

Chapter 371: His Heart Skips A Beat

I'll find my Baby Ruo even if I have to go to the ends of the Earth! Let's see how and where he can hide her!

Drawing a deep breath, the man grabbed the scarf that had been placed aside and took the pair of bunnies and a big bag of soy milk powder with him on board the plane.

While on the plane, Bo Yu stood on the side of the aisle, gaping at his young master.

The murderous aura surrounding him had receded considerably. He even appeared a lot calmer and more energetic than before.

Most importantly, he had begun having meals...

...

The majestic azure Blue Tower was now going through its warm season so its cloudless sky looked just like a mirror—clear and beautiful.

Castles of various sizes could be seen everywhere, and trees of varying colors looked as dreamy as though they were in a kingdom found in a fairytale.

On the streets, one could hear the pleasant clip-clopping sound of the horses' hooves and the ringing sound of the bells on them.

People came and went on the bustling streets amid cheerful chatter.

Diamonds—blue, red, and purple—were displayed on street stalls, where each piece of jewelry was an exquisite work of art.

Under the sunlight, the agates, the gems, the jade, the gold mounted with jade inlays, and everything else on the castle walls shone and sparkled dazzlingly as they reflected the rays.

From an aerial view, one could see the massive kingdom formed by countless little castles surrounding a huge castle, where a red flag stood atop the highest point, fluttering in the wind.

Whoosh—

All aircraft were only allowed to take off and land on designated grounds at the border of the Blue Tower. Those who dared cross the demarcated zone would be taken down with a blast of their cannons.

Without a special token, no one was able to gain access to the castles. It was why, even though Blue Tower received plenty of international visitors, few people had truly entered the place.

On top of that, no one was allowed to leave the Blue Tower grounds at will. Most of the people there had never left their country and spent their entire lives living in the castles.

Bo Yu had prepared everything, though. Upon arriving, Mo Jiangye was set to stay in the main castle of Blue Tower.

A week later...

“Slow down, Princess Ruo! Slow down a little!” A maid was anxiously chasing after Ye Erruo, who gleefully ran about in the garden with Aby.

Awoo... The four-legged creature happily skipped about alongside its favorite person.

The two of them ran across the garden and past the flower gallery before slowing down to a walk upon reaching the long corridor of the art gallery.

Whenever Ye Erruo passed by the servants, they would quietly retreat to the side and give her a deep, respectful bow.

“Where’s Brother Jinyan?”

“The Young Master is with the royal family now, Princess.”

“How long has he been there? When will he be back?”

“It’s been two hours since he left. He’ll probably only be back late in the evening.”

A crestfallen look descended on her face. “I see... Aby, let’s take you somewhere else to play.”

The woman bent down and picked up the little doggy before running off again.

Arf! Arf!

“Princess Ruo!” called the maid who had been chasing anxiously after them. She had barely taken a breather before she had to give chase again.

The servants had no idea where their Young Master had brought this young lady from, but the moment he had returned, he had told them that she was his sister and that they needed to take good care of her. Sigh... Just a look and they had guessed that he must have adopted a godsister from somewhere!

Ye Erruo left the castle grounds, steering a horse carriage by herself. She was wearing a gorgeous, ethereal princess dress with a purple floral wreath sitting atop her head. Her lengthy mane was fluttering about in the gentle breeze, and the jovial smile on her face made her look beautiful beyond compare.

The galloping sound of the horse’s hooves could be heard even from afar, prompting everyone to hastily retreat to safety on either side of the long street.

The bells on the horse and the galloping sound complimented each other nicely and formed unique music of their own.

Like a bird longing for freedom, she whipped the horse in a dashing manner to speed it up, causing her fluttery ebony hair, long ribbon hair tie, and the hem of her skirt to dance along in the wind. She was like a pure little fairy and a smart, nimble little spirit under the bright rays.

Her beautiful, glistening eyes attracted countless people, who turned their heads repeatedly to look at her.

Creak... The lady and her horse carriage sped by before Mo Jiangye's eyes just as he opened the windows in the castle.

His heart skipped a beat right at that moment...

Chapter 372: Arf, Arf, Arf... You Are Not Allowed to Touch Mommy

The man abruptly popped his head out of the window, his gaze following closely the horse carriage, which had gone far away.

*D*mn it, I must be possessed if my heart is fluttering for another woman! I deserve the death penalty!*

Bam! He thumped his fist hard against the windowsill in a fit of rage.

I must be missing my Baby Ruo so badly that I've started to mistake other women for her. Yes, that must be it!

"Your meal is ready, sir." He heard Bo Yu calling for him.

Now that Mo Jiangye had started having meals, the assistant wanted to seize this chance to make him eat more.

