

Surprised Wife With Twins Chapter 481

Perhaps Catherine was still the vice president of the Marsh Group, Ivan's best supporter, who created infinite benefits for the company.

Catherine would see Ivan as an example and live a happy life.

She would improve and one day marry a man who loved her deeply. They would have children. And Catherine would become a successful, happy woman.

Maybe Jennifer and Ivan wouldn't go through so much ordeal. Ivan wouldn't have the accident and lose his memory.

Although Jennifer was born in a rural area, she was a good doctor. She healed Aubree's wounds.

At this moment, Aubree accepted Jennifer and suddenly figured out a lot of things.

After half an hour.

Hearing the footsteps, Thomas looked at the stairs.

Aubree whispered as she went downstairs, "Thomas, pack all Mrs. Marsh's clothes in the cloakroom and them back to Emerald Bay."

Thomas was surprised, thinking that he had heard it wrong.

Mrs. Marsh's clothes?

Aubree called Jennifer Mrs. Marsh!

Aubree accepted Jennifer and the marriage!

Facing Thomas' stunned gaze, Aubree looked gentle and calm.

"Yes!" Thomas came back to his senses, very happy in his heart as if he saw a happy ending!

The children were magical.

Aubree personally went to Emerald Bay and took away Jennifer's belongings because she didn't want anything about Jennifer to remain in Emerald Bay. She wanted to remove Jennifer from Ivan's world.

Now it seems that she did something useless and childish.

It had only worsened her relationship with Ivan.

The Lamborghini drove into Emerald Bay, before getting out of the car, Ivan and Jennifer saw a stretched Lincoln parked in the yard. They felt nervous, ready for the challenge.

"Your mother is here." Jennifer turned to look at him.

Ivan unbuckled his seat belt, frowned slightly, and the two got out of the car together.

As they walked toward the living room, they saw someone carrying things out of the Lincoln.

Aubree wasn't there.

"Mr. Marsh, Mrs. Marsh."

Everyone who saw them greeted them with respect.

There were already many bags in the living room, and people were still carrying bags in.

Jennifer bent over and opened one of the bags, which contained her clothes... It reminded her of something.

"Mrs. Marsh, Madam Aubree asked us to bring your clothes back," one of the men said to her. "Madam Aubree also said that you are welcome back to dinner with Mr. Marsh when you have time, you just need to call her in advance."

Jennifer looked at Ivan in astonishment.

Ivan was also stunned. What changed Aubree's attitude?

But that was a good thing.

"Okay." Jennifer smiled. "We got it. Please thank Madam Aubree for us."

"Then we'll leave now." All the clothes were brought into the living room.

"Alright."

Marry and Jordan carried the bag upstairs and hung the clothes in the cloakroom and ironed them.

"Your mother..." Jennifer stood in front of Ivan and looked up at him. "That's so strange. I thought she would make things difficult for us. After all, you threatened to cut off lines with her."

In fact, Ivan felt weird either. He was trying to figure out what Aubree was thinking.

In the evening, the rain had stopped, but the sky was still gloomy.

In the most famous cake shop in Arkpool City.

All kinds of pastries were placed on the shelves, together with some drinks, which were all newly made.

There was only one yellow bottle of banana milk left between the white bottles.

It tasted really nice. Many young people loved it.

It was also the best-selling drink in the store.

Mya stood in front of the drink stand with her headphones on, reaching for the last bottle of banana milk.

Finnley didn't notice her, his hand speeded up a little bit, and the second he took the banana milk away, the girl failed to grab anything.

Mya turned to Finnley and met his eyes.
