Still Loving You Nonetheless By Snow de Eira Chapter 1431

Ivy had been staying out of the country for the past years so she must be resisting it from the bottom of her heart after eating too many of it.

Liam said thoughtfully, "Hey, V, if you don't want to eat here, we can go to another restaurant."

"It's fine. I want to eat pasta and this one." Ivy pointed at a mousse cake. "This looks so cute. I bet it must taste good."

"Alright. We'll order this." Liam called for the waiter. He ordered the pasta, each flavor of the mousse cake, and one glass of freshly squeezed orange juice.

When Ivy heard him order a glass of orange juice, she immediately rejected, "Liam, I don't want to drink orange juice."

"Why not? Orange is high in vitamins. It's good for your body," Liam asked.

"I just don't like it," Ivy refused.

"Then what do you want to drink?" Liam asked again.

"I like to have this." she pointed at the pomegranate juice.

The attendant said immediately, "Pomegranate juice is good for the body too."

"Alright. One pomegranate juice then," Liam agreed.

After the waiter walked away, Liam picked up the warm hand towel on the table and extended his hand out at Ivy. "Give me your hand."

Ivy gave Liam her two hands and Liam helped her to wipe them carefully. After it was done, he smiled at her, "Alright. It's clean now."

"Then can I eat now?" Ivy asked.

"Yes," Liam replied.

Coincidentally, the attendant brought the desserts over and placed them on the table. Ivy used her hand to help herself to the food. The attendant was shocked to see such a woman eating so rudely in such an expensive restaurant. The most shocking part was the handsome man did not mind it at all. He even helped her to wipe away the cream at the corner of the woman's mouth with patience.

"Delicious. Liam, try it." Ivy used her hand to pass a slice of cake to Liam.

He did not think it was dirty and ate it.

"It's delicious, isn't it?" Ivy asked.

"Yes. Very sweet." Liam nodded.

"Then try this one. I don't know what flavor it is." Ivy passed him another flavor with her hand.

"This is matcha flavor," Liam answered and took a bit.

"Is it nice?" Ivy asked.

"Yes." Liam smiled. "Try it."

Ivy took a bit and nodded. "It's really nice."

"Silly girl. Do you think I'11 lie to you?" Liam reminded her when he saw Ivy eating nonstop, "Don't eat too many mousse cakes. You won't be able to eat your pasta later."

"But you are the one who ordered so many," Ivy said.

"I order them so you can try all of the flavors," Liam explained.

"Then it's a waste not finishing it," Ivy commented.

"It's alright. I can afford it," Liam said without caring much.

It was rare for them to come out together so he wanted her to be happy.

"Thanks, Liam. I like all of the flavors," Ivy said.

"You're welcome." He extended his hand out and rubbed her head. "Look, your pasta is here. Eat some so you won't feel so sweet after eating so many cakes."

He used a fork to lift some pasta and feed her. "Try it. See if it is tasty or not."

Ivy ate it and praised it, "So tasty."

"You are so easy to please." Liam looked at her with a faint smile.

Probably because it was not often that she came out and rare for her to be eating out. Anything looked so fresh and new to her.

All of a sudden, Liam said, "Hey, V, I'll bring you out more often in the future."

"Sure. Thankyou," Ivy replied.

"Why do you keep thanking me?" Liam asked.

"It's polite to say thank you," Ivy answered.

"You need to be polite with the outsider. Not with me." Liam said domineeringly, "You don't have to say thank you to me anymore. Understand? I don't like to hear those two words from you."

"Okay. I won't say it anymore," Ivy said.

"Good girl. Eat your pasta," Liam replied.

"I can eat on my own." Ivy took over the fork and ate the pasta by herself.

After taking a few bites, she noticed Liam was staring at her so she used her hand to wipe her face and asked, "what's wrong? Is there anything on my face?"

Liam smiled. "There wasn't but now there is."

She was eating the cake with her hands and now that she used her hand to wipe her face, the cream was all over her face. He took the warm towel and wiped away the cream on her face gently.

"Then why were you looking at me just now?" Ivy asked.

"Because you look so pretty," Liam answered.

She looked so happy when she was eating. Liam was attracted by it and felt there was no way he could feel bored looking at her.

Ivy extended her hand out to cover his eyes. "Stop looking. Hurry up and finish. I can't wait to go to the theme park."

"Okay. I'll stop looking." Liam took down her hand from his face and used the hand towel to wipe away the cream on her hand. The attendant was so jealous of how thoughtful Liam was. It was rare to see a man being so handsome and thoughtful. Most importantly, he was not disgusted with that woman.

