Chapter 20

Chapter 20

Susan was delighted with Gale's misfortune.

She finally got rid of her problem!

Shawn sensed something was wrong. "Gale, why are you bleeding underneath?"

Even though she was on the verge of fainting, Gale still had not revealed the fact that she was pregnant.

She was about to bite her lower lip. "My period... is here..."

Shawn frowned in disgust.

Susan asked, "Mr. Wood, do you want to take her to the hospital? She seems to be in pain."

Anyway, the child was gone. After sending Gale to the hospital, Mr. Wood would find out that she was pregnant and then punish her for having an affair with another man!

Kill two birds with one stone!

"It's just her menstrual period." Shawn's brows were cold and ruthless. "She won't die, don't worry about her."

He walked past her without even looking at her or pitying her.

Susan followed his pace proudly and contentedly.

Gale struggled to get up. "Help...help..."

The housekeeper was horrified when he saw this scene." What...what happened..."

Gale grabbed the housekeeper's hand like a life-saving straw. "Hospital, take me to the hospital immediately!"

If they act in time, maybe the child could be saved!

The housekeeper sprung into action immediately!

After

arriving at the hospital, the doctor immediately pushed Gale into the operating room without saying a word!

The second she lay on the operating table, Gale could not hold it anymore and fell unconscious.

Two hours later, the doctor came out and breathed a sigh of relief.

“Fortunately, both the mother and son are safe!”

The housekeeper was shocked. Mother...and son?

Was the woman of the house pregnant?

The nurse pushed Gale out of the operating room.

Coincidentally, Susan’s father, Dean Fanning, passed by wearing a mask.

He glanced casually and noticed that the woman on the hospital bed was Gale!

So when the doctor said that the mother and child were safe, it meant her!

She... was pregnant with President Wood’s child!

Dean immediately hid in the corner and called Susan, “Susan, something happened!”

Susan thought she could sit back and relax. “What’s the matter, Dad? You sounded like you were panicking.”

“I passed by the operating room just now and heard the doctor say...Gale and her child are safe!”

Susan’s phone slipped from her hand.

What?!

Gale's child actually survived!

Incredible!

When Gale woke up, it was already dark.

She looked at the ceiling with tears slowly flowing from the corners of her eyes.

The nurse walked in, "Gale, here is the bill for the medicine and ultrasound. Do you have any family members here?"

"Medicine? Ultrasound?"

"Yes, the doctor prescribed some medicine for you."

Gale was stunned for a while, then suddenly sat up from the hospital bed. "My child..."

The nurse replied, "He is saved. You should thank your doctor."

Her tears suddenly fell, but she smiled.

She was weeping with joy!

God bless!

Gale kept repeating, "Thank you, thank you...I thought I had just lost him just after learning about my pregnancy..."

After taking the medicine and doing the examination

according to the doctor's order, Gale dared not stay any longer and left in a hurry.

She had no excuse to be hospitalized!

No one could find out that she was pregnant!

Back at Temperley Hall, the living room was clean and tidy, with no traces of blood. Gale fell asleep on the floor, her face pale and bloodless.

"My child, it's too hard for you to be born to a mommy like me..."

However, Gale has no time or qualifications to be hypocritical because she has to go to work tomorrow.

She must not show any abnormality in her body.

No matter how painful it is, she can only insist that she is on her period! The next day.
