

She is a ceo Chapter 357

"I will. I didn't expect Jacob to do it again," Lucia sneered. "It turns out to be Poppy, who was once part of it."

Poppy just said what Lucia said. Kane sighed with emotion and said to Lucia, "Poppy herself knows this. She has been reflecting on it. With her tone tonight, she really regrets it."

"If that's the case, then I'll let Daphne find an opportunity to give her the book and let her report Jacob in person, so that you won't be in an embarrassing situation," said Lucia.

"But, Jacob is now sending people to monitor us 24 hours a day. It may be difficult for the book to be brought in." Kane said worriedly.

"It's okay. I have my own way of doing this. If Jacob can't find the book, he will do something desperate in a hurry. You must be careful about your own safety. I will ask Arthur to send more people over there. If there is anything happening, just shout and make a move." Lucia exhorted.

"Okay, I see." Kane responded, and the two hung up the phones.

The next day, as Kane said, the scandal of Poppy cheating on Jacob with a personal lawyer, spread all over the streets of Athegate. And it was even revealed that she had transferred the company's property to her lover's company. All of a sudden, there were public opinions of this pair of adulterers.

And Jacob was not idle either. He asked his subordinates to post a message on a well-known social platform. The general content was that an assistant in the company, Daphne, stole important information about the company. Now the police can't find her. Hope The majority of netizens can assist in finding this person, and those who provide effective clues will be rewarded with 200,000 dollars.

Daphne's photo, ID card information, home address, and phone number were all exposed on the Internet, which caused a sensation for a while. The temptation of 200,000 was too great, and the power of netizens was endless. It was only one afternoon. Daphne's hometown was found, but unfortunately she was not there. And her parents were harassed. In desperation, her parents called Daphne, but Daphne's phone had been turned off due to the constant harassment.

In the evening, several men came to Daphne's hometown to pick up her parents and put them in a luxury hotel in the city, before Daphne's parents got in touch with their daughter.

"Dad, Mom, are you all right?" Daphne asked anxiously as soon as the phone was connected.

"It's alright. Daphne, are those men really called by you?" Daphne's father asked worriedly.

"Well, my friend sent those people to settle you down. Dad, don't worry about those who come to your door. Just stay in the hotel. Let's go home when things quiet down." Daphne comforted.

"Daphne, what the hell did you do? Why are so many people approaching our home and calling you a thief?" Daphne's father continued to ask.

"That's all nonsense," Daphne replied. "Don't worry. I've never done anything illegal. I'm just in some trouble right now, but I have a good friend helping me. I'm safe now. Dad, tell mom, don't worry too much."

"That's good. Take good care of yourself." Although there were still too many questions in his heart, Daphne's father still chose to trust his daughter and did not forget to tell her to take care of herself.

"Okay, I will." Daphne hung up the phone reluctantly after she finished speaking, and returned the phone to Eduard. Lucia and Arthur were in the living room.

"Lucia, thank you for sending people to rescue my parents." Looking up, Daphne immediately thanked Lucia.

“Daphne, you’re in this situation because of me. I am flattered.” Lucia frowned slightly and said guiltily.

“Don’t worry. The people I’ve sent are my security guards. They can absolutely keep your parents safe,” Arthur added.

It turned out that as soon as the news of Daphne’s information was revealed today, Lucia reacted immediately after learning it. She told Daphne to shut her phone down directly, and asked Arthur to send someone to settle her parents down. Because the home address on Daphne’s ID card was also exposed, her parents was still being harassed, but luckily Arthur’s men were quick to take them away from their home.

Daphne nodded when she heard the words. How could she be worried? It just made her feel a little guilty to implicate her parents so she asked Lucia, “Lucia, what should we do next?”

“Now Poppy doesn’t know that the book is with me. Jacob went to her to make troubles. She has determined that the book was successfully stolen by you, so all we have to do now is to send the book to her.” Lucia said.

“Send her the book?” Daphne frowned, “Is it okay to give her this important stuff?”

“It doesn’t matter. Poppy is now against Jacob. After she gets the book, she will take it to report Jacob, which is more beneficial to us. I have backed up the book. Even if Poppy doesn’t do this, we still have evidence in our hands.” Lucia explained.

“Okay.” Of course Daphne listened to Lucia’s words, and nodded obediently after listening.

“Now, write as I said.” Lucia took a paper and pen prepared on the table to Daphne. She said and Daphne wrote what she said. After writing, she put the note in the book and handed it over to Arthur.

Putting the pen on the table, Daphne thought about it and then said, "Lucia, you must be careful with Poppy. She is a fickle person. Maybe she will change her mind in the next second, so don't be careless."

"I know." Touched by Daphne's thoughtfulness, Lucia patted the back of her hand lightly and asked her, "Is it okay to live here? Did Eduard bully you?"

Eduard, who had been silent for a while, was unhappy when he heard this, and immediately stood up and said, "What is bullying? I'm busy serving her with tea and food!"

Lucia smiled. Of course she knew that Eduard had not been to the company for two days in order to take care of Daphne. She signed all the important documents herself, so she just wanted to liven up the atmosphere. To liven up the atmosphere, joking with Eduard was the best and effective way.

Lucia meant to joke, but Daphne took it seriously. She said to Lucia solemnly, "Lucia, Eduard has been really good to me. He has been taking care of me for the past two days. Don't get him wrong."

Seeing Daphne speaking for Eduard seriously, not only Lucia and Arthur, but even Eduard himself couldn't help laughing. Lucia said,

"Daphne, I'm joking, but I'm relieved to hear you say that and as long as Eduard takes good care of you."
