36. James

This part is going to be in James' POV. I don't know how good this will be and I don't know if I will end up deleting it later but just let us know how it comes out

Your comments are so nice and I'm glad people are enjoying this book!

P.S. This update is actually pretty long, so enjoy!

James POV:

I look over to the right as I hear Grace take in a sharp breath a an her father yells. I can see something out of the corner of my eye next to her and as an older woman with similar features to her slid.

When I look to see where her and Grace are connected is when I realize that there is a kitchen knife, in this woman's hand, and stabbed into Grace's side.

She says something quietly to Grace and then yanks the knife out before I can even react. I see Grace start to fall and quickly catch her and lower her to the ground. When I look back up to both Dante and Cole have the woman pinned to the wall next to the door and the knife is on the ground near her feet.

I quickly turn my attention back to Grace to see her eyes slowly closing.

All of this chaos happened, in a matter of seconds.

Cole and Grace are her eyes drooping.

"Somebody call the yards doctor! NOW!" I look back at Aria to see her with tears in her eyes and my parents holding her, "MOM 4EVA, or she will DIE!" I look back down at my mate to see her almost asleep and she can't save consciousness or there is now telling what could happen to her.

"Come on, baby, GRACE! Can you hear me? Stay with me baby, come on!" I shake her arms and both of our hands are firmly pressing into the side trying to stop the bleeding. I sense Jon shaking and I can't help it but tears are in my eyes.

What if Grace dies?

I won't be able to lead my pack properly.

I wouldn't be able to function properly.

I couldn't live without this tiny girl in my arms.

And if she makes it out of this I will spend the rest of my life pampering her and reminding her everyday of how important she is to me, how much of an amazing and beautiful person she is, and how much I am irrevocably in love with her.

She has to make it.

She is my world and I can literally feel her life draining away from her right in my hands. And there is nothing I can do.

Not even a minute passes before I am getting anxious again.

"Dammit! Where is that doctor?" I look up to the door way right as an older woman comes through.

"Alpha I need you to let be go so I can look, I am Dr. Kelly"

Dr. Kelly. I'd known all the blood will continue to flow, I'm trying to apply pressure to her wound but it's not much help. What else can I do to help me? I look at her pleading.

"Okay, then one of you is going to have to carry her to the hospital room while the other keeps pressure. I have nurses waiting for her ready to operate if necessary and with blood transfusions, really can you do that?"

I quickly nod my head and tell Cole to keep the pressure. I quickly pick her up with Cole keeps the shirt on her side and we rush to the hospital wing. I put her down in a room where all the nurses are waiting and just then all the adults. Cole and I let go and are we exactly as ushered out of the room, but not without protests from both of us.

One nurse looks at us both with a stern look.

"Listen I know you both want to help, but the more time we spend trying to get you to wash outside is less time we are spending taking care of her! She doesn't have a lot of time before we can't help her anymore! So you can make this very wet and do our job, or endanger the life of your mate and your Alpha's then you're getting in the?"

Cole and I quickly exit the room a air that and sit on the waiting chairs in the hall. We are both covered in blood but neither of us dare to leave that hallway. Hours go by and by the time night time comes everybody from my pack lifter came, along with their parents and my parents are waiting in the hallway.

Everyone just sits in the chairs or on the floor against the walls. Everybody in a sullen mood, some crying silently.

I haven't spoken a word since we're her in the room and all I can do is think about the fact that my mate is dying, and there is absolutely nothing I can do about it.

A air an hour of replaying the situation over and over in my head, I realize how many things I could have done to protect her. I could have been closer, I could have just someone guarding behind her. There was nobody guarding the door to the kitchen through the dining room.

We knew the reason we were coming is because of her aunt and we never knew if she had people working with her in the pack. We were going into this blind and we should have been more careful. I can see how myself getting more and more angry as time goes by.

I should have been her! I should have stopped this!

I could have protected Grace! She wouldn't be in pain! And she certainly wouldn't be close to death!

This is all my fault!

My wolf and I keep going back and forth of how we should have protected her wolf quickly raced from my seat taking rapid breaths and I pick my chair up and throw it down the hallway as it shatters and I continue pacing.

Everyone around me gasps and I am trying to control my anger, I really am but all I want to do is to whoever that woman was and to her twin both from birth and kill her slowly. So she knows what it's like to watch her whole life pass before her eyes as I have done.