After the meal, Liam brought Ivy to the largest theme park in Jehovah city. Ivy looked at the signboard at the main entrance and was surprised. "There's a zoo in there? I want to see the animals."

"Okay. It's included in the ticket. You can see and play whatever you want," Liam said.

"Oh really? Let's go see the animal first," Ivy suggested.

"Okay," Liam answered.

Mr. Crawford had prebooked the ticket online. Liam and Ivy only needed to scan the barcode to enter the theme park. The theme park was huge. Liam followed the signboard to find the zoo.

Ivy was immediately attracted by the different animals inside, she followed the crowd and pointed at the different animals while asking Liam what animals were those. Liam was not a big fan of animals, so he did not know all of the animals.

In spite of that, he still answered every question patiently. Every time they saw a new animal, he would use his phone and search for its information and introduce the animal to Ivy.

After being locked up in the mansion for far too long, Ivy was excited to see all of the animals and thought every animal looked so cute. When they were at the tiger encounter area, Liam suddenly smiled at her and said, "V, don't move."

Ivy was waiting for him to take a photo for her so she stood straight and not moved as she was told. After Liam took the photo, he waved at her, "Alright. You can come over now. Come straight to me. Don't look back."

"Why can't I look back?" Ivy did not understand.

"Because…"

Before Liam could finish explaining, Ivy looked back. The tiger in the encounter lifted its neck and roared at her from the glass. Ivy got scared and screamed out loud, she rushed into Liam's arms and shouted for help, "Help!"

Still Loving You Nonetheless By Snow de Eira Chapter 1432

Liam caught Ivy and hugged her tight while comforting her with a smile. "There, there. I'm here."

"The tiger is very force." Ivy was shivering.

"Didn't I ask you not to lookback? Why did you lookback?" He kissed the top of her head. "Alright. The tiger left."

Ivy got out of his arms and saw the tiger turn around and walked away. Only then did Ivy feel relieved. Nonetheless, she said, "Liam, come on, let's go. I don't want to see the tiger anymore."

"Alright. Why don't we see something cute?" Liam placed his hand around her waist and led her away from the tiger encounter, "why don't we go look at the bird?"

"Okay."

He looked at the map and said, "Wait. Let me take a look where's the bird aviaries."

Ivy also looked together with him but she did not know how to look at the map. She asked curiously, "Liam, have you been to the zoo before?"

"No." Even if he did, it was when he was still a child.

"Why didn't you come before?" Ivy continued to ask

"Because…" Liam thought for awhile and kissed her forehead. " Because you didn't come with me."

She tilted her head and thought for a while before asking another question. "Then why didn't I come with you?" "Because…" Liam continued to think.

Because she did not love him as much as she did now so she did not come with him. Nonetheless, he did not know how to tell Ivy that and did not want to let her know. He did not want to let Ivy know the person she loved was Josiah. For the past few days, he had just been taking the chances to make her stay beside him when her mental condition was not right.

"Maybe you weren't free," Liam simply made an excuse.

Ivy actually believed it. she hugged him and made a promise. " Don't worry, Liam. I will have plenty of time for you. I'll go wherever you want to go."

"Really?" Liam raised his brow happily. "Are you lying to me?"

Ivy shook her head, "why do I need to lie to you?"

"Okay. I'll remember this promise." Liam lowered her head wanting to kiss her lips but she avoided it.

"There're too many people around here," Ivy said embarrassingly.

"There's nothing to be shy of. We are adults." He pointed at a couple not far from them. "Look, they are kissing too."

She looked in the direction he was pointing and there was really a couple kissing affectionately. Too bad, Ivy was still feeling shy. she shook her head. "No, we can't learn from them."

"Okay. We don't learn." Liam smiled beside her ears and said, "I'll wait. We can kiss when we go back home tonight."

"Okay." Ivy nodded and held his arms. "Let's go look at the bird."

As expected, she was more suitable to look at animals that were tamed and less dangerous. In the end, she was attracted to the bird that she refused to leave the bird aviaries.

When the sun was setting, Liam reminded, "Hey, V, the theme park is closing within two hours. Are you sure you don't want to go play?"

"It closes so early?" Ivy looked at the birds in front of her while feeling reluctant to leave. "But I still want to play with the birds more. I don't think they want me to leave."

"Then we'll go to the theme park other days," Liam suggested.