He turned around gloomily and walked away from the window. "Did you manage to find any information on what I told you to investigate?"

"Yes, it's all done. Bo Jinyan indeed has Young Madam in his hands, but his residence is being heavily guarded, so it's nearly impossible for us to make our way in."

His eyes narrowed into dangerous, thin slits. *His place is heavily guarded? I'll blast that godd*mn place if he refuses to hand over my woman.*

"Sir, you should focus on eating more first. Only by keeping your energy reserve up will you be able to find her sooner."

"Just scam out of the way!"

"..."

A faint fragrance wafted toward Ye Erruo amid the gentle breeze.

The endless sea of flowers was just as beautiful as ever.

Arf, arf... Aby excitedly hopped off the horse carriage, dancing and barking in joy around her legs.

Not far away from them was a flower dome she had not visited in a long time. Its presence made her heart start racing with excitement.

According to Brother Jinyan, she had just recovered from a major illness that had caused her to suffer from amnesia. The only things she knew were that she had once spent an enjoyable time with him—her fiancé—at this place and that she and her older brother were orphans...

The flower dome contained furniture, including three little floral chairs, a kennel, a table with many sketchbooks on it, an easel, a piano, a violin, and a harmonica.

The walls were filled with oil and watercolor paintings that she and Brother Jinyan had made.

Back then, she had been a lazy little girl who would always pester the older boy to piggyback her for a long distance every day.

Not a single thing about this place had changed. Everything looked just about the same as she recalled.

Still, a nagging sense of emptiness constantly ate at her. She somehow had the feeling that something was missing.

The young lady spent the entire day in the flower dome with Aby obediently trailing at her heels and going wherever she went.

“Don’t worry, Young Master. The Princess is right here.” Approaching footsteps could be heard from outside.

Is that Brother Jinyan?

Her eyes lit up in delight as she hastily dashed for the door.

“Ruoruo.”

“You’re back, Brother Jinyan!”

Bo Jinyan’s heart calmed down as soon as he saw that the woman was safe and sound.

“Let’s go back together. The Royal Palace is holding a party today, so it’ll be very fun and lively there.”

She nodded obediently. “Okay!”

Just as he extended his hand to take hers...

Awooo... Aby started howling all of a sudden before it nimbly jumped in the woman’s embrace.

She hastily wrapped her arms around it, holding it tight.

The veins on the man’s forehead were visibly bulging and ticking.

This little brat is fighting with me over my fiancée’s affection again?

Awooo... The dog burrowed its head into her arms, thus showing the man, who it was still obviously mad at, its furry little butt instead.

Hmph! You deserve this for not showing me care and concern previously, not giving me food, not coaxing me, lashing out at me, and even disallowing me to see my mommy!

I’m not gonna let you hug or hold mommy’s hands!

Mommy belongs only to me!

“What’s wrong?” Ye Erruo shot Bo Jinyan a baffled look when she noticed that he remained frozen in place.

“Nothing. Let’s get going now.” He approached her and gently put an arm over her shoulders as he closed the door behind them.

Awoooo... Aby started howling as it stared at the arm on its mommy’s shoulders in displeasure.

Don’t you touch her! Don’t you touch her!

In fact, the little mutt was so upset that it even smacked his arm away with its fleshy paws.

“...”

This made the woman crack up. “That’s enough, Aby. Stop fooling around.”

Bark! You are not allowed to touch her!

Chapter 373: The Queen and the Princess Have Arrived

Bark! You are not allowed to touch her!

Bo Jinyan’s face darkened. He was too lazy to be so calculative with a dog.

Before entering the palace, Bo Jinyan put a mask on Ye Erruo.

“Why do we need to wear masks?” Ye Erruo asked doubtfully.

“Everyone will be wearing them,” he answered gently.

“If that’s the case...”

A few minutes later, Ye Erruo and Bo Jinyan entered the palace in a carriage.

In the brightly-lit palace, people were wearing masks and elegant dresses. Every woman at the event was wearing a garland on her head.

The dancers’ long hair fluttered as they performed a gentle, beautiful dance in the middle of the palace.

Elegant music filled the place as more and more people entered it.

“The Princess and the Queen have arrived.”

Woosh!

Everyone’s eyes instantly landed on the palace’s huge doors.

“Your Majesties.” Everyone in the palace bent over slightly to take a bow.

Gu Feirou was wearing a huge red princess gown and her princess tiara was on her head. She entered the palace elegantly with a noble lady beside her.

“I heard that the princess had been missing for many years and was finally found recently.”

“Yes! The Queen put in a lot of effort to look for the princess. It’s been hard on her.”

