

Silly Teen 43

Chapter 43

Guan Dongxuan was finally unable to hold back his outburst.

“What do you mean by sycophantic? How did you treat Chao before, have you forgotten?” Xu Dazhi was still standing in my shoes, helping me to respond to Guan Dongxuan.

“Xu Dazhi, who are you again? Jin Chao hasn’t even spoken yet!” That was how Guan Dongxuan topped back.

“Chao, what are you guys doing here?”

Cao Ge and the others suddenly appeared.

“I’m here for dinner. Why did you guys come over too?” I looked at him with some confusion.

As he listened to me, he instead pointed at me to Xu Dazhi at the side, meaning that Xu Dazhi had called him over. And I had no good impression at all of such an anti-bonehead as Xu Dazhi.

Cao Ge came up to me with his men and a cigarette in his mouth.

He asked me what was going on here, and I told him without much concern: it was just a little scuffle. But he waved at Guan Dongxuan in a very serious manner and called him to us.

“Guan Dongxuan, you can do it. Yesterday’s ten slaps were waived for you, and you still don’t know how to restrain yourself, and you still want to be arrogant in front of my Ah Chao. Are you looking for death?” Cao asked directly with a stern face. Along with his words, Zhao Yangbo and the others at the table, all the more, did not dare to speak.

“Brother Cao, because of a Jin Chao, there is no need to make the relationship between us so stiff, right?” Guan Dongxuan then asked.

“What the hell do you know! Do I need you to tell me what I want to do?” Cao Ge just topped it off with this statement.

I walked up and shook my head gently, “Cao, let’s forget it. Guan Dongxuan, don’t you have to go to the hospital? Hurry up and get out of here!”

But Guan Dongxuan was still frozen in place as he listened to my words.

“Why don’t you hurry up and get out, why are you standing here?” Cao Ge didn’t have any kind words for him.

He listened to Cao Ge’s words, and only then did he turn around and leave with resentment. I knew he was very unconvinced.

It was also after he left that Xu Dazhi, a few people, was taking the initiative to give Cao Ge and the others a seat. Cao Ge ordered some wine and approached us for a couple of drinks. Because of Cao Ge’s intervention, the people at the table were more ambiguous towards me. Once Cao Ge sat down next to me, there was no need to explain many things.

Over the course of the meal, both Zhao Yangbo and Guo Xiaoming turned against me! All took the initiative to fight with me!

“Chao, let’s go to the internet cafe later and play a couple of games?” Guo Xiaoming, who was usually very close to Guan Dongxuan, suggested.

“But I don’t know how to play games.” I said awkwardly.

“It’s okay, it’s just for fun.”

Cao Ge said with a chuckle.

“So what should we play later, LOL, or DOTA, or Overwatch?” Guo then asked at us. I listened to him, not even knowing what they were talking about. I had never been to an internet cafe before, nor had I ever been exposed to online games.

I had heard them talk about some of the LOL characters before, but I couldn’t understand any of it because I didn’t know anything about it.

Even the first time I came to an internet cafe, I couldn’t even find the boot button! It was Cao Ge, who was sitting next to me, who laughed while helping me turn on the machine.

And while I was still in novice training mode, they were having a great time in a group battle on the side. I watched their excitement, and my eyes, too, could not help but be drawn to them. Men, by nature, aspire to war and bloodlust. And the pattern of LOL is an abbreviated version of war.

“Crap, Chao, you actually even played the training mode for newbies to death?” Xu Dazhi on the side froze for a moment.

“Really?”

“Holy shit, it’s true!”

The crowd looked at my window and it was a roar of laughter. And I was even a little blushing, the reason why I died was also because I looked at Cao Ge’s platinum level operation and saw that I had forgotten even my own novice training.

“Chao, it’s better if I take you.” Xu Dazhi was laughing, but he was also willing to teach me some of these operations.

“So, are we still going to class this afternoon?”

“Go, my ass! What a winning streak!” Zhao Yangbo laughed harshly from the side.

During their team ranking, I was rather ignored by them. I had nothing to do with watching Cao Ge’s moves, some of which were particularly flashy and showy to the other team, and I had nothing to ask about them. For the first time, I experienced what it was like to skip class and also played 1V1 all afternoon in the company of Xu Dazhi.

“Chao, you can do it. It’s been a fast progress this afternoon!” Xu Dazhi complimented me, but I knew that he was just bragging about me more than anything else.

“Quick hands, just missing the action.” Cao Ge also commented from the sidelines.

“Chao, you’re just getting started, so don’t obsess over those showy operations either.” Guo reminded me.

“Yeah. It’s like my dad said, trying to fly before you can run. Haha

I listened to the joking tone of the crowd and didn’t take it to heart. But it was the sudden appearance of a group of people while we were playing. I had already familiarized myself with the basic operation of LOL, plus Xu Dazhi was only at the silver level. By the time 8pm rolled around, I was able to distract myself while operating.

I looked at the people standing at the door and was feeling a bit out of place. They seemed to be looking for someone to come over.

Guan Dongxuan then came in.

He led the gang, looked around, and locked on to our direction.

“Brother Cao, Guan Dongxuan is bringing someone here!”

Cao Ge’s little brother warned.

“Don’t care about him!” Cao continued to play the game.

“Cao Ge, what do you mean? What does it mean to target my brother? I don’t seem to have offended you in any way!” A man with big earrings in his ears, wearing a loose black vest and a big back haircut then walked over and spoke at Cao Ge in a very irritated manner.

But Cog simply didn’t care.

“Hey Cao Ge, did you hear me?” The man with the earrings asked at Cao Ge in a very irritated manner.

“Can’t you see I’m playing a game? Get out of the way, I don’t have time to talk to you right now.” Cao Ge responded arrogantly.

“Cao Ge, what you’re saying now is that you really want to make a big deal out of it? It’s not like you don’t know what conditions Dongxuan’s family and I are in. If we use our family’s power, just you, a little punk head, will have to disappear from Xuancheng tomorrow!” The man with the earrings threatened.

And when Cao Ge heard the other man’s words, he just let go of the game in his hand and turned his head’s to look at them.

“If you guys want to come, you can come. If you guys are so tough, are you as tough as 1908?” Cao Ge just said the same thing back.

“1908?” the earring man froze for a moment.

Cao Ge nodded: “Do you understand now? If you understand, then get lost!”

The man with the earring sneered, “Cao Ge, you’re blowing up your cowl now. 1908 can help a small player like you? Don’t be ridiculous!”

