

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 329

Tammy failed to see Jennifer in the living room on the second floor, so she knocked on Jennifer's bedroom door, her ear clinging to it. "Ms. Brooks?" she called, but Jennifer didn't respond.

Tammy opened the door. "Ms. Brooks?" The room was empty, but she heard the sound of water from the bathroom.

Tammy approached and stopped at the door. Then she knocked on it gently. "Excuse me, Ms. Brooks."

The water stopped. Jennifer asked, "Yes, Tammy?"

"Are you bathing?" Tammy asked uneasily. "Can you please make it quick? Mr. Marsh is here."

"I won't see him. Please let him leave," answered Jennifer determinedly. She had decided to stay away from any businesses from the Marsh family.

Tammy answered anxiously, "He's in the rain. Mr. Lawrence refused to let him enter. Mr. Marsh is unwilling to leave. I'm afraid he'll get a cold."

Jennifer's fingers gripped the edge of the bathtub. She peered out the window subconsciously.

The next second, she jumped to her feet, the water splashing. She pulled the bathrobe to wrap her body up. After getting dried, she put on her clothes as soon as she could.

Her heart tightened, making it difficult to put on everything smoothly.

When Tammy was about to knock on the door again, Jennifer opened the door without drying her hair. She rushed out of her bedroom and trotted downstairs in slippers.

"Slow down, Ms. Brooks." Tammy was worried when seeing the water stain on the floor, following her quickly.

Jennifer saw Ivan standing in the storm determinedly through the floor-to-ceiling window in the living room.

She grabbed the big, black umbrella and rushed out.

After pushing Spencer away, she ran toward Ivan without caring if Spencer fell to the ground.

Jennifer looked at him, feeling sorry. Ivan was completely soaked in the rain. The rain water dripped from his hair to his straight nose bridge, and his hair bang clung to his forehead.

For a moment, Ivan was shocked as he saw her hair wet and wrapped in a towel, and he also saw her wear slippers.

He could tell how much she cared about him as she rushed to him hurriedly.

His heart filled with joy. His expression eased to a smile. Finally, he had seen Jennifer. "Jennie..."

"What's wrong?" Jennifer panicked. A doctor's intuition told her that something was wrong with him. "Ivan!"

The big, black umbrella dropped from his hand. In the downpour, Jennifer helped him up, but he had fainted.

Spencer rushed over to help Jennifer and Ivan after seeing the scene. He said, "Jennifer, go back. I'll carry him."

Jennifer didn't listen, worriedly looking at Ivan. "Don't scare me, Ivan. Wake up!"

"Get into the house!" Spencer roared. "You think I'll hit him after he's fainted?" He carried Ivan on his back as he spoke and rushed into the living room.

Jennifer returned to her senses and followed them.

Tammy hurriedly passed two shower towels to them. Then she draped one on Jennifer's shoulders. "Ms. Brooks, you should get changed and dry your hair. Or you'll get a cold."

However, Jennifer rushed to the couch where Ivan was put on. She dried him with a towel.

When she covered his forehead with her hand, Jennifer muttered, "He's having a fever..." The high temperature made her withdraw her hand immediately.