

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 75

Alfie turned around and swept his gaze over every child around him. Everyone was happily eating cake, some playing games, and no one was seen with a tablet.

"Teacher, I've lost my tablet. It's very important to me. Could you help me check the security recording, please?" Alfie was calm.

"Okay."

No one dared to disobey the request of the Marsh Group's heir.

The teacher took him to the control room.

At this point, Ivan brought Finnley into the kindergarten without a bodyguard, just to stay low-key.

But Ivan's innate temperament made him hard to be ignored, especially those female teachers, who couldn't help but keep glancing at them, enchanted.

When Alfie was not found in the classroom, the lead teacher took Ivan to the control room.

When Ivan heard the teacher said, "Alfie's tablet is missing and he's checking who took it," he subconsciously picked up the pace.

"Alfie, your daddy is here." The teacher was a little apprehensive, because the kindergarten was responsible for this kind of stealing.

The little one turned to Ivan, "Daddy, come here!" And he quickly withdrew his gaze to stare at the screen, only to see a little boy in a black vest out of the slide, stood up and stopped for three seconds, then went straight up and took the tablet.

"This is Seth! I know him!" One of the teachers who accompanied Alfie here spoke, then turned and left quickly, "I'll go find him!"

Ivan propped one hand on the desktop, shielding his son beneath him, his gaze firm and cold on the young boy. On the screen, that boy looked around while tapping on the tablet, and then he walked out of the surveillance screen.

"Switch the screen quickly!"

The kindergarten was monitored from all sides.

After switching to another camera, they saw a man stealthily following Seth and waiting for an opportunity to take him away. Ivan instinctively took Alfie into his arms as he watched this.

The sudden movement startled little Alfie, but the faint scent of his dad's body soon comforted him, "Dad..." He looked up and asked with mixed feelings, "Can you not blame Seth? Go get him back. He's been taken by the bad guys!"

Ivan felt really proud and relieved as the little one was so kind.

"Seth is not in class!" The teacher rushed in anxiously, "They are looking everywhere for him!"

"He was kidnapped."

The teachers completely panicked. Whoever could afford to study here all came from prominent family backgrounds.

How were they going to answer to Seth's parents?

"Daddy, please..." Alfie took his hand, "Save him first!"

Ivan nodded and led Alfie out of the control room.

He took out his cell phone and dialed a number, "Help me check the surveillance outside Bright Star Kindergarten. A child was kidnapped five minutes ago. Find out the license plate number, and the identity of the kidnapper. Also, ensure the safety of this child."

After listening to her dad's phone call, Alfie finally felt less anxious, because he believed in her dad.

"Alfie, will the tablet reveal any secrets?" Ivan was concerned.

Alfie shook his head, "No one can decipher it. At least I haven't met an opponent so far." Seeing that he was still a little worried, Alfie took his hand, "Dad, if it isn't my hand that operates the tablet, it will automatically delete all the data in fifteen minutes."

"You know how to do this too?" Ivan was surprised and amazed.

"Yeah, I figured it out when I was experimenting on things." A bright smile bloomed on his face, "Since my dad is fantastic, I can't lose either!"

Ivan and Alfie both knew in their hearts that the man had got the wrong person.

He was coming for the tablet, so most likely he was from R-Alan.

It must be due to Seth's random tapping on the tablet, it exposed his location and gave the other side the opportunity to get him.

The man in the speeding white car ripped the tape off Seth's mouth and found him shivering in fear. How could a top hacker be such a wimp?

The data on the tablet looked bizarre and the man couldn't understand it at all, "Kid, what does this mean?"

Seth shook his head.

"You're the one who hacked the R-Alan Group's servers?" The man didn't believe it at all.

"It's not me, it's not me it's not me..." Seth was so frightened that he avoided looking him in the eye.

This boy did not seem like Ivan Marsh's child at all, but he was carrying the tablet. Up to this point, the man was still unaware that he had kidnapped the wrong person.