

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 34

Alfie shielded Diana behind him and shouted at the woman, "Jackson bullied my sister first! And he kicked me first! He deserved it! No one can bully my sister!"

The woman was enraged entirely by Alfie, gritting her teeth, "Little brat, how dare you!" She was about to hit Alfie.

In the nick of time, the woman was grabbed by two bodyguards. Their warning gaze was as sharp as knives.

"It hurts!" The woman was hopping mad.

Ivan stroked the children's heads tenderly, looking at the woman angrily.

"Daddy." Diana said, "They deliberately picked on us first."

Ivan bent down and carried Diana into his arms, "Daddy knows."

"Mr. Marsh." The woman recognized him at once. Her legs went weak with fear, and she fell to the floor, "They are your children?"

Ivan did not respond.

The woman was fearful, but she continued with the eagerness to protect her son. "But now my son is injured, and it's just not right to do it in the kindergarten." Although she had mostly calmed herself, her voice still trembled.

"I'm not here to reason with you." Ivan stared at her indifferently, "I'm here to back my kids up."

The woman was frightened, and the teacher didn't even dare to breathe.

"Transfer your child to another school." Ivan's eyes glinted with indifference. "My kids don't want to see your son again."

The woman instantly stiffened, her lips trembling.

She smiled the next second, "Mr. Marsh, for the sake of our partnership..."

"No more collaboration. It's now cancelled."

The woman's brain went blank instantly.

Ivan called the principal and requested to transfer Jackson to another school, and the principal nodded and immediately executed it.

He took the kids to the car and calmed them down with two boxes of mango salad. "Here, try it. I just bought it from the store downstairs at the company. It tastes pretty good."

"Thank you, daddy!" Alfie gave him a thumb up. You're so handsome today!"

Ivan smiled, dotingly stroked his little head, and then looked at Diana. Daddy's around, don't be afraid."

"Okay."

"Daddy, I have a present for you." Alfie put down the mango salad and opened his bag, "I hacked the main server of R-Alan today, look!" He took out the iPad, "They have been trying to break into your server. Now well, teach them a lesson."

Ivan was shocked. What a genius son!

"Daddy, do you like the gift?" Alfie asked proudly.

"Love it." Ivan felt Alfie was not only a son but a treasure, "but, next time, can you discuss it with me first? I worry about you."

"Okay!"

In the R-Alan headquarters.

"Signal received." A programmer excitedly shouted, "Look. It's here."

"Zoom in."

All the staff was exhilarated as the location zoomed in actually to show the Bright Star Kindergarten.

"Kindergarten?"

"Why would a hacker be in a kindergarten?"

"Is there something wrong?"

The signal quickly disappeared when they were confused.

Everyone felt absurd and under unprecedented pressure. They initially thought the opponent was an overseas genius or related to the Marsh Group, but who could've expected that it appeared in a kindergarten?

The kindergarten had only groups of children and teachers.

Could it be a mistake?

"Check it."

"Find out the relationship between the Marsh Group and the kindergarten."

Someone said excitedly, "Check the news! Ivan's son and daughter are in this kindergarten! It's on the headline."

“Yes, I’ve seen it too.”

“These two kids are not the point.” The leading man analyzed, “We have to find out the hacker and ask him to work for us, or else we have to get rid of him! And we have to find out if he is related to the Marsh Group.”