

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 71

There were all kinds of information about them, and Spencer had already spent an hour or longer browsing. The more he read, the more he found it outrageous and bizarre.

Some of the keywords captured by Spencer were: Sunshine Village, son and daughter, single mom, child snatching, birthday party of Mayor's daughter, show of affection, roller coaster, amusement park...

This woman was pregnant with Ivan's baby seven years ago, and she quietly gave birth to and raised the child.

She was quite a woman!

But Spencer was sure that the woman didn't go to Ivan for money, otherwise she would have showed up long ago.

Spencer looked at the information and recalled the first time he saw her, who dumbfoundedly followed Ivan into the police station.

And the second time he saw her. He just couldn't dislike this woman.

Petite and delicate, innocent and beautiful...

Thinking about it, he took a sip of wine and gradually lost in his thoughts.

The next morning.

Catherine arrived early at the office. She felt like a teenage girl who just fell in love, heart filled with flutter and expectation as she held the suit gift box she designed for Ivan. Even the packaging was designed by herself and had her handwritten signature on it.

Upstairs in the master bedroom, Emerald Bay.

When Ivan opened his eyes, he found no one around him. His sleepiness instantly vanished. Did she go downstairs to make breakfast?

The contents of the agreement last night flashed through his mind, and he felt quite happy that it didn't change anything.

After he got up and changed into his shirt, Ivan went downstairs in a good mood.

Just past the corner of the stairs, he saw such a scene in the courtyard through the floor-to-ceiling windows...

The driver helped Jennifer put the suitcase in the car, and she also got in the car. Door closed, the car quickly drove away.

"Jordan, what's she going to do?" Ivan asked.

“Good morning, Mr. Marsh.” Jordan greeted him respectfully, “Young lady didn’t say, but she let me tell you that please collect and give all of Mrs. Marsh’s medical records to her.”

“Didn’t you ask her anything?” With a bit of anxiety in his voice, Ivan put aside his mother’s business.

“I asked and she just smiled at me. I thought you’ve given her the permission.” Jordan tried to read Ivan’s emotion from his face. “Do you need me to get her back?”

“No need.” Ivan spoke in a light tone, then turned around and went upstairs.

He entered the children’s room.

“Hello, Mr. Marsh.” The maid bowed, “Little Master Alfie and Lady Diana are about to get up.”

“Good morning, Daddy.” The little ones had just woken up, rubbing their bleary eyes, half of their bodies still tucked under the covers.

“Here, let me help you put them on.” Ivan sat down on the edge of the bed.

“Daddy, I can get dressed myself.”

“So this is what it feels like when Daddy dresses us. I feel so happy!”

“Daddy, I love you.”

Ivan was deeply moved, “I love you guys too.”

“Daddy, where’s Mommy? Is she still sleeping? Or did she go down to make us breakfast?”

This was what Ivan came in for, though his tone was calm, “She left with the suitcase. You can give her a call and ask where she is going and for how long, and then report back to me secretly.”

Diana blinked her big eyes, very puzzled, “Why don’t you call her yourself?”

“Come on!” Alfie patted his sister on the shoulder, “We’re Daddy’s assistants! If it’s about mommy, we have to help daddy!” Then Alfie said to Ivan, “Daddy, don’t worry. I’ll call her right away.”

Alfie dialed Jennifer’s number using his smart watch, “Mommy, where are you?” He also deliberately put it on speakerphone.

“Are you up, baby?” Jennifer’s voice came over, “Mommy is going to Sunshine Village. I may have to stay for a while. You kids be good at home. You’ll get a reward when I get back!”

Alfie looked at Ivan and continued, “What are you doing at Sunshine Village? How long are you gonna stay? Don’t you want Dad and us?”

“Mommy is the village head, so I need to take charge of all the big and small matters there. Grandpa David’s foot was injured, so I should go take a look. Behave yourselves at school, and take care of your sister, okay? Don’t get into trouble!”
