

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 147

Bam!

Ivan shut the door the next second which caught Catherine off guard.

The sense in her head stopped her when she was about to knock again. And it was hard for her.

Inside the room, Jennifer stared at Ivan with her eyes wide open.

Was he out of his mind?

Then Ivan walked towards her with one hand on her waist and the other one taking off her mask, and then he kissed her again.

This kiss also caught her off guard.

She opened her eyes really wide and she didn't dare to make any noise as she was afraid to let others hear them.

Perhaps Ivan knew that she was going to act this way so he kissed more boldly.

Catherine took two steps back with sorrow and walked toward the stairs.

She suddenly stopped on the top of the stairs and thought of something.

The hand holding the handrail tightened its grasp. Then she looked back at that door and went upstairs again.

Catherine was hiding in the corner and waiting for the door to open.

Three minutes later...

Five minutes later...

She withdrew her head when she finally saw Ivan walking out of that room. And she saw him walking downstairs when she poked her head out again.

Then she walked toward Darcie's room and knocked.

A few seconds later, Jennifer opened the door with her mask on. She thought it was Ivan knocking again, and didn't expect to see this woman.

Catherine looked composed and suddenly pushed the door wide open and walked in when Jennifer was not paying attention.

Jennifer took a glance at her.

Catherine was furious when she saw the wrinkled bedsheet.

She could imagine what happened here before.

“What drug did you use on him?” Catherine glared at her and frowned, “How did you drug him? What have you done?”

At this time, Ivan walked steadily upstairs with a kettle of Earl Grey in his hand.

He noticed that the door of Darcie’s room was open and people were talking.

Jennifer faked her voice and said calmly, “I don’t know what are you talking about. Please get out.”

Catherine took a few steps forward and wanted to take off her mask.

Jennifer leaned backward and managed to dodge her. She then grabbed Catherine’s arm in the air.

The grabbing upset Catherine even more, “Answer me! Why was Ivan staying in your room for such a long time? What have you done in bed?” Catherine had lost her cool already.

“Mr. Marsh.” Jennifer looked at the door and loosened her arm.

Catherine froze. And she saw Ivan standing at the door when she turned around.

It was awkward but she still felt furious.

“Mr. Marsh, don’t let two women handle this when it involves three of us.” Jennifer said in a composed voice, “Why don’t you tell her what happened here?” Her faking voice was perfect.

Ivan walked in and put the Earl Grey on the table, looking indifferent.

While waiting for an explanation, Catherine forgot who she was to him. She thought she could meddle in his personal life even if that woman was not Jennifer.

“Doctor,” Ivan said in a deep voice while looking at Jennifer gently, “you should go back to the research room. Doctor Watson is waiting.”

“Okay.” Jennifer soon got the idea that Ivan didn’t want Catherine to know her true identity and Jennifer almost told her.

Catherine couldn’t stop her as Ivan asked her to go.

After Jennifer left, Ivan said unpleasantly with his hands in his pocket, “Was anything that happened here your business?”

“...” Catherine got choked by his words and there was a trace of consternation in her eyes.

“Even if something did happen between me and Darcie, I don’t think you get to be the one asking,” Ivan said in a condescending manner.

What did he mean by that?

He had feelings for Darcie?

Ivan then added before she reacted, "I'm gonna ask you to leave. And don't bother coming here from now on. If you did something to affect Darcie and my mother's treatment, I'll pin this on you."