"James!" I hear a broke cry to my le. I look over and see my mom crying with her face in her mother hands and tears in her eyes.

"Mom please just don't come near me" I took a deep breath, "I can, I just cant stop blaming myself. I should have seen her! I should have stopped her before she could do that! I should have protected my mate! I couldn't even do that! Now her unwanted things she has been through and it just makes me so angry! She doesn't deserve any of this!" I punched another wall and put my head in the palms of my hands I created. I can feel the rage inside of me as I lean both my hands against the wall and my head looking heavily.

Then I feel a small hand on my back, I turn to my right and see my mom looking at me, tear streaks stains going down her face.

"Her baby I know she doesn't, but think about Grace, would she be okay with you blaming yourself?" She rubs her hands in circles on my back and I can feel myself calming down a little.

"No! She wouldn't! I've read at me at all! And thats what kills me! She is so nice to everybody! She deserves to be mad at me! This is my fault!" I turn around and look at my mom, tears welling up in my eyes.

"What will I do without her Momma! I can't lose her" the tears spill over and before I know it I collapse into the ground and bring my knees up to my chest and lean my head back onto the wall. Tears staining their way down my face. I am a monster for Grace for a reason I will never forgive myself of she dies.

I feel someone who am ground me shoulders and open them to see my mom on my le side hugging me. She is sitting on her knees next to me and I can hear her sni ling and crying.

"I know baby, I know you can't, but she is strong, she will make it out of this and you won't have to live her baby!" She talks in the way she knows I believe it's hope but hack and I am crying on her shoulder.

No. I lay Alpha mate, crying on his mothers shoulder. I have always been a Mommy's boy but this is the first time I have ever cried like this since I was a child.

All I can think about is the horrible life Grace has had and what she has had to endure, and so far I haven't protected her for anything I am failing in my job as her mate.

About an hour or my room hugged me, calmed me down, and sat next to me on the ground. The Dr. Kelly came out. I can see blood on her scrubs and I'm not sure if it is eating that as a good sign. Or not.

I scramble to my feet and I'm in front of her in a matter of seconds.

She looks at the crowd in the hallway and then finds me so I get closer and begin talking.

"She is stabilized for now. The knife missed any major organs by centimeters, she was seriously lucky, but the next 24 hours are crucial. She lost a lot of blood and we gave her transfusions but I'm not sure how much that helped or how her body will take them. She is in a weak state before and recovering from whatever her problems were before but now it is putting more strain on her body while trying to heal this wound too. If she makes it through the next day or so, I think she will recover perfectly fine. But even if she does make it, her body will be very weak for weeks. Her body isn't healing as it normally would and I'm not sure why. I'm not sure if it is because of her soul link to her mate down the hallway but I am sorry."

"Can I get and see her?" She looks at me hesitantly.

"You but only three people in there at a time" she pauses and takes a deep breath, "Alpha, I have to warn you, she is hooked up to a couple machines, and there are tubes, wires, and IV's. It's not going to look like you and I want to scare any of those. You can hold her hand, but I do not try and wake her up or move her in any way, do you understand?" she looks at all of me. I nod my head and I'm sure the entire room can hear my heart beating.

I nod my head and I'm sure the entire room can hear my heart beating.

I walk in the room and just like the doctor said, there are tubes, IV's and wires everywhere. She is literally pale on the bed although I know that is because she lost so much blood. I can't even imagine how much blood her sweater, she wouldn't have had to endure so much. That is my fault. Her bra is my fault. Her hair is my fault. Once again I couldn't protect her from her aunt or her aunt's followers.

I think back to the rescue Grace had to endure and compared to that, my life has been good. It was ok but with training and learning how to run a pack. But I wouldn't trade it for anything. Sometimes I wish I could take away all of Grace's memories and pain from her time with those rogues.

She may be fine but I know it stills haunts her. She whispers in her sleep sometimes and occasionally gets nightmares. Even when she tells me it's nothing, I know it's all she can think about sometimes and I really don't know how she does it. She is one of the strongest people I know and I wouldn't trade her for the world.

She is my world.

I look back at Grace and focus on all of her features, noticing all of the small scars and marks she has all over her body. I can't help but smile as I notice a pattern to get these scars. All of the bruises, the many angle cut of burn skates for that much more substantial.

"James, this isn't your fault. You didn't know. How could you? Even I never expected this from Molly. I still can't understand wildly she would do something like this." her dad looks at me, genuinely confused.

