

She is a ceo Chapter 448

Sophie saw that her son was already shocked and stunned. And a look of helplessness appeared on his face, so she leaned down and began to wipe the cold sweat from Lucia's forehead, patted her cheek. At the same time, Edwin immediately called the butler and asked him to immediately prepare a towel and warm water for Lucia.

Lucia fainted when she was overly frightened. After a while, she woke up under Sophie's care.

When she opened her eyes, her tears ran down the corners of her eyes. Lucia stared at the ceiling in a daze, thinking about the terrible name and the way Theodore was suffering from illness.

"Lucia..." Seeing her like this, Sophie was so heartbroken that she called her softly. Seeing that she didn't respond, she turned to look at her son, who was also in a daze, and said sharply,

"Arthur! Wake me up! I know you're shocked and sad now, but Lucia's pain is a hundred times worse than yours. If you can't bear it now, whom will Lucia and Teddy rely on?!"

Sophie had taught her four sons harshly since they were small. They will one day become someone's husband and someone's father, so they must have a sense of responsibility. Even if they encountered a sudden change, they should be calm and be strong and fierce guardian for the person they loved the most!

Sophie's words woke Arthur up. He tried his best to regain his sense, turned his head to look at Lucia. Seeing the tears in her eyes, Arthur's heart tightened with pain. He stretched out his hands and hugged Lucia directly. The pain was shared at this time. He said,

"Lucia, calm down first. Since my parents can insist on coming back to inform us of the news, it means that there must be a treatment plan for Teddy's condition. Shall we listen to what my parents have to say first?"

Lucia's eyes flashed when she heard Arthur's words, and finally there was a glimmer of light in her eyes. She wiped away the tears from the corners of her eyes, and hurriedly took out her mobile phone to inquire about the details of the malignant lymphoma. After reading it with Arthur, Lucia immediately cheered up and asked Sophie,

"Sophie, are you guys looking for a match?"

"Yes, this is what Esmee asked us to do. The matching objects are three generations of immediate family members under the age of 60. Edwin and I have tested it in New York. We are not suitable. Lucia, Teddy's condition is not insignificant. There is hope. Even the possibility of cure is very high, as long as we can find a bone marrow donor. Although I know it will embarrass you for saying this, you must be strong at this time. If you and Arthur are depressed, then how will Teddy cheer up?"

Sophie looked at Lucia distressedly and said, encouraging her with a mother's love.

"I know," Lucia was no longer at a loss. She was never one to turn away from hope, so she turned to look at Arthur, and continued,

"Arthur, without further ado, let's find the right match with your parents."

Arthur raised his hand to touch Lucia's face and said, "I thought you'd rather take care of Teddy right away."

"No, find a match first," Lucia said firmly. "Teddy is a brave boy. I can't just hug him and cry with empty hands. I want to go back to him with hope."

Hearing Lucia's words, Edwin couldn't help but praise. Even Sophie was moved by Lucia's words, stood up and said,

“Lucia is right! The most important thing now is to find someone who matches Teddy’s bone marrow type. After we find this person, we will bring him or her directly to Chicago. This is the greatest encouragement and concern for Teddy.”

Peter, who had been listening by the side, didn’t need instructions, and immediately went down to arrange the vehicle. Lucia asked Arthur to take her home to get something first, and made an appointment with Edwin and Sophie to meet at the airport.

Wrapping Lucia’s waist, Arthur took her to the garage. As he walked, he felt the pressure on his hand increasing. When he turned his head, Lucia was crying again, and her body was shaking uncontrollably.

Arthur didn’t know that Lucia was just trying to endure the grief and pretend to be strong at home, not wanting to make his parents more worried. Even he couldn’t bear the blow of this news, let alone Lucia, who was a mother.

“Lucia, lean on me and cry for a while. We’ll go after we’re done crying.” Arthur patted her on the shoulder and said softly as he pulled Lucia into his arms.

She was indeed sad and the tears can’t be stopped.

“Why...” Lucia complained unwillingly while choking, “Our Teddy is so good, so sensible... Why let him get that kind of disease...”

With a heavy sigh, Arthur remained silent and also wanted to know the answer to.

In the garage, Lucia vented and cried for a long time. Her beautiful big eyes were red, and Arthur’s nose was already sore. But as a man, he had to force everything and never let the tears fall, just to let his women and child to rely on him.

After they calmed down a little, Arthur drove Lucia home and simply packed some clothes. Then the two rushed to the airport together. After meeting with Edwin and Sophie, the four people took Theodore's blood sample to Mokio.

After arriving at Mokio, Lucia asked Edwin not to disturb the relatives first. She and Arthur went to the hospital to have their blood types tested, but unfortunately the matching was unsuccessful. They were Theodore's biological parents after all, and they would have done anything to save him. But there was nothing they could do, and that kind of powerlessness can really drive them crazy. Fortunately, Sophie comforted the two, and they did not lose hope, so they returned to the old house together.

Although Edwin was not the most senior one in the Davonnis Corp, he was definitely the most influential one. As soon as he returned to the house, he explained the reason to the elders. The elders had also seen Theodore who was eccentric and talented. Everyone loved the kid, so with an order, the family members who met the conditions rushed back from all over the country, and they were obligatory to participate in this rescue operation.

Less than a day, all the relatives who met the conditions came back. Edwin and the others simply lived directly next to the best hospital in Mokio. Edwin was a charitable fund provider of this hospital. The president of the hospital directly ordered to open a special channel for him, on the premise of not affecting the condition of other major patients. There was no need to wait for blood tests as long as his relatives came the hospital which will conduct the test for them as soon as possible.

For this blood test, everyone was actively participating. Whether selfish or not, everyone wanted to match with Theodore's type. Once the match was successful, not only can they save a smart child, but also become Edwin's benefactor. What a blessing this would be. The glory and wealth of the second half of their life may be here in one fell swoop.