"But I want to go on the carousel." Ivy looked back and smiled at him. "With you together."

Liam smiled and hugged her from behind. "So my dear lovely Miss Landers, what do you want to do? I'll listen to you."

Ivy thought for a while and finally made her decision. "Let's go play on the carousel."

After that, she waved goodbye at the birds in front of her reluctantly. "Bye, little cuties. I'm leaving now. I'll come again another day."

Still Loving You Nonetheless By Snow de Eira Chapter 1433

"Why aren't all of you trying to make me stay?" Ivy sighed, "Guess I'm just thinking too much."

Liam smiled and comforted her, "They are birds, they don't speak human language."

"I know. Too bad…" Ivy replied.

"It's not too bad. As long as they are happy," Liam continued.

"Yes, as long as they are happy." Ivy held Liam's hand. "Let's go! We are going to play the carousel!"

After being pulled for quite a while, Liam asked, "Miss Landers, do you know which way to the carousel since you are pulling me and leading the way?"

"Which way?" Ivy asked.

"Over there!" Liam pointed at a roller coaster tunnel quite far away from them. "Did you see the red color roller coaster? It's over at that side."

"What? So far?" she pulled her face long. "But my leg is very sore from walking. I can't walk there anymore."

"Tired?" He looked at her leg and squatted down in front of her. " It's okay. I'll carry you."

"You want to piggyback me there? But It's quite far." Ivy was embarrassed. "And I'm very heavy."

"No. You're not heavy. You're very thin." Liam pointed at his back. "Come on. Trust me."

Ivy hesitated a while and carefully hung herself on his back. "Hey, Liam, tell me if you are tired. I can walk by myself."

"Aren't you tired? You walked the same distance as I did. I'm sure you are tired too." Ivy said.

"I'm a man. I'm not that weak," Liam explained.

"Oh. You're the best!" Ivy took the initiative and kissed his ear. " This is your reward."

Liam's mood lit up immediately. "This is the best reward. You can give me more. I'll be more motivated."

"Alright. How many do you want?" Ivy asked.

"I'll take as many as you're willing to give," Liam said.

"Okay. Then here it comes." Ivy lowered her head and kissed his cheeks many times. "Are those enough?"

"No."

Thus, Ivy continued to kiss him. All the way from where they were until they reached the theme park. By that time, she was tired from kissing him too much. Even so, Liam did not think it was enough. He found a corner and put her down. Then he lowered his head and kissed her on the lips, she did not push him away and cooperated nicely by letting him kiss her.

After passionate and affectionate kissing, Liam let her go after he felt satisfied. "Alright. Let's go play the carousel."

"And the Ferris wheel," Ivy added.

"Okay."

Liam brought her to the carousel and even bought a fairy headband for her. He noticed Ivy had been staring at the fairy headband on the little girl's head for a long time. Thus, he was on the lookout to see where was the store that sell it.

As he expected, Ivy liked it a lot. she even took one from the shelf and put it on his head, she smiled. "Liam, you look nice with it."

"But…aren't you afraid people might think I'm a weirdo?" It was really hard for him to accept a man seen in public with a fairy headband on his head.

"No. I think it's cute." Ivy refrained from laughing, "Liam, please wear it."

"Alright. As long as you are happy." Liam looked around. There were many people who were looking at him with weird looks. Nonetheless, Ivy was really happy to see him wear it, so he just ignored the others.

Both of them reached the carousel. Liam looked at the horses on the carousel. He said, "V, why don't you play by yourself?"

He was getting dizzy just by looking at it so he was afraid he would vomit after rotating for two rounds.

Still Loving You Nonetheless By Snow de Eira Chapter 1434

Ivy did not know Liam could get sick from going round and round easily. She thought he was being shy and reluctant to play it. Thus, she pulled him and entered the carousel together. "It's okay.

You've already worn such a cute headband. There's nothing to be shy about sitting on the horse."

"V, I'm just afraid…" Liam tried to explain.

"There's nothing to be afraid of." Ivy pulled him to the largest horse and used her hand to pat the horse. "Come, sit here."

"Why don't you sit." Liam carried her up and let her sit on the horse. Then he held on to her body. "I'll stand here and protect you.

II

"There's no need to protect me. I won't fall down, why don't you sit there?" Ivy pointed at the horse beside hers.

Nonetheless, Liam insisted on standing beside her to protect her. Since he insisted, Ivy did not pursue him anymore.

The carousel started to rotate. Ivy waved her hand happily like a kid. "Wow. It's so much fun! Liam, are you sure you don't want to sit on the horse?"

