his secretary intern, so I get the chance to show up with him."

"Is that so?" Spencer smiled and said with regrets, "I get happy too early."

"Spencer, what do you mean?" His words seemed to imply something, so Juliana looked up at him and asked.

"If you are with Arthur, Lucia will stand no chance, right?" Spencer didn't hide his disapproval of the relationship between Arthur and Lucia.

To break them up was exactly what she wanted to do, so Juliana calmed down a bit after hearing his words. Then she put on a self-mocking smile and said, "Even if I don't want them to be together, I don't stand a chance to be with Arthur."

Juliana's words revealed her intention. Spencer was surer that it was the right choice to come here today.

"Why not? You and Arthur grew up together and knew each other better and longer than anyone else. You are much better than Lucia, that calculating woman. Since your childhood, your parents have had the idea of arranging a marriage for you and Arthur. But you two have no crush on each other after so many years, so they could only give up the idea."

Spencer's words were an encouragement for Juliana. Before, she was worried about the attitude of Arthur's parents, so she didn't embrace Poppy's plan right away. But if Arthur's parents had the intention of arranging a marriage for her and Arthur, then...

"Spencer, you must be kidding." After pulling herself out of her head, she said casually, "Arthur and Lucia have a child. It's a gap between me and Arthur that I can't bridge."

“Can’t you?” Spencer didn’t seem to care about it and said, “Just a kid. He’s the eldest grandson of the Davies family as long as he is admitted. It doesn’t matter who his mother is.”

It would be insincere of Juliana to pretend that she didn’t understand after Spencer had put it so bluntly.

She asked Spencer carefully, “Spencer, do you think Arthur and I can be together?”

Juliana asked Spencer because he was a member of the Davies family, and she wanted to get some recognition from him.

“Of course, as long as you wish. Arthur cares more about you than any of his brothers. Don’t let the chance slip through your fingers.” Spencer convinced Juliana.

Juliana didn’t figure out why Spencer came to visit her until the end of that day, but what he said had been engraved on her memory.

Her remaining pity for Arthur slowly wore off because of his betrayal. For a moment, she didn’t know whom to trust, so she seemed to find the only savior when Kane called her.

She went out to make their meeting without any hesitation, but she didn’t expect Poppy would also be there when she arrived at the rendezvous.

Smart as Juliana was, she asked Kane immediately, “Did you tell her?”

“Julia, I’m sorry. I just think that Poppy can feel the same way as you, so...” Seeing Juliana’s haggard look, Kane felt very distressed for her. When he heard her question, he was guiltier. But Juliana laughed instead of getting angry after hearing his apology.

“Never mind. I was about to tell her.” After saying that, Juliana shifted her gaze to Poppy with hatred in her eyes.

Poppy was a shrewd woman. Seeing Juliana’s expression, she chuckled and said, “You’ve read the report, right? Do you still think friendship counts more than a love relationship? Do you still think Arthur is worth your trust?”