“Finding her after so many years hasn’t been easy.”

“All is good now. She has been found in the end.”

“Yes, yes! The princess will no longer have to suffer.”

The members of the crowd whispered among themselves.

Meanwhile, Ye Erruo followed Bo Jinyan. Aby had a black butterfly bow around its neck as it lay obediently in her embrace while scanning the crowd with its big, watery eyes.

With their masks on, the Queen and Gu Feirou looked like a pair of sisters.

Sisters...

Suddenly, sourness filled Ye Erruo’s heart and a series of fragmented scenes flashed across her mind.

She felt as if she had witnessed this scene of a woman holding the hand of a child while walking toward the seats in the middle of the palace before. It was all really familiar.

Ahead, the Queen was holding Gu Feirou’s hand with a face full of compassion. On Gu Feirou’s neck was the necklace that signified her status.

“The heavens finally opened their eyes and allowed me to find my daughter after so many years,” she said with gratification.

“Congratulations, my Queen.”

While she was standing above everyone and being worshiped, Gu Feirou’s heart floated. She was the most respected princess, one who everyone would serve and follow blindly.

The castle, the diamonds, and everything else belonged to her. They were all hers. After coming here, she finally knew what a rich world was like.

What was H Nation even worth? What was the MTR brand even worth?

Were they as valuable as the agate there? Were they worth more than a painting or a castle in this place?

Bah!

This was a place lavishly filled with diamonds and agate, and she was the master.

“After hearing that the princess has been found, Your Majesty has prepared a meager gift for you. I hope you will like it.”

That person clapped lightly and four people instantly brought a peacock over.

The peacock was made from numerous treasures, and its body, which shimmered under the lights, left everyone gasping in amazement.

“This is a rainbow peacock. It will change into seven different colors as the seasons change and keep the princess safe and sound.”

Gu Feirou unconsciously touched the necklace on her neck. It was extremely similar to the feathers of the peacock, and the material they were made from was the same as well.

It was so beautiful...

Her eyes brightened as she said bashfully, “Thank you.”

“You’re too courteous, princess.”

“I have also prepared a gift for the princess.”

Then, a golden silk dress was brought forward.

“This dress is made of gold silk. It will keep you warm during the winter and cool during the summer. If you dance in this dress, you will attract butterflies and make them dance with you. You may even call upon all kinds of birds so they will perform songs with you.”

Chapter 374: Ye Erruo’s Four Brothers

Gu Feirou could not believe it. This was too supernatural.

The Queen smiled at how surprised she looked. “Tai Yi is a member of the Elder’s family. The witchcraft in the Elder’s family has been passed down for generations. He has plenty of rare objects in his possession.”

She nodded her head. “I see.”

“Do you like it?”

The greed in Gu Feirou’s eyes did not decrease as she said, “I love it.”

“Princess, I have a gift for you.”

“I have a gift for you too.”

Plenty of gifts were brought out, causing Gu Feirou’s eyes to light up.

Among the crowd, Ye Erruo felt a little melancholic as she stared at the necklace around Gu Feirou’s neck.

The necklace was so familiar that she felt as if she had seen it somewhere before.

“What’s wrong?” Bo Jinyan asked gently after lowering his head when he noticed that something was amiss with her.

“Nothing.”

The dress was beautiful, and so was the peacock. The gifts were all beautiful too.

Women loved all shiny things and bling-bling. Therefore, she could not help but admire her a little.

"You can take them if you like them. Whatever you like is yours." Suddenly, a low voice rang in Ye Erruo's mind.

She raised her head abruptly and looked at Bo Jinyan.

"Exactly what is wrong?" Bo Jinyan furrowed his brows suspiciously and looked at her with worry.

"I like that dress." She was taken aback by her subconscious reply.

Her beautiful eyes were filled with expectations as she blinked and moved her curly eyelashes.

Bo Jinyan's heart was softened in an instant by her eyes. "This dress is a big deal. There is only one in the family. I'll give you another dress, alright? You'll definitely look beautiful when you dance in it. You'll certainly call upon plenty of butterflies too."

However, that dress couldn't keep her warm in the winter or cool in the summer, and neither could it call upon birds to sing with her...

"Alright," Ye Erruo answered disappointedly.

"Good." He reached out and caressed her head.

All of a sudden, someone tapped Ye Erruo's shoulder, causing her to turn around abruptly.

"Xiao Ruoruo, I've missed you so much!" Yu Lingfeng gave her a huge hug.

This was really great. Without Mo Jiangye, he could hug his little sister however he wanted and be close to her in any way he liked.

"The Second Prince, Third Prince, Fourth Prince, and Fifth Prince have arrived."