Other than dizziness, Liam thought it was fun. He held on tight to Ivy's waist. "V, I'm feeling dizzy, what should I do?"

"Dizzy? Why?" Ivy asked.

"Because the carousel is rotating," Liam answered.

"You don't like to go round and round? why didn't you say so?" Ivy looked at him and the exit. "What should we do? We can't exit now."

"It's alright. I have a plan," Liam said.

"What?" Ivy asked.

"I need your help." He lowered his head and kissed her.

Ivy was stunned. She mumbled, "Liam, are you crazy? There are so many people around US."

"I'm not. I'm just dizzy," Liam said.

"So you don't feel dizzy when you kissed me?" Ivy asked.

"Yes, I don't feel dizzy." He did not have the time to think of something else.

At first, Ivy was struggling. After hearing it could help with his dizziness, Ivy started to kiss him back If it really could help him from being dizzy, she thought she was willing to help him.

After the carousel stopped, Liam was reluctant to stop the kiss. He kissed her forehead. "Thanks, V. This is the first time I think the carousel can be fun."

Ivy looked at his handsome and smiling face and asked, "It's fun?"

"Yes. I want to play it again." He was more than willing to play more than once.

Nonetheless, Ivy felt embarrassed and shook her head. "Let's not. The other people are laughing at US."

Liam pinched her cheek and said, "You're still so shy."

Foliowingly, he carried her down from the horse. "Let's go if we are not playing again."

Both of them left the carousel while everyone looked at them with envy. A few minutes later, they reached the bottom of the Ferris wheel.

Ivy put her hand against her forehead and looked up at the highest spot of the Ferris wheel, she exclaimed, "It's so tall, why happen if it falls down?"

"Don't worry. It won't fall down," Liam said.

"How do you know?" Ivy asked.

"Don't you see? It's made out of steel frames. It looks very firm and secure." Liam said, "Besides, I'm with you. Why are you scared?

II

"So it won't fall because you are with me?" Ivy asked curiously.

Liam said, "Yes it won't. Besides, even if it falls, I '11 be with you too. No matter in the sky or down on earth."

Ivy tilted her head and thought for a while but she still did not understand his meaning. Nonetheless, it was less scary with him around.

"Liam. The Ferris wheel is rotating too. Won't you get dizzy from there? And it's very tall too." Ivy said thoughtfully, "If you are dizzy, then we don't have to get on it."

"I thought you want to try it," Liam said.

"I never try it before so I feel like trying. But if you will get dizzy, I don't have to try it," Ivy answered.

As the daughter of the Landers family, it was impossible that she never try the Ferris wheel before, she had forgotten she did. Liam was not going to tell her the truth.

He hugged her and said softly, "Since you never try it, we should go and experience it once."

Still Loving You Nonetheless By Snow de Eira Chapter 1435

"If you're worried that I will get dizzy, then you can use that method just now to help me," Liam added shamelessly.

Yes, he felt dizzy from the carousel. However, the Ferris wheel rotated slower than the carousel, so he would not feel dizzy from it. Furthermore, he was not afraid of heights.

Ivy thought for a while and nodded. "Alright then."

Liam was thrilled, "So you agree to use the method just now to help with my dizziness?"

"Of course." Ivy said seriously, "I mean you are willing to take it with me so I'm willing to help you from getting dizzy too."

"I know you're the best," Liam shamelessly nodded his head and compliment Ivy.

"Come on. It's our turn." He pulled Ivy to the entrance of the Ferris wheel.

The cabin of the Ferris wheel was huge and grand too. At first, Ivy was really excited. As the cabin slowly got higher, she started to feel scared. She could not help and hugged Liam's hand tightly with both her hands and moved her body toward him.

Liam looked at him and smiled. "What's wrong? Are you afraid?"

"A little," Ivy said.

"Don't worry. I'll help you." Liam lowered his head and kissed her lips.

Ivy widened her eyes and mumbled, "Liam, I'm the one helping you now, isn't it?"

"You can think so," Liam smiled faintly.

After kissing for a while, he whispered in her ears, "Hey, V. Are you still afraid? Is it better now?"

Only then did Ivy realize Liam was helping her to forget about her fear. She nodded.

"Good girl. Close your eyes," Liam reminded.

When Liam was kissing her, she widened her eyes like a silly girl. Even so, in Liam's eyes, she looked so cute and adorable. Ivy closed her eyes and did not feel scared anymore.

