

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 297

After Marry left, Ivan went back to the room and took a bottle of whiskey.

Standing still in front of the bedroom window, he took a sip of the Whiskey directly from the bottle. Looking out the window at the deep night, he gradually lost in thought.

Jennifer's face came to his mind, but he couldn't remember anything about her

The next morning.

In Spencer's villa, the bedroom was still filled with the smell of wine.

The alarm went off, Jennifer got up and took a shower, got changed, and dried her hair

She was going to Emerald Bay today to see Alfie and Diana. She had promised Alfie to go there for breakfast.

Looking at her slightly haggard face in the mirror, Jennifer deliberately put on light makeup. She got dark circles.

After all, Ivan would not go to the company on Saturday. So, he would be at home. Therefore, she had to pay attention to her image.

Spencer was standing outside the door when Jennifer opened the bedroom door. Holding the door frame in a handsome position, he greeted, "Morning."

Didn't this guy need to sleep?

Jennifer looked at him. He had showered, no longer smelling like alcohol. And he looked good.

"I have to remind you." Spencer stood up straight, half-jokingly and half-seriously said, "Although I was drunk last night, I was not deaf! I heard that you would give me a chance. You must not break your promise."

Her gaze was unfathomable as she stared at him

"Let's go, it's time for breakfast!" Spencer was in a good mood, smiling. "Rest assured, I will work hard for this minor hope!"

"I am going to Emerald Bay for breakfast today," Jennifer told him. "I promised Alfie to visit them today."

Spencer scowled. "Visit them? You can't wait? Does this week count?"

"Why not?" she asked.

He was suddenly a little depressed. It was Saturday, and Ivan would be at home.

They were going to see each other again.

Jennifer looked at Spencer and then walked past him, heading downstairs.

Spencer came back to his sense and followed. "Let me drive you there."

"I'm seeing my children. What's that got to do with you?" Jennifer knew no good thing would happen if Spencer went with her.

"I'll send you to the door and leave."

Going downstairs, he said to Tammy, "Have breakfast. We are leaving."

In the courtyard, he opened the car door. Jennifer glanced at him and got in the car.

"I only have two scenes today." Spencer got into the car. "I'll pick you up when I'm done."

"No," she refused. "I'll come back myself."

He thought about it, it was good enough that she said she would come back. So, he decided to give her enough space. "Okay, then I'm not going to pick you up. But I have to remind you of your identity. You're his ex-wife."

Jennifer turned her eyes away. Spencer looked ahead and started the car.

Along the way, Spencer felt awful. The last thing he wanted was for Jennifer to see Ivan!

But Ivan was getting married. Nothing would happen between him and Jennifer.

At Emerald Bay.

Marry got up early to make breakfast in the kitchen because she knew Jennifer was coming today.

Upstairs in the children's room, Alfie and Diana also got up early.

Alfie had put on his clothes. He was on the phone, mysteriously saying something to the other person. "Believe me, just go. Children don't lie."

"Alfie, has mommy arrived?" Diana sat on the bed, seriously putting on her small skirt, her hair was messy.

Alfie glanced out the window. "Not yet."

Diana asked again, "Do you think daddy has got up?"

"I guess!" Alfie said, "We must get Daddy and Mommy back together!"

"Yes! This wedding must be stopped! I don't want Catherine to be my stepmother! I hate her!"

For this, Alfie and Dianna reached an agreement on the goal that they would work hard to achieve.