Following this announcement, four vigorous, elegant men walked in in their royal outfits.

Yu Lingfeng led his little sister to a quiet area. His little sister could only be his little sister. Those four rascals could play with Gu Feirou instead.

"Where are you taking me?"

Bark! Aby, who was unhappy about being squeezed, pawed at Yu Lingfeng's face with its meaty paws. It was quick and accurate, thus stunning the man, who was not able to react in time.

Bo Jinyan laughed softly. He deserved it.

"Aby, do you feel like eating some dog meat?" How dare a dog slap him?

Thankfully, he had not gotten hurt because his skin was thick.

Bark! Who would dare touch this baby when it has a mommy?

Yu Lingfeng grabbed Aby's furry head and petted it aggressively, making its hair as messy as a bird's nest.

Bark! Aby resisted and struggled against him.

The corners of Ye Erruo's lips twitched as she looked at her childish older brother. "Alright, alright."

“You dare fight with me? You are still a little too delicate.”

“...”

“Little Princess, look at what your older brother brought for you as a gift.”

Upon saying that, he opened a box and presented Ye Erruo with a ring. On the ring was a beautiful tiara.

He really wanted to give her a royal crown, but only the princess and his mother could wear one.

Forget it. Although he could not give her a crown, a tiara ring was good enough.

Yu Lingfeng grabbed her hand, only to see another ring on her finger.

Chapter 375: I Will Not Marry You

“Eh? Did Bo Jinyan give you this ring?”

Bo Jinyan’s gaze darkened when he said that. He had seen the ring beforehand. He had wanted to take it off of her initially, but she had held onto it tightly. Seeing how much she liked it after waking up, he had decided not to force her to throw it away.

“Then give me your other hand. I’ll put it on for you.” Upon saying that, Yu Lingfeng took her other hand.

He was just about to put the ring on her when she was pulled into Bo Jinyan’s embrace.

“A ring is not something you can wear casually.”

Yu Lingfeng glared at him unhappily. “What?”

“Only her other half can put a ring on her finger.”

“I am her brother.”

“Therefore, you can’t put it on her finger.”

“...”

“Eh? Who is this?” A married lady sized up Ye Erruo from the side.

She was standing by Bo Jinyan’s side and he was holding her wrist, so it was not hard to take notice of her. Most importantly, their First Prince was about to put a ring on the girl’s finger...

At that moment, a ton of gazes landed on Ye Erruo.

“Who is this lady?”

“Is she the girl the Prince admires?”

“Wow! Which family is she from? How come she is so lucky?”

As the voices got louder, more and more attention was directed their way.

Bo Jinyan hurriedly released Ye Erruo.

"I am..."

"She is my godsister!" Bo Jinyan said coldly.

"This is Young Master Bo's godsister? Oh my god!"

Yu Lingfeng smiled evilly. "Brother-in-law, go and spend some time with my sister. I am going to take this lady out to get some air. If my sister sees the two of you together, she will not be happy."

Bo Jinyan furrowed his brows and got ready to speak when the Queen's voice was heard.

"Jinyan, you have been engaged to my daughter since a young age. Now that my daughter has been found, it's time to talk about your marriage."

"Yes, that's right! Young Master Bo and the princess are childhood sweethearts. They had a really close relationship."

"The two of them are a match made in heaven. Ha ha!"

"Now that the princess is back, Young Master Bo must be ecstatic."

While people were discussing Gu Feirou and Bo Jinyan's marriage, Yu Lingfeng led Ye Erruo out.

Bo Jinyan tightened and loosened his fist, wanting to follow after them but feeling unable to do so. He could only brace himself and answer the Queen, "The Queen is right. The marriage will proceed according to the Queen's arrangements."

"Rou, when would you like to get married?"

Gu Feirou glanced at Bo Jinyan before saying, "I do not want to leave Mother yet. I have yet to fulfill my filial responsibilities as a daughter."

The crowd instantly broke out into compliments for Gu Feirou once again.

"Forget it. You've just returned, so spend more time with Jinyan, interact, and cultivate your relationship. The two of you can decide when you would like to get married." The Queen indulged them.

"Thank you, Mother."

The banquet proceeded normally.

"We would like to invite the princess and Young Master Bo to have the first dance."

CLAP! CLAP! CLAP! Thunderous applause was heard as everyone retreated to the side.

The lights in the palace were turned off, leaving only two rows of candles to illuminate Gu Feirou and Bo Jinyan.

The masks they were wearing created a sense of mystery.

Bo Jinyan walked forward expressionlessly. It was a good thing that Xiao Ruo was not around right now.

"The princess and the prince are so compatible."

