

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 49

Sitting next to him, Jennifer listened to his breath and heartbeat. This guy was not as cold as she thought.

But it was him who wanted to ask her out. Why didn't he say a word all the time? Why didn't he even invite her?

Along the way, Ivan was silent. His deep eyes looked straight ahead, with a faint sense of majesty.

Turning her eyes to look out of the window, she had some thoughts in her mind. Wasn't he happy? Why did he ask her out?

Until the car stopped outside the amusement park and the driver opened the door for them, the two came to their senses and got out of the car.

The colorful amusement facilities were close in front of them. Today was weekend, so there were many tourists. Most of them were daddy and mommy who took the children to play.

Of course, there were also young couples. They held hands and sometimes patted each other's heads tenderly.

With his hands in his pockets, Ivan looked at the high Ferris wheel, the airship, the roller coaster... He frowned imperceptibly, "What do you want to play?"

Jennifer blurted out, "Roller coaster."

The driver's face changed and looked at Ivan worriedly.

"Go buy two tickets."

"Yes, sir." The driver didn't dare to retort.

It was the first time for Jennifer to come here. She had never brought her children here before, because she didn't want to do dangerous things.

She always wanted to experience the roller coaster, for she still had a sweet innocence of a young girl.

Taking the tickets from the driver, she couldn't hide her excitement. Before he could invite her, she said, "You haven't played this before either, right?"

"How do you know?" Ivan said lightly.

Jennifer blurted out, "You are obviously a person without a happy childhood."

A hint of disappointment flashed through Ivan's eyes, and he pondered over her words for a long time. He felt sad, but what she said made sense.

The roller coaster flew into the sky like a long dragon, with three circles left and three circles right.

Ivan closed his eyes and took a deep breath, "Let's go."

When they arrived at the gate, the two got in their seats and fastened the seat belt. Jennifer exclaimed, "Actually, it's my first time to play. I didn't dare to bring children here before."

Ivan closed his eyes. When the machine was started, he tightened his chest and held the handle tightly.

The accelerated speed made the wind pour on his handsome face, blowing his hair in a mess. Since he closed his eyes, he missed the colorful scenery below.

"Ah! It's awesome!" Jennifer screamed all the way, feeling excited.

The roller coaster sometimes flew down like a waterfall, and sometimes it soared into the sky. It was too exciting for someone who loved it. For those who didn't like, it was like a nightmare.

Ivan just felt that his head spun dizzily, and his stomach was churning.

But as the CEO of the Marsh Group, he couldn't be scared to scream.

The gravitational force was so strong that when falling at a top speed, Ivan had experienced an unprecedented pain. His face turned pale and his thin lips tightened.

The driver looked at them worriedly downstairs, feeling both sorry and sad. Mr. Marsh had really changed... He had taken such a sky-high roller coaster for his wife.

When it was over, she looked at him excitedly, "Is it fun?" But she found that he closed his eyes in pain.

The driver quickly came over and untied the safety rope for him. "Mr. Marsh, are you okay?"

Jennifer couldn't help laughing at him, "Wow, you're really that afraid?"

The next second, Ivan stood up and rushed to the trash can, vomiting regardless of his image. The driver went with him.

This startled Jennifer.

"Are you okay?" She untied the safety rope and ran to him. "What's wrong with you?" She helped him up and quickly took out a bag of tissue and handed it to the driver. "Take it. I'm going to buy water."

She bought a bottle of water as soon as possible, unscrewed the cap and handed it to him. "Rinse your mouth first. Didn't expect you would vomit after a roller coaster ride. I forgot that you have a stomach problem." She felt a little sorry.

"Mr. Marsh is afraid of heights." The driver couldn't help telling the truth.