After rotating for a while, Liam reminded her, "Alright, V. You can open your eyes now."

Ivy opened her eyes and discovered the cabin was already halfway down. Nonetheless, Liam did not let go of her lips.

"Are you still afraid?" Liam asked.

Ivy shook her head to answer the question. Only then did Liam let her loose. He kissed him one last time on the lips. "How's it? Don't you think this is a good way to cure the fear of heights and dizziness?"

"Not bad." Ivy had to admit it.

"One more time?" Liam asked with bad intentions.

"No. No need." Ivy shook her head.

"What about we play the other rides?" Liam asked.

Ivy thought for a while and shook her head. "No. I'm a little hungry."

"Okay, let's have dinner," Liam suggested.

"Okay."

Both of them got down from the Ferris wheel and left the theme park to look for a place for dinner. The car drove on for quite a while before Liam asked Ivy. "What do you want to eat?"

She thought for a while and said, "I want to eat at home."

"Why?" Liam did not understand.

"Because it's cleaner to cook at home," Ivy answered.

"You are really such a doctor. Having such strict requirements about cleanliness," Liam said with a smile.

"What did you say, Liam? I'm a doctor?" Ivy asked while looking puzzled at Liam.

Liam was stunned. He blamed himself for exposing it and worried if Ivy recalled her memory.

Still Loving You Nonetheless By Snow de Eira Chapter 1436

Liam looked at Ivy and thought it was possible for him to keep the secret from her for the rest of her life. Sooner or later, her memory would return.

Finally, he nodded. "Yes. You were such a talented doctor."

"Really? When can I go back to work as a doctor?" Ivy asked.

"Sure. After you get better," Liam answered.

"But I don't feel like Гт sick," Ivy replied.

"Well, you're not sick and there's nothing wrong with your body too." Liam extended his hand and rubbed her head. "You lost your memory, that's all. And being a doctor is not easy. You are not allowed to make any mistakes. So you can't go back to work yet."

"Oh," Ivy thought and nodded. "I understand now. I will go back to work after my memory recovers."

"Good girl." Liam nodded.

Ivy took his hand off her head. "Concentrate on driving. Don't touch me."

Liam laughed, "Because your hair is so nice to touch. I got addicted to touching it. Oh yes. I'll cook for you later."

"You cook for me?" Ivy was puzzled. "Do you know how to cook?"

"Of course," Liam answered.

"Alright then," Ivy responded.

"Let's go buy the ingredients," Liam said.

"Okay!" Ivy looked very excited.

Liam drove to a grocery store. Before they entered the grocery store, he bought a sweet pastry for Ivy from the dessert shop beside the grocery store.

"I'm scared you'll get hungry. You can eat this for now," he said.

After playing for the whole afternoon, she was really feeling a little hungry.

"Thanks, Liam." She took a bite of the sweet pastry and put it in front of Liam's mouth to feed him. "Liam, are you hungry? Let's eat it together."

"I'm not hungry," Liam said but he still opened his mouth and took a bite of the sweet pastry Ivy fed him.

"Is it delicious?" Ivy asked with a smile.

"Yes," Liam answered.

"Have more." Ivy gave him another bite.

"If we eat too much now, we'll be too full to eat dinner later," Liam said.

"That's right. I want to eat the food you cook later." she took a few more bites and put the sweet pastry away. Then she held his arms. " Let's go and buy ingredients."

Both of them went to the fresh vegetable and meat section. Liam picked a few ingredients. Then he asked Ivy, "V, what do you want to eat?"

She looked at the ingredients he picked and asked, "How did you know I like to eat these?"

"V, I've known you since we were small. Of course, I know what you like to eat," Liam answered.

"You know how to cook it?" Ivy asked again.

"Of course. I learned it several years ago," Liam replied.

At that time, he learned how to cook because he knew Ivy like to eat and he especially only learned those dishes she like. Therefore he knew what dishes he like without asking Ivy.

"But you don't like to eat lobster, why do you buy the lobster?" Ivy asked.

"Because you like it," Liam said, "I don't like it but it doesn't mean I don't eat it."

"Then I want to eat grilled lobster," Ivy said.

"Yes, I also like to grill it," Liam adhered.

Ivy thought for a while and took a piece of beef from the shelf. " Let's get a piece of beef too. For you."

Still Loving You Nonetheless By Snow de Eira Chapter 1437

"For me?" Liam asked.

"Yes. You only pick the food I like but you didn't pick anything for yourself," Ivy explained.