"An ideal match made in heaven. Tsk, tsk, tsk..."

“Young Master Bo has waited for the princess for many years. They will definitely be blessed with happiness in the future.”

Bo Jinyan stepped forward and bowed before reaching with his hand for Gu Feirou.

She bowed as well before she began the first dance with him.

“I will not marry you,” she told Bo Jinyan softly. He was not worthy of her princess status at all.

Chapter 376: I Am Someone You Could Never Get In Your Lifetime

“Oh,” Bo Jinyan replied expressionlessly.

She would not marry him? He was the one who didn't want to propose to her.

“I know that you want to marry me, but you are not my type.”

“Mm.”

“I am someone you could never get in your lifetime.”

Bo Jinyan was speechless.

Just like Yu Lingfeng had said, she was truly a retard!

It was no wonder he was so violent with her...

...

Ye Erruo was gloomy as she stepped out of the palace.

“What's wrong, Ruoruo?”

“Aren't I Brother Jinyan's fiancée? Why did he tell everyone that I am his godsister?”

“That was just a lie he told the outsiders. Don't worry, you are his fiancée,” Yu Lingfeng explained.

“Why do we have to lie to outsiders?”

“Some things are hard to explain. Do not overthink things, Xiao Ruo.”

“Okay.” Ye Erruo lowered her head, her mood worsening. “I heard them call you their prince earlier. Since you're my brother, doesn't that mean that I am a princess?”

Yu Lingfeng furrowed his brows and said, “Ruoruo, you got very sick and forgot a lot of things. They are all horrible things and nightmares. Brother Jinyan and I are afraid that you will get hurt. That's why we aren't telling you. All you need to know is that you are Bo Jinyan's fiancée and I am your older brother. You are our little princess. That's all that matters.”

“What kind of illness did I have?”

“You had a terrible fever.”

“What about the nightmares?”

“Ugh... Xiao Ruo, I told you that if you knew, you would only get more upset. That’s why I can’t tell you.”

“Oh,” Ye Erruo responded in low spirits.

The words in her mind earlier had left her feeling ill at ease.

“Do you still want to return to the banquet?”

“I don’t.”

“Then big brother will take you out to play, alright?” Yu Lingfeng’s heart could not cope with her unhappiness.

“Why hasn’t Brother Jinyan come out yet?”

“He has something important to do, so he can’t head out just yet. Let’s go first and he’ll come over later.”

After hesitating for a while, Ye Erruo finally agreed.

The long street was bustling with small activities arranged due to the banquet organized in the Queen’s palace in celebration of the princess’s return.

People were walking about, and plenty of stalls were selling various gadgets and shiny trinkets.

Yu Lingfeng took Ye Erruo along as they strolled through the night market while eating small treats.

He took her to try out various flavors of treats, which improved Ye Erruo’s mood tremendously.

“I want to eat this again.” Ye Erruo lowered her head and glanced at the empty box in her hand.

“Oh... We will have to buy this again. Wait here for me. I’ll go buy it for you.”

“Okay.”

“Ring toss! Ring toss!”

When Yu Lingfeng left, Ye Erruo began to shop around alone.

All of a sudden, her gaze fell on a rogue rabbit at a stall. It was adorable, but she needed to win the ring toss to get it.

“Give me ten rings.”

“Sure thing, miss.”

“Young Master, Young Master! Please walk slowly.” Bo Yu followed Mo Jiangye anxiously.

“Where is she?” Mo Jiangye scanned the crowd as he looked for her frantically.

D*mn it! He had been here for more than a week, yet he had finally seen his woman. He had tried to raid Bo Jinyan’s broken old place a few times but had failed, almost alerting the enemy as a result.

“She is on this night market street.”

Mo Jiangye's face darkened. This street was several hundred meters long with various winding lanes. How was he going to find her?

"Young Master, Young Master!" Bo Yu patted Mo Jiangye's shoulders excitedly.

"Get lost, d*mn it!"

"Look! Is that Young Madam?"

Ah! Mo Jiangye turned his head back abruptly.

Chapter 377: Ye Erruo Sees Mo Jiangye Again

With just one glance, he spotted her in the crowd.

"Damn! Can't you walk properly?"

"Ah! Hey, why is this person so rude?"

"Psst... That hurts so much!"

Every person who was blocking Mo Jiangye's line of sight was pushed harshly away by him.

His frantic gaze remained fixed on the woman not far away as he moved as fast as the wind. He was afraid that she would disappear in a moment.

The lively, bustling noise was blocked out of Mo Jiangye's mind. He only had eyes for the woman standing not far away.

Her dress was pretty. She was as beautiful as a princess...

