

Still Loving You Nonetheless Chapter 1453

Looking at Yanne, Ivy smiled. "What's wrong, Miss

Yanne? Why do you sound so down today?" "What else could it be? Because my fiance is out there spending time with another woman."

Yanne sighed bitterly, "Miss Ivy, I know it's no use to say anything to you because you won't listen."

"Tell me, Miss Yanne. I'll hear them."

"You promised last time that you'd leave Liam but you went back on your words and spent a night with Liam."

Yanne was biting hard on her lips and there was a look of resentment on her face.

Ivy though shook her head. "That was the Ivy back then. Perhaps, the Ivy now wouldn't do that anymore?"

There was a flicker in Yanne's eyes as she took a careful look at Ivy.

Tears rolled down her cheeks as she sniffled, "Do you know why Madam Sheldon is trying so hard to make Liam marry me? Because Liam's big brother is in jail and only my father can help free him. And my father's condition of helping the Sheldons is to have Liam marry me.

"At first, Liam was willing to marry me and we had a great relationship, if not, I wouldn't have gotten pregnant. But after you lost your memories, Liam had changed completely and all he does now is follow you around.

"I know Liam is only staying with you because he feels sorry for you. But what happens to me and my baby if he's gone?"

Not saying a word, Ivy simply listened.

It was only when Yanna finished her words, Ivy replied softly, "I understand what you're trying to tell me, Miss Yanne. You're pregnant and you should hurry home to get some rest."

Indeed, Yanne had finished what she wanted to say and there was no need for her to stay any longer.

She nodded and said, "Thank you for your concern, Miss Ivy. Take care of yourself too."

Yanne then walked out of the ward.

Ivy closed her eyes and she felt her mind going haywire.

After some time, the door was opened and from the sound of the footsteps, Ivy knew that it was Liam.
