

Skeletons 175

Chapter 175

Shawn had ordered not to allow surgery to save her child. Who dares to defy him?

“Doctor, what should I do? I really can’t lose my child...” she sobbed softly.

She thought, one day in the future when the child’s father appears, how should she explain it to him? Did she really fail?

The doctor replied, “Sorry, I... I can’t go against Mr. Wood’s intentions either. Also, he is your husband, and he has the right to decide.”

Husband... Hah.

Unexpectedly, the purpose of having the husband’s identity led to him being able to decide the life and death of her child.

Gale gritted her teeth. “I want to have an operation. I want to protect the child. My husband’s words don’t count! I also have the right to decide!”

“Then, the cost of the operation...”

Needless to say, that was like pouring cold water on Gale.

The money she did not have.

However, money is so important at a critical moment.

Could it be... she had to just slowly endorse her child losing signs of life little by little and leave her body?

No, no, think of a way. There must be a way...

Gale turned her head and looked at the door of the operating room.

Shawn has gone far and will not return. He must be by Susan’s side, guarding and coaxing patiently.

The difference between them was like day and night.

Gale took a deep breath and looked at the bright surgical lamp above her head, her vision gradually blurring...

At this moment, a name suddenly appeared in her mind.

Aurum!

Aurum once gave her a business card and personally said that if she encountered anything, she could always ask him for help!

Moreover, he said it more than once!

Gale suddenly rekindled hope.

At this moment, Aurum was the key to saving her baby!

Gale seemed to have grabbed the final sliver of hope, and her whole body suddenly regained strength. She could even barely support the operating table and get up slightly. "Mobile phone..." She looked at the nurse, begging, "Please, can you give me my mobile phone?" The nurse could still satisfy her with this small request, although they did not know what she was going to do. After searching, she finally found Gale's mobile phone in the bag in the corner.

She took it ecstatically. Tears fell down her cheeks, her hands trembled, and she tried her best to open her eyes to see the phone screen clearly.

LLL

Finally, the name Aurum appeared, and Gale pressed it without hesitation.

The phone rang, and every second seemed so long.

Gale's heart lifted and hung high in the air for fear that Aurum was busy at this time and could not answer the call.

Fortunately, after ten seconds, a warm male voice came from the receiver. "Hello, who is it?"

Gale's tears fell even more fiercely.

She tried her best to control herself and word with word carefully.

"Aurum, it's me. I'm Gale."

"Ms. Gale?" Aurum sounded a little surprised. "Hello, what's the matter?" Gale said, "Help me. Please help me now...I need your help." There was silence for two seconds, and then there was the sound of swift footsteps. "Okay, where are you?"

Gale maintained her final sobriety and calmness and said where she was and what was going on.

Aurum had been listening attentively, answering her with an 'Okay' from time to time.

Almost simultaneously, when the phone hung up, Gale fainted.

The phone slipped and fell to the ground. Aurum rushed to the hospital and quickly took Gale away.