

She is a ceo Chapter 260

Did Jacob have no ability? He was very capable, but unfortunately, an ant will never be able to match an eagle.

Talking with Poppy who was sitting on the sofa, Kane helped her to make plans to deal with Jacob, but he was relaxed and his demeanor was relaxed. He didn't look nervous at all but just waited the nightfall.

Soon, night fell, and Poppy was tired from the journey all day. In addition, she was much more relaxed. She informed Kane and went to take a shower. She was so calm as if she was the hostess here.

Poppy entered the bathroom while Kane went to the window again to check. The car parked downstairs was always there, and under the reflection of the street lights, white smoke could be seen from the window. It seemed that those few people had waited impatiently.

To be honest, Kane was more impatient than them.

"Kane, I'm done." Just as Kane was observing the situation downstairs, he heard Poppy's voice and turned around. And his eyes widened immediately.

At the corner of the living room, Poppy's wet hair was dripping, and she was only wrapped in a bath towel.

"Poppy, what are you doing!?" Kane resisted for a while, looked away in disgust, and scolded in a low voice.

"Kane, you promised to help me. It's not just for years of friendship, right?" Poppy's red lips pouted, and her soft voice exuded charm, but she didn't know that her actions were wishful thinking to the extreme.

"Then what else can I do it for?" Kane asked in a low voice, hiding the disgust in his heart.

Poppy chuckled lightly, raised her hand and brushed her long hair. Then she walked slowly towards Kane and said with a smile,

“Kane, you don’t have to hide it anymore. I’m willing to give myself to you now. After this is done, we will enjoy the glory and wealth together.”

It was no use looking away, because Poppy was already in front of Kane at this point, and staring at him.

There was only one idea in Kane’s mind right now. Poppy was really like a slippery snake.

Resisting the urge to push her away, Kane frowned and looked up at the ceiling and said, “Poppy, I really don’t mean that. Go and put on your clothes first.”

Otherwise, it will be more embarrassing later.

Poppy gritted her teeth when she heard the words. She was so active. Could it be that Kane was really indifferent?

Impossible!

Poppy confidently denied this idea. Kane had always been infatuated with her, and it was absolutely impossible for him to sit still in the face of her. It was estimated that he wanted to play hard.

Having confirmed this idea, Poppy smiled again and wanted to continue.

Kane was startled and quickly pushed Poppy away when the doorbell rang, which startled both of them.

Poppy looked at the door in horror, and asked Kane with a trembling voice, "Kane, who is it so late?!"

"Go and change first. I'll take a look." Kane said calmly, walked towards the door but did not expect to be stopped by Poppy after taking two steps forward.

"Kane, don't go! I have a premonition!" Poppy said nervously.

"It's alright. If it were Jacob's people, they wouldn't have waited until now. I usually have a good relation with my neighbors. I guess it's the person next door. I'll answer the door." Kane didn't listen to Poppy's suggestion and insisted on opening the door.

Poppy was horrified and held onto Kane as the doorbell rang louder, making the atmosphere in the room even more anxious.

Just when Kane and Poppy were at a stalemate, the bell at the door stopped abruptly. Poppy just took a breath, only to hear the sound from the other side of the door, which seemed to be the movement of moving the door lock.

"Kane..." Hearing this voice, Poppy had the sobbing tone. She clutched Kane's arm tightly and hid behind him. And her heart beat rapidly.

"It's okay. It shouldn't be..." Kane patted Poppy's hand to reassure her, but before he could finish speaking, the door was pushed open with a bang sound. And the people who entered were the ones that Poppy knew all too well. The three killers.

"Ah!" A scream rang out, and Poppy let go of Kane and ran towards the room without even thinking twice. Kane watched as she abandoned him and ran away. The next second, three killers rushed into the room. One held Kane, and the other two went after Poppy.

Kane was pressed down on the sofa, without the slightest resistance, but with a calm expression on his face. This was what he was expecting to happen, but Poppy, who was caught from the room by two killers, was not so calm. She was escorted to the living room and was already sweating profusely. Her tears poured down her face. Her face was as pale as a zombie, and her clothes were disheveled. She was really embarrassed at this time.

The three killers had both Kane and Poppy on the sofa, and they were both tied back. The situation seemed irreversible, and at this time, Poppy was still complaining about Kane.

“I said long ago not to come back...I said it long ago...It’s all your fault...Now we’ve all been caught...” Poppy’s voice trembled with fear, complaining about Kane with a crying voice, while watching in horror the three cold killers.

“I was negligent.” Kane replied with guilt.

“What’s the use of talking about this now?” Poppy said miserably, “We’re all going to die...”

She clearly mentioned the word “die” herself, but she was most afraid of it. As soon as she finished speaking, she felt a surge of gastric juices, and she almost fainted in fear.

The killers seemingly were displeased with Poppy’s babble and said sharply to let her shut up. One of the killers called for Jacob’s opinion.

While the killer was talking on the phone, Kane whispered to Poppy who was beside him, “Poppy, haven’t you come to realized your error yet? It’s all your own fault. If it wasn’t for your greed, how could we suffer it now?”

Poppy glared at Kane when she heard this. He still persuaded her to wake up at this time?

“Kane, are you stupid? You still have the time to tell me this!?” Afraid of annoying the killers, Poppy lowered her voice angrily.

“Not now but in hell?” Kane said coldly.

“Poppy, think about what you’ve done in the past. Which one will make you exempt from punishment? Lucia is sincere to you, but you used her feelings to take everything from her. Jacob can use Lucia, can’t he use you?”

Poppy had nothing to say.
