

She is a ceo Chapter 464

"If it was Teddy, I could understand Lucia's reaction..." Eduard murmured.

Compared with other people's understanding, the straightforward Juliana was extremely indignant. She widened her eyes and said angrily, "Did Lucia and Arthur think of us as friends!? they didn't tell us what happened to Teddy!"

"Miss Julia, I think Arthur just doesn't want you to worry..." Peter got used to it, and hurriedly spoke for Arthur.

"Bullshit!" Juliana was so angry that she swore, "What are friends for?! They help and support each other. When something goes wrong, they solve it by themselves. They treat us as air?! I don't care. I will go find them!"

Although Juliana's words were straight, the affection was real.

"Miss Julia, calm down first," Eduard saw Kane frown slightly, and immediately understood what he meant, so he said,

"You still need to take care of the baby now. USA is too far away. Even if you can bear it, the baby will suffer, and Kane, you can't go. Now Lucia has no time to take care of the company because of Teddy's illness. The only one whom she trusts and relies on is you, and you must stay and take care of it for Lucia."

Kane glanced at Eduard gratefully. What he said was exactly what he meant. It wasn't that Kane didn't want to visit Theodore, nor that he wanted to stop Juliana from caring, but now they both had their own responsibilities, especially him. Staying can help Lucia. He will let her have no worries. He believed that Arthur's previous concealment was considering these.

“Then who will go?” Juliana also knew that Eduard had a point, but there had to be someone among them to see what happened to Teddy.

“Of course me,” Eduard replied immediately. “I will fly to USA tomorrow, and I will let you know the situation as soon as I arrive.”

Kane and Juliana looked at each other and both agreed with Eduard’s suggestion. Now, it seemed that the most suitable person to go to USA was indeed him.

“Eduard, I want to go too...” Daphne, who had been silent for a long time, spoke at this time. Hearing that Lucia was now worried about the child’s condition, Daphne felt more sorry for her than anyone else.

“Okay, just ask Kane to give you a leave of absence.” Eduard wanted to take Daphne with her. She admired Lucia so much that being alone would only make her uneasy every day.

“Okay, then it’s settled,” Juliana said. “It’s up to you two.”

Eduard and Daphne nodded, and the next day they embarked on a journey to New York. It was the first time for Daphne to go abroad, and it was the first time in her life to take a plane, so she followed Eduard closely wherever he went. Of course, Eduard would protect her well.

In the morning, it was past work hours, but Nia still didn’t see Daphne. She was ranting about Daphne’s ignorance of work hours because of Lucia’s favor, so she called her angrily, wanted to ask some questions, and vented by the way. She didn’t expect that her phone was turned off. Of course, she didn’t know that Daphne was already on the plane, so the phone would naturally be turned off.

“Lucia didn’t come here for a few days and she dares to miss work. When Lucia comes back, I will definitely tell her about that!” Nia put down her phone and muttered angrily. At this moment, Kane appeared in front of her and looked at her coldly.

Kane heard Nia's self-talk. He never disliked Nia, and he knew that she was very sincere to Lucia. Although he didn't have much contact with her, he still recognized her very much because of Lucia. After hearing her complaints, Kane felt that he had to re-examine this person.

When noticing Kane, Nia was so frightened that she shuddered, thinking nervously whether he had heard what she said just now.

"Miss Davidson, are you busy?" Kane said lightly when he saw she was looking at him.

"Yes, sorting files. Mr. Fletcher, what's going?" Nia replied embarrassedly while pretending to fiddle with the folder at hand.

"Miss Cook has taken a leave of absence and won't come to work for the next few days. The information handed will be managed by your first," said Kane.

"Okay, I'll do my job well," Not knowing if it was because of a guilty conscience, Nia was very obedient to Kane. Thinking that he was Lucia's friend, Nia asked aloud,

"Mr. Fletcher, do you know where Lucia went?"

Kane frowned slightly. He didn't care whether Nia and Lucia had a good relation or not, but it was very impolite for a subordinate to ask about the whereabouts of a superior. He said in a cold voice,

"You just need to manage your work. As for Lucia, she'll come back when she's done."

"Yes." Nia sensed Kane's displeasure and nodded immediately.

Kane glanced at Nia and said casually, "Also, you and Miss Cook are both trusted by Lucia. I hope you don't suspect each other. This will only cause trouble for Lucia."

Nia shrank immediately upon hearing this, and sure enough, Kane heard what she had just said to herself.

Having a reluctant smile on her face, Nia repeatedly said “yes” to Kane. When he finally left, the smile on her face disappeared in an instant, and was replaced by an annoyed look.

“Even Kane speaks for Daphne! Damn!”

Feeling extremely depressed, Nia immediately took out her mobile phone and called her boyfriend Lennie to complain, because no one cared about her anyway. After listening to a few words, Lennie focused on,

“Did Lucia just leave without even thinking about the company?”

Nia frowned and said, “Lennie, I’m complaining to you now. You don’t have to care what Lucia does.”

“Do you know where she went?” Lennie continued to ask, ignoring Nia.

Although she was reluctant, Nia answered truthfully, “I don’t know. I can’t get through by calling her, but with Kane’s tone, it seems that there is something urgent that needs to be dealt with.”

“I see. I won’t be here tonight. Take care of yourself.” Lennie’s voice was deep, and he hung up the phone.

Nia stared at her phone for a long time, getting even more angry.

When did he start caring about Lucia so much?!

Nia didn't know that, after hanging up, Lennie really only cared about Lucia's movements.

"Monty, get my phone." Lennie put the phone down and asked Monty to get another personal phone for him. He has a phone number that even Nia didn't know.

"What's the matter?" Monty asked lazily on the sofa.
