

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 368

It was Spencer.

Now, at the shooting site of "Love in Violet Gold Bay" in Arkpool City.

Now it was during a interval and all staff and cast were present.

The director said confidently, "If we could get StaRise to dub for the leading lady, our series will definitely become a hit."

"But how could we find her?" someone said disappointedly.

Another one continued for him, "And it is said StaRise is rich. She doesn't need money."

"Is she a female or a male?"

"No idea. Can't find it online. She could dub for both male and female characters."

"I know she was picky about the script. And it also depends on whether she is available or not and whether she was willing to take the job or not.

The producer asked, "You don't know her?"

All the present shook their head, "No. She's really hard to find."

Someone said, "She dubbed for a TV series called 'Cross Swords' and then disappeared. The director of that series tried to contact her to dub for season two and he failed. Now no one knows how to contact her."

"Then what shall we do?"

Spencer, who had been silent for a while, said, "I've found her email address on Facebook. I've emailed her. I don't know whether I could make it or not."

"Her email address? Really? You sure about that?"

"Not sure."

"If we could get StaRise to dub for us, the series will be a hit," the director was looking forward to his cooperation with StaRise, "We sent some lines of the leading lady. If she agreed

The producer said, "If it is her address, we must keep invite her until she was willing to cooperate with us."

Spencer was confident in his charm. Now he was so famous. StaRise must know who he was.

His intuition told him that StaRise must be a woman.

In the small town.

Jennifer read the email, in which Spencer asked whether she was StaRise or not. And then he introduced the series to her and asked whether she was willing to dub for the series or not.

“What happened?” Ivan looked at her, “Who sent the email?”

Jennifer could still remember how considerate Spencer was when she was with him. But now he had lost his last chance to get married with her.

She didn’t even say goodbye to him.

Now in reflection, Jennifer felt so sorry for Spencer.

Now she decided to do him a favor.

She gave her phone to Ivan and said, “He found me.”

Ivan took the phone and saw Spencer’s name.

But he didn’t know what had happened and said, “What is that? He sent the email to invite StaRise to dub for his series and why did he send it to your address?”

Jennifer looked at him and didn’t say anything.

“You’re StaRise?” Ivan was shocked but he still asked calmly.

“Have you heard of her?” Jennifer had a sip of wine, “You can Google her. the mysterious dubber.”

“I’ve heard her voice before,” Ivan was shocked. StaRise was the woman stilling before him?

“So, you are StaRise?”

“Yeah.”

“How many surprises are you still hiding from me?” Ivan said surprisedly, “Someone would spend his whole life to be excellent in one field. But you... you are so good in so many fields. How did you make it?”

Jennifer said, “Be the best or nothing.”

What a woman!

“Now Spencer is inviting me, no, StaRise, to take the job,” Jennifer asked Ivan, “Should StaRise agreed or not?”

Ivan knew she respected his wish.

And he also knew what she wanted. Now she was already his wife. There was no need to worry.

So, he said instantly, "It's up to you. Take the job if you want."