Liam smiled, "I told you I like any food that you like. We can eat together."

"Then I can eat the food that you like too." Ivy hugged him and said, "So let's eat together, okay?"

"Okay." He kissed her cheek. "I'll listen to everything you said."

It was getting late when they reached home after finished with the grocery shopping. Nonetheless, they were not rushing to have dinner because they had eaten sweet pastries before shopping for groceries.

Liam was busy in the kitchen and Ivy was sitting at the dining table while watching him being busy, she was worried he could not cook on his own so she stood up and said, "Liam, why don't I give you a hand?"

Liam hugged her by the waist and said, "You should be very tired now. You can watch the tv while waiting for me."

"I'm not tired." Ivy shook her head. "I want to cook with you."

"Alright then," Liam gave in.

The total cooking time decreased as both of them cooked together. Not long later, they finished cooking their dinner. Ivy looked at the dishes on the table and complimented, " Liam, you really can cook. And they all look so delicious."

"Of course. Do you think I need to lie to you about this?" Liam stood beside her and hugged her from behind. "But I haven't cooked for a long time. I don't know if they taste good. Miss Landers, please feel free to give me your comments."

Ivy nodded and tried the griller lobster first. She immediately took a second bite after the first one.

Suddenly, Liam felt nervous for no reason, "what's wrong? Is it bad?"

Ivy nodded, "It's very tasty. Very delicious."

"Then why…do you have a weird look on your face?" Liam asked while feeling relieved.

Ivy thought for a while before talking, "I think I ate this before."

"There's grilled lobster everywhere. It's not weird you have eaten it before," Liam said.

" No. I mean this flavor." she looked back at him, "This flavor that you cooked."

"Really?" Liam looked at her surprisingly. "Гт surprised, V. You have such a good memory."

Ivy asked, "So you cook grilled lobster for me before?"

"Yes. Once. But it was several years ago." Liam smiled and reminisced back, "When I knew you like to eat grilled lobster, I decided to learn how to make it. You and Joe were the first two people who tried it. But he said it was disgusting after trying it."

"Joe?" Ivy was surprised. "Is it Josiah?"

"Yes. We studied in the same school and always hung up together," Liam answered.

At first, he was worried Ivy would have some abnormal reactions when he mentioned Josiah's name. Unexpectedly, there was no special reaction from her.

She asked curiously, "why did he think it's disgusting? It's so tasty. II

"Maybe…he was too used to eating at fine dining or high-class restaurants. So home cook meals didn't suit him." Liam smiled.

Frankly speaking, Ivy lived a very luxurious and grand life too at that time but she still complimented his cooking. That gave him huge motivation to continue learning to cook for her.

"But it's fine." Liam was not bothered with it. He said, "I learned how to cook because of you. I just need you to like my cooking. The others do not matter."

"Okay. Thanks, Liam. I think it's very tasty." Ivy said excitingly. She used her fork to take a piece of the grilled lobster and fed Liam. "You should try it too."

"Okay." Liam opened his mouth and ate it.

"Isn't it tasty?" Ivy asked.

"Not too bad." Even though he was the one who cooked it, he still needed to admit it was not as good as those from expensive restaurants.

It did not taste as good as Ivy said it was. Nonetheless, he was still very happy to see how much Ivy liked it.

"What did you say?" Suddenly, Madam Sheldon sat up and stared at him. "Why did you talk nonsense to your brother? Liam Sheldon, are you trying to kill him?"

Still Loving You Nonetheless By Snow de Eira Chapter 1438

"Like you said. If you like it, I will cook for you again in the future, " Liam said.

Ivy nodded her head happily. "Yes, please! Then we have a deal. I'll cook mac and cheese for you and you'll cook for me."

"Yes. We have a deal," Liam answered.

Ivy pulled him and made him sit on the chair. "Let's have our dinner."

After dinner, they rested a while before taking their showers. Originally, Liam wanted to cuddle with Ivy but he received a call from Sheldon Mansion after he finished his shower. The maid told him his mother was sick and requested him to go back to take a look at his mother.

Liam looked at Ivy who was in front of the mirror. After much hesitation, he walked toward her. He hugged her and kissed the back of her neck like he always did.

"V, I need to go home." He felt sorry.

Ivy looked back, "At this hour?"

"Yes," Liam answered.

"Didn't you say you will stay here and this is your home from now on?" Ivy asked seriously.

"Yes. From now on, this is my home." Liam kissed her cheek and said, "The maid called me just now to tell me my mother is sick. So I need to go back and take a look at her."

