

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 304

When Ivan opened his eyes again, he met Jennifer's eye, which were filled with worried. They were so close to each other and all they could see was the other.

"Are you having a headache?" Jennifer was a doctor and she found it at a glance. "Let's go home, shall we? We can stop here."

As she said, she turned around and was about to change her clothes.

Before she could, Ivan grabbed her wrist and gently pulled her into his arms. Then, he put his other hand on her waist.

The kids covered their eyes with their hands in surprise and smiled.

Crack!

This moment was captured by the photographer and it looked amazing.

As if being burned, Jennifer quickly withdrew her other hand that was not clasped by Ivan.

She looked up and looked into his eyes and she didn't even dare to breathe, with her lips trembling. Her heart raced and her mind went blank.

The photographer was shooting at different angles. The pictures looked amazing.

Jennifer could hear the sound of the camera shooting.

Finally, she came to herself, gently pushed Ivan away, and looked at the kids in embarrassment.

The kids were overjoyed with smiles on their faces, they raised their thumbs at Jennifer.

Jennifer felt a bit uneasy. She wasn't playing hard-to-get.

Strangely enough, even before they walked out of the photo studio, some pictures had been leaked onto the Internet.

There were photos of the four of them holding hands and walking into the studio.

The photos looked warm and sweet.

It only took less than three minutes for this to go on Twitter trend. Everyone was discussing it.

The ones with the wedding dresses were the last set of photos and they looked the best.

Everyone was a little tired, so they changed into their own clothes and decided to go home.

When she was walking downstairs, Jennifer felt dizzy in her head. Before she could support herself with a handrail, her sight suddenly went dark and she stood there still.

“What’s wrong?” Ivan spotted it and stopped.

Jennifer’s face was pale and she bent her knees. Out of instinct, Ivan held her into his arms.

“Jennie!” Ivan was flustered, “Jennie, wake up!” He then carried her in his arms and went downstairs hurriedly.

“Mommy!”

The kids also rushed downstairs.

Outside the studio.

When Ivan passed by his Lamborghini with Jennifer in his arms, he shouted at the driver, “Send the kids home!”

“Mommy!”

Alfie and Diana were worried, when they were about to follow Ivan, they were stopped by the driver.

“Sir, miss, please get in the car.”

“But Mommy!”

“Mommy has passed out, I want to see her!”

“Mr. Marsh will send her to the hospital. You shouldn’t let him worry about you,” the driver said.

“Please get in the car. Let me send you home first. Hospitals aren’t for kids.”

Ivan had run far away with Jennifer in his arms and there was nothing the kids could do.

When Ivan ran to the roadside, he hailed a taxi.

In a hospital, in a VIP ward.

Catherine, with her swollen cheeks, was sitting in bed. Her face looked twice the size it used to be.

Although she said she would cooperate with the treatment, her mind was long somewhere else.

She was staring at the door. Why hadn’t Ivan come yet? Was he not going to come?

As time passed, she felt more and more lost.

At this moment, there was a ringtone on her phone.

She grabbed her phone and saw a news. She saw the words “Ivan Marsh” and “ex-wife” and quickly clicked into it.

“Ivan Marsh Taking Family Photos with Ex-wife, Sweet.”

“Ivan Marsh Getting Back Together with Ex-wife, Postponing the Wedding with Catherine Collins.”

As she saw the high-definition photos and the intimacy between Ivan and Jennifer in the photos, Catherine felt heartbroken.

What a happy family!

Especially when she saw the photo in which Jennifer was wearing a wedding dress and Ivan was holding her waist, the two of them were looking into each other’s eyes affectionately, she felt more pain.

Down in the comments, there were all guesses about the wedding next month.

Everyone was wondering if the wedding would be held as scheduled.

There were even someone betting that Ivan would cancel the wedding.

Many people were in favor of Ivan and Jennifer getting back together.

There was also someone who wanted to see Catherine being humiliated.

Every word pissed her off and she was trembling in anger.

Catherine held the quilt tightly in her hands with burning anger in her eyes.