"Give me ten more rings," Ye Erruo said indignantly.

The stall owner gave her ten more rings.

At that moment, Mo Jiangye was only a few meters away from her. He stood where he was, afraid to approach her. The struggle, hesitance, pain, and surprise were evident in his eyes.

That silly *sshole had said that she didn't remember him now.

She didn't remember him... To her, he was just a stranger...

If he dashed toward her out of nowhere, would that affect her first impression of him?

If her first impression of him was not good, would that mean she wouldn't want him anymore?

Mo Jiangye suppressed the urge to rush forward and hug her. He tightened and loosened his fist repeatedly with a pained look on his face.

It seemed as if he had not seen her for over a century. He had missed her so much. He had thought about her every single day, yet... she did not remember who he was.

"Miss, you have already thrown forty rings and you did not manage to score. Since it is so far away, why don't you aim for a target that is closer to you?" The stall owner advised her kindly.

Ye Erruo's gaze was resolute. She wanted that rogue rabbit no matter what!

"Give me twenty more."

Awkwardly, the man asked, "Miss, could you pay for the forty rings first?"

Ye Erruo stiffened upon hearing that. Money? She didn't have any...

"Miss?"

"Someone will give it to you later."

The stall owner shook his head. "Then I can't give you any more rings."

"How much is it? I can pay. Miss, you want that rabbit, right? I can help you toss the rings. I am very accurate."

"My skills are very accurate too. Miss, let me help you."

"Boss, give me fifty rings. I will help the lady throw them."

The men drooling over Ye Erruo had begun to feel restless. Now, they finally had the chance to take action.

Behind them, Mo Jiangye glared harshly. D*mn it!

So many ugly men were thinking about his woman. They had gotten totally carried away by their wishful thinking, as she was out of their league.

Woosh!

One ring after another was thrown in the rabbit's direction as the men around the stall fought over who would be the first to toss the ring to get the stuffed bunny.

Very soon, Ye Erruo was squeezed to the side as all the rings in the stall owner's hands were bought...

Those who said that their skills were accurate did not manage to score even after tossing two to three times.

The stuffed bunny was way in the back. Various types and models of rogue rabbits were available, positioned from the smallest to the largest in succession.

Suddenly, a well-built body retreated. Anxious to find a suitable spot to toss the rings, he did not notice that he had pushed Ye Erruo to the back at all.

"You guys..." Ye Erruo stumbled backward unsteadily.

All of a sudden, her body landed in someone's embrace and she was supported. She lifted her head subconsciously, her pupils shrinking abruptly.

What kind of a man was this?

He was even more good-looking than Brother Jinyan.

For some reason, she felt a strange throbbing sensation. Her heart began to pound faster as warmth filled it.

She stayed in his embrace, not moving as she stared foolishly at the somewhat familiar man.

Mo Jiangye's hand began to sweat out of nervousness. What kind of expression was this? Had she really forgotten about him?

"Am I that good-looking?" Mo Jiangye asked her with a strange look on his face.

Chapter 378: Ye Erruo Is Amnesiac

"Am I that good-looking?" Mo Jiangye asked her with a strange look on his face.

The woman quickly slipped away from his grip. Her face was red and hot by now, and she hardly dared to look him in the eye.

The man was so upset with himself for scaring her away that he almost wanted to punch his own head. He had not held her in a long time and wished he had held her longer in his arms.

"Thank... Thank you..." She lapsed into talking gibberish as her heart was pounding fast.

Thank you?

His face sank. So she has indeed...

*D*mn it! D*mn it! D*mn it!*

That d*mned grotesque jerk! He swore he would make that fella pay his dues when he saw him again.

"Boss, can you move the rabbit closer?"

"That's right. Who can strike the bunny when you've placed it so far away?"

The men started to grumble with sullen faces.

"No way!" The owner refused flatly. They must be kidding, right?

How could he possibly make it easy for them unless he wanted to suffer a loss?

Mo Jiangye used his peripheral vision to scan the items on the ground and a small spark of delight fired up his heart. His eyes shone instantly when he caught sight of the row of Mashimaro plushies.

Even though his woman could not remember him, her subconscious still held an inkling of the things that had connected the two of them.

Then, his eyes saw the ring on her finger and his heart almost melted. He wanted to leap into the air with joy!

His aloof face was expressionless as he took the hoops that the owner had just picked up.

With a wave of his arm, five hoops landed neatly over the heads of five consecutive plushies in a row.

WOW!

Cries of wonder could be heard as the crowd turned their eyes on him in astonishment and admiration.

The owner's demeanor turned sour at once, but there was nothing he could do except take down the five Mashimaro plushies mournfully.