When Ivy heard Madam Sheldon was sick, she quickly said, "Then you should go back to look at her."

"V, are you sure you won't be angry at me?" Liam asked.

"Your mother is sick, why should I be angry?" Ivy pushed him out of the room. "Hurry up and go back."

Liam turned around and lowered his head to look at her. "V, rest early. I'll come back tomorrow to eat the breakfast you prepare."

"Okay. I'll make mac and cheese for you," Ivy replied.

"Alright. Good night." He kissed her on the lips and turned around to walk to the door.

When Liam was back at Sheldon Mansion, Madam Sheldon was lying on the bed looking very weak, when she saw Liam enter the room, she glanced at him coldly. "Do you still know this is your home?"

Liam took a deep breath and approached her. "Mom, are you still feeling uncomfortable? why did you refuse to go to the hospital?"

"Why should I go to the hospital? I'm so lonely here. If I go to the hospital, I will be even more lonely," Madam Sheldon answered.

"Liam, your mother has the flu. You don't have to worry too much, " Yanne said softly while looking after Madam Sheldon by her bedside.

After that, she was worried about Liam. "Have you eaten? why don't I cook some food for you? I can make some soup for your mother too."

"I don't need it. I just had my dinner not long ago," Liam replied.

"Then I'll go and make soup for your mother," Yanne said.

She got on her feet and left Madam Sheldon's bedroom. Liam went closer and touched his mother's forehead. Madam Sheldon was really having a fever.

Madam Sheldon pushed away Liam's hand angrily. "What is the meaning of this? Do you think I'm faking it?"

Liam coughed. He had to admit he did have that thought in his head. It was just too coincident how his mother suddenly got sick after he moved in with Ivy for a day.

Madam Sheldon stared at him. "How pity am I if I need to pretend to be sick to see my son?"

"Mom, I told you. I don't have feelings for Miss Yanne. So I won't marry her. If I married her, it's not fair to her," Liam tried to explain.

Before Madam Sheldon had the chance to talk, he added, "Don't worry, mom. I already went to have a talk with Howard."

"What did you say?" Suddenly, Madam Sheldon sat up and stared at him. "Why did you talk nonsense to your brother? Liam Sheldon, are you trying to kill him?"

"Howard was the one who told me not to use my marriage and future happiness to exchange for ten years of his life. I think he had a point there," Liam answered.

"You—" Madam Sheldon's temper sparked. She pointed at him. " Liam, you are too selfish! How could you say that?"

"If I married Miss Young, then Howard is the selfish one. I think he doesn't want to have the pressure of being selfish so he asked me not to marry Miss Young," Liam talked back.

Madam Sheldon was lost in words.

"Mom, we should be the ones making decisions for our own future. Can you and dad stay out of it?" Liam asked.

At this point, Madam Sheldon was really speechless. Although Liam did have a point, she was still very furious because she was their mother. From her point of view, she thought it was just a small sacrifice for Liam to marry someone he did not love but a woman who was talented in many areas to exchange for the ten years of prison life Howard was facing.

Liam felt helpless when he saw how disappointed his mother was. " Mom, I think I shouldn't come back here. I only make you angry when I come back."

He pointed at the door. "Why don't I leave now."

Madam Sheldon shouted angrily when she saw Liam leaving, " Come back here, right now!"

Liam stopped walking and looked back. "I can come back. But you can't get so frustrating and we are not allowed to discuss my marriage."

"You… Are you threatening me?" Madam Sheldon asked.

"I'm not. I just want you to scrap that idea and not think about it anymore," Liam explained.

He walked back to the bed and helped her to lie down. "Mom, if you are not feeling well, it's best for you to lie down. Don't be angry because of me."

Madam Sheldon was afraid he would leave, she endured it and not said the things in her heart. Then she closed her eyes. "Fine. I won't talk about it anymore. As long as you are happy with your decision."

Liam spent some time with his mother in the bedroom. After a while, Yanne came in with the soup she cooked. She looked at Madam Sheldon and asked in a small voice, "Liam, is your mother asleep?"

"Not yet." He took over the bowl of soup from her and said, " Yanne, let me do it. You should go get some rest."

"It's fine. I'm not tired," Yanne said thoughtfully. "Why don't you go rest? 1 can take care of your mother."

"Yanne, I…" Liam paused. "I need to talk to you."

"Sure. We can talk after your mother recover," Yanne said.

