

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 412

After returning to his bedroom, Spencer picked up a bottle of wine and sat next to the French window. He browsed the news on his tablet, only to find more and more negative news about him since the afternoon.

The number of likes and reposts increased crazily.

Spencer had expertise in network security and used to win the championship in an international cybersecurity contest.

According to his experience, he could tell someone deliberately made trouble for him.

Whoever was behind this must have wanted to tarnish his reputation, so all his negative news appeared online suddenly.

The topics included "Spencer Lawrence is arrogant. He's just a scumbag," "Spencer Lawrence won't be famous for long. He'll fall pretty soon," and "Spencer Lawrence used to have 187 girlfriends. He's a modern Casanova."

Although his fans defended him, the shocking titles of those posts brought many trolls online.

Spencer browsed the news while sipping the wine. He didn't get angry.

He was alone and didn't care about his reputation at all.

However, he was curious to find out the manipulator.

Spencer thought about Ivan, but it didn't match Ivan's style, as he had never been so bored.

He took a sip of wine and browsed the news again. Every second, exactly one hundred likes would be added to the comments below the negative news. He confirmed that it was done by a certain kind of software.

Therefore, in curiosity, Spencer started searching for the manipulator.

'We can fight one-on-one. Don't hide there and play dirty tricks!'

As a professional hacker, Spencer wrote a program in ten minutes and hit the enter button.

On the dark screen of his tablet, a name suddenly appeared— Hanson Moran.

Spencer had no impression of this name, so he searched online.

In three minutes, he roughly read all of Hanson's information.

Hanson used to be a superstar in the entertainment business and he was known as Lady Killer.

He looked arrogant and proud on the screen, as if he scorned everything.

In many of his photos, he wore a denim jacket above a naked top without pulling up the zipper or buttoning, revealing his suntanned skin.

He had criminal records and used to be sent to jail because of fighting.

While filming a scene two years ago, his legs were broken due to the malfunction of the wire. Then he retired.

It seemed Hanson still paid attention to the entertainment business.

Spencer believed that Hanson had become jealous of him.

After all, he was more famous than Hanson.

‘What does he want? A second chance in the business?’

Spencer also noticed that most of his current fans used to be fans of this Hanson. He guessed that was also a reason that Hanson had become annoyed.

However, Spencer disdained getting even with him. He put away the tablet, raised his head, and gulped some wine.

Kelsington Bay.

Dinner ended in harmony.

After seeing Ivan finish all his entree, Aubree was overjoyed. She could tell Ivan’s gastric problem had been solved.

Health always came first.

Before Ivan answered, Aubree blurted out, “No, you can’t.”