"Molly? That was Grace's Aunt Molly?" I said on them as soon as I connect the dots. I should have known

"Yeah?" her moves answer warily, "why?"

I shake my head dismissing the question, instead asking more of my own.

"Where is she?" I ask.

"She is held in a cell in the basement until we figure out what happened" he dad answers this time, still looking lost and confused.

"Keep her there. Do not let her go, keep a good eye on her at all times" I say sternly. Her parents look more confused but just nod their heads slowly. I see her dads eyes glow over for a couple seconds before he focuses back on the room and Grace.

"Where is Grace's sister?" I ask warily. From what I know, if she were at the pack house, she would have been all over Grace from the second she walked through the door.

"She was out with about 3 guards hunting down more rogues. She is about a week ago and we were expecting her to be on my way." he turns to look back at Grace, still holding her other hand.

I nod my head and look at Grace's dad, "Molly?" I question and he nods my eyebrows.

"It's done, she will always have a guard on her. Can you tell me why am guarding my sister-like a prisoner?" he questions sounding annoyed.

"That thing should be considered the farthest thing from family" I spit out with disgust. I look and see rage cover the dads face before I quickly speak again, not wanting to get into a fight with Grace's dad, "she is involved in the kidnapping and everything that happened to Grace over the past ten years," I state firmly.

She took looks I see her parents face and they look back at Grace still slightly confused.

"That makes no sense" the dad exclaims.

"Sir, I know you wouldn't want to believe it, but it's true. I have seen Grace's memories. She showed them to me while she was trying to tell me about her past. She couldn't even explain it, she just showed me the awful things she had to endure. When I found her she was unconscious in the middle of the forest. She was in her wolf form and according to what she told me, she had been ridden like her own personal bike. I met her. She has been at my pack for a couple weeks, never talks and barely eats. The bruise you see now is far all. I even have the scared Grace I found a month ago. She doesn't like meeting new people, has constant panic attacks, and gets jumpy and scared at any loud noises. She was about 15 pounds lighter than she is now, and according to the doctors, she still needs to gain more to be at a healthy weight. And if you saw all of the scars she has on her body, you would wonder how a person could have gone through so much pain and still come out as amazing as she is." I stop and stare at my mate. I stand up and move closer to her, pushing a strand of hair out behind her ear.

"I am not telling this to spit you, I am telling you this because you have a right to know. You also need to know why your sister, Molly, can never be let go. When Grace wakes up, I will give her the option of telling you what she wants and you can do what you will with the information. But for right now, the only way to tell" with that I sit back down and grab Grace's hand again.

Staring at her,

willing her to be okay,

to make it through this alive.

I register her mom squish sobs and her dads sni ling while trying to comfort his wife.

About a half an hour a my my speech and her parents calmed down from the new information, they convinced me to shower in the bathroom attached to Grace's hospital room, saying they would have Cole bring me some clothes and they would get me call some food. They insisted on the shower and eating, saying Grace wouldn't like it if I wasn't eating because I was worried about her.

And it's totally true, it would make her sad to see me sad, or anyone else for that matter. She is just too nice.

Cole came down in 45 mint clothes and he probably showered to wash away all the blood he had on him from carrying Grace to the hospital. Grace. He hands me some clothes as I went to shower as her were parents leaving, promising to bring back with food. Cole can tell he would stay with her, while I showered. I trusted him to get me the second anything happened. I planned on a quick shower anyways.

I went to the bathroom, stripped a what work to of my dirty shorts, put putting them in the trash and jumping in the shower. I showered and washed all the dried blood a of me relatively quickly and get out.

I quickly put on the basketball shorts and white v-neck Cole brought me and walked out the door.

When I walked in the door Cole was standing looking towards the doorway, a confused look on his face while moving left a forth, pacing around the sign of 10 mixed in the doorway, tears in her eyes while she leaned at Grace on the bed.

"Who are you?" I practically growled out. Not even a second later Cole growled at me and I took over to him and vowed my eyebrows. Since when would Cole growl at me, for anything?

As if noticing my presence for the first time, the girl turned around to see Cole and they both stared at each other in the eyes. She broke the stare and looked directly at me.

"I'm Adeline, and who are you? Why is my mate, in the room of my sister who has been missing for two years?" she looks between Cole and I as she speaks, you can see the confusion written across her face.