Both Yanne and Madam Sheldon knew what Liam wanted to say to Yanne without guessing. Avoiding it could not solve the problem but it could prolong a day for Yanne to accept the reality.

"Mom, have some soup," Liam took the soup and said to his mother.

Madam Sheldon opened her eyes and glanced at him coldly but she still opened her mouth to accept the soup Liam fed to her. She knew no matter what she said, Liam would not listen so she did not say anything else and finished the soup.

Later, she said to both Liam and Yanne. "Both of you should go rest. I'm going to sleep now."

"Okay. Remember to call me if you need anything," Yannie said.

"You are such a thoughtful girl," Madam Sheldon sighed.

Liam and Yanne left the bedroom. Yanne went back to the kitchen to take a bowl of soup and sent it to the study room for Liam.

Liam looked at the bowl of soup and then he looked at Yanne again. "I don't want it. Thank you."

Yanne tightened her finger as she held the bowl of soup and said, " Liam, are you afraid I might put something in it?"

"To be honest. Yes," Liam answered boldly.

Yanne coughed embarrassingly, "I'm really sorry for that night. I was just cooperating with your mother…"

"You don't have to explain it. It's in the past," Liam cut her off. He stared at her and said, "Yanne. I don't think you should two people should be forced to get married. I hope you can understand."

Yanne tightened the grip with her fingers again, she forced a smile. "If you don't want to drink it, then I'll take it back to the kitchen."

Liam knew Yanne was acting dumb but he did not say anything. After that, she never showed up and disturb him anymore.

The next morning, Liam woke up very early. He planned to take a look at his mother and went back to Jay Mansion to have the breakfast Ivy prepared. Nonetheless, he tried hard and could not open his door. He tried to shout for help and no one answered him. Thus, he picked up the phone and called downstairs. Madam Sheldon was the one who answered the phone.

"Mom, did you lock my door?" He asked angrily.

Madam Sheldon was angry and disappointed. "Liam Sheldon. Aren't you suppose to be asking about my health instead of the lock?"

Liam gritted his teeth and tried to stay calm. "I wanted to go downstairs to take a look at you. But I can't leave the room now."

"Are you going to look at me or go see Ivy?" Madam Sheldon asked.

"Mom—"

Liam's temper sparked and he circled his room twice and tried to refrain from breaking down the door. "Mom, I don't want to argue about this with you now. I hope you can open the door and let me out now."

"Out where?" Madam Sheldon asked.

He gritted his teeth. "Work!"

"You don't have to go to the company for these few days. You can also work in your room," Madam Sheldon replied.

"Mom—" Liam shouted.

"Liam Sheldon, don't shout at me! I don't care!" Madam Sheldon hung up the phone angrily.

Liam never expected his mother would resolve to violent action against him. He circled the study room twice again and took out his phone to call Yanne. Soon, he heard Yanne's voice over the phone but she sounded indifferent. "Liam, your mother insisted I should marry you to save your brother, what can I do other than cooperate with her?"

"Miss Young, I hope you can talk some sense to her and stop being so stubborn!" Liam said.

"Stubborn…" Yanne smiled bitterly. "If it was not because of love, who is willing to be so stubborn? I'm sorry, Liam. I can't help you like the last time you were drugged."

After that, she hung up the phone. Liam looked at the phone and anger thrummed through his veins.

In the meantime, Ivy had already finished cooking the mac and cheese and waited for Liam at the dining table. After a while, Kaylee looked at the time and reminded, "Miss Landers, why don't you eat first? It's not going to be nice if it turns cold."

Ivy shook her head lightly. "Liam said he is coming back to have breakfast. He should be back soon."

"But it's already eight o'clock. Maybe he is back in the company working," Kaylee said.

"No. He won't lie to me," Ivy insisted.

Since Ivy persisted, Kaylee said no more. After a while, Liam was still not back yet and Ivy did not move.

Kaylee was scared Ivy was hungry and told a white lie. "Miss Landers. Mister Liam called and said he had an urgent matter to deal with so he's not coming back for breakfast."

Only then did Ivy raise her head to look at Kaylee and asked, " Really? Liam called?"

"Yes." Kaylee nodded and looked at the mac and cheese in front of Ivy. "Miss Landers, the mac and cheese is cold already. Why don't I let the chef cook you another one."

"Never mind. I can eat it." Ivy picked up the fork and started to eat it.

Kaylee quickly said, "Miss Landers, it's cold. Mister Liam will feel bad if you eat it."

Ivy was not a picky eater and she did not like to waste food too.