"Congrats, sir. What excellent luck you have!"

The man glanced at the plushies in the owner's hands before turning his gaze to the lady.

The owner could tell what his intention was instantly!

"Come here, missy. These are yours."

The lady was hesitant, though. Five plushies were too many. Plus, she didn't know him. Why should she accept this gift?

The man could see through her concern.

"I want to exchange the five small plushies with that big one," he told the owner brashly.

There was a large Mashimaro plushie in the back. He had not attempted to win that soft toy because the hoops weren't large enough to fit around its head.

"No way, Mister! Only twenty small plushies can be exchanged for that giant toy." He would suffer a loss if he allowed the man to give him only five in exchange.

Bo Yu took a few notes out of his wallet and passed them to the owner. "We'll get the big one in exchange for the five small ones and this cash."

The owner was stunned when he saw the amount that he was paid. This money was sufficient to buy a few big ones! He dared not accept it...

As he was hesitating, the assistant simply stuffed the money into his hands and gave the big plushie to his master.

"Young Master!"

His eyes glistening with emotion, the man walked toward his lady with the toy bunny.

The woman retreated shyly as the man continued to walk toward her with his unblinking gaze fixed on her.

"I don't want your stuff."

He couldn't care less. He just pushed it into her arms forcefully.

Then...

As Bo Yu watched his Young Master in action, he could not help praising his bravery.

Time seemed to stop in its tracks as Ye Erruo froze on the spot with her beautiful big round eyes open wide in disbelief.

When the man saw Baby Ruo again and heard her talking to him, he only had one thought in mind: He wanted so much to hold her in his embrace and take her away.

“Baby Ruo, have you really forgotten me?” he muttered softly, full of forlornness and grievance.

Chapter 379: She Can Jolly Well Give Up The Thought Of Another Man!

Thirty seconds later, the man walked away from her with a deadpan expression, commenting as he left, “You have paid for my gift with a kiss. We’re even now.”

The woman stood rooted to the spot.

The people around the couple were looking at them incredulously. The truth was, they looked really compatible with each other given their good looks. They were practically a match made in heaven. While admiring the couple, they could only shake their heads in resignation as they watched the man walk away from the woman.

The men who had been initially interested in the woman had to admit defeat and give up unwillingly in the end.

The owner also put the five small Mashimaro plushies back to their respective places and replaced the giant one with a fresh item.

“You...” By the time she finally got over her shock, she could only glare at him with an embarrassed blush.

On the other hand, Mo Jiangye was feeling rather alarmed at the thought of her being upset. That kiss of his had happened spontaneously because he hadn’t been able to stop himself.

“Ruoruo? Ruoruo!”

Yu Lingfeng could be heard calling for her from a short distance away.

Her heart still pounding fast, she hugged the plushie close to her chest before running away.

The young master’s face sank when he heard the other man calling out for her. *Why is that sshole here too? I haven’t seen enough of my wifey yet!

“Is she angry with me?”

The question took Bo Yu by surprise, but he hurriedly reassured his master. “No, she isn’t. Young Madam is feeling shy, that’s all. If she had been upset with you, she would have slapped you.”

Mo Jiangye heaved a sigh of relief when he heard that. “Really?”

His assistant, who didn’t know how to comfort his master anymore, was thinking to himself: Young Master, how would I know? I have not been in a relationship before, so how would I know what’s on her mind?

Still, a woman would instinctively slap a man if she was molested, wouldn’t she? Wouldn’t that be her natural reaction? It may mean that she likes him since she didn’t slap him, right?

When the young scion did not hear his henchman's affirmation, he abruptly turned and glared at him.
"Are you deaf?"

"Yes, sir. Young Madam must have gotten good vibes from you."

The man furrowed his brows at the comment. "Good vibes?"

Does that mean I left a good impression on her?

The mere thought was enough to make some color return to his face.

"Let's follow her."

"Got it, Master."

The master-servant pair started to tail the lady in secret.

"Where did this come from?" Yu Lingfeng looked quizzically at the bunny plushie in Ye Erruo's arms.

Her face blushed hot and red again.

Where did this come from?

"What's wrong?" Her brother was clueless about her unexplained change in demeanor.

"I won it in a hula hoop game."

"Where did you get the money to play the game?" The man remembered that he was the one holding the wallet.

"I... I won it through a lucky draw."

"I didn't know you were this lucky!" Her brother chuckled softly and passed her the food she had asked for.

"You can eat while I carry your plushie for you."

As he reached for the bunny, the woman quickly hid it away from his grasp. "No, you don't have to do that. I'm not eating now."

Her brother was stunned by her sudden, big reaction. "Alright then."

"Bo Jinyan may come over later than usual tonight, as he has a lot of work to attend to."

She nodded. "It's fine." Somehow, her heart had yet to get over the giddy, sweet sensation she had experienced.

"There's a pretty water lantern decoration just ahead of us. Come on, I'll take you over there."

He couldn't wait to take her to all the beautiful and enjoyable places in the kingdom. His beloved young sister was finally back in Blue Tower after missing for such a long time.

"Water lantern decoration?"

"Xiao Ruo, what do you wish for in your heart?"

"I want to marry Brother Jinyan," she blurted out. However, as soon as she said that, a sense of unexplained discomfort cut across her heart.

The man, who had been stalking her, heard her words loud and clear. It hurt him so much to hear those words come out of her mouth. At the same time, the thought of her wanting to marry another man antagonized him greatly.

*What? You want to marry that ugly b*stard?*

Heh!

No way!

As her legal husband, he would never agree to that.

She could jolly well give up the thought of marrying another man! Other than him, she could have no other man!

Chapter 380: Marrying Brother Jinyan

"What other wishes do you have besides marrying Jinyan?"

She thought about it for a while. There didn't seem to be anything else she wanted, except perhaps another kiss...

Hey, hold that thought, Ye Erruo. What are you thinking of?

Clenching her shell-like teeth, she squashed the plushie in her arms in frustration. That rogue is to blame for my weird thought!

"So what other wishes do you have? Have you ever wished that you didn't need to get married so you could stay by my side?"

She turned her head sideways and glanced at him. "How would I marry Brother Jinyan if I stayed by your side forever?"

The man didn't know how to answer his sister. Seriously, all she could talk about was Brother Jinyan nowadays. In fact, the man even reckoned that there was no need for Mo Jiangye to appear since she was so smitten with Bo Jinyan. He doubted her real husband would be able to tear her away from her childhood sweetheart.

Meanwhile, Bo Yu could feel a cold, forbidding sense of menace emanating from his young master.

Yu Linfeng took his sister to an extensive, broad river where the water was beautifully lit up by water lanterns. A glowing gigantic tree stood in the center of the river, where red threads and tokens of prayer were hanging from the branches.

"Do you want to go over?"

The lady scanned the surroundings with her eyes. She could see a number of small rowing boats docked nearby.

“Don’t you wish to marry Brother Jinyan? You can write down your wish and hang it from that lucky tree over there. Your wish will come true.”

She did not buy into it, though.

Under the nightlights, the water lanterns floated on the river and slowly drifted into the distance.

The lanterns came in all shapes and sizes, turning the river into a beautiful, surreal experience. The place was bustling with life, and many couples could be spotted in the crowd.

After she got in a boat, she turned her head to look past her shoulder. To her pleasant surprise, she caught a glimpse of the man who had just taken advantage of her. Her heart started to pound furiously.

“What are you looking at?” Her brother followed the direction of her gaze and looked into the distance, but he could not make out anyone or anything that might have caught her attention in the maddening crowd.

She hastily turned to face the front again. “Nothing much.”

After the boat reached the riverbank, she would often turn to gaze behind her. True enough, that man had followed her across the river.

However, she was very disappointed when she did not see him again upon turning her head to check again. With a sinking feeling, she wondered if she had read too much into his actions. She had assumed that he was stalking her.

“Xiao Ruo, what are you looking at?”

“Oh, I’m admiring the lanterns. Where do these lanterns drift to?”

Her brother replied with a smile, “This is a long, winding river. Do you like bunnies?”

The woman dipped her head to glance at the bunny in her arms and pursed her lips momentarily before replying, “Yes.”

“I’ll get you a cage of rabbits later.”

“...”

He took her further into the island. The glowing tree was in the center of the river on the island. Besides the prayer belts, she could also see many little light bulbs hanging from the branches of the tree.

What was even more amazing was that a door was visible on the tree. Beyond the door was the sea world. A see-through, arched corridor formed a passageway through the underwater world. All around them, fish and seaweed abound.

She remembered that Brother Jinyan would often bring her to the underwater world when they were little. They would also ride his dolphin to explore many places.

“Where is this place?”

“This is where the water deity lives.”

“Water deity?”

“Those who pray to this deity for a good marriage or relationship will get their wishes granted.”

“Achoo!” Ye Erruo let out a loud sneeze as she walked further in with her brother. Many people were streaming out of the place of interest as well.

Mo Jiangye, who was tailing them, felt grouchy when he saw her sneeze. *It's cold. Why didn't that silly sshole get her another coat?

His assistant, who was closely following his master, blurted out suddenly, “Young Master, I noticed that Young Madam...”