

Sweet Love 2341

Chapter 2341: Yun Yecheng wakes up.

During the gala, many conniving starlets, who went wearing their best dresses, would go around begging for a way to become acquainted with these big shots.

Those who were more calculative would not take such resources to heart. They were hoping more for a chance to hang out with the super rich and famous. Hooking up with any one of them would give them a ticket to a life of infinite wealth!

When that happened, would there be a need to fight for productions or worry over acting opportunities? It was hard to be an artist, and often required them to be concerned with condescension and hidden rules. In contrast, being the wife of a wealthy man was different; they would be admired and adored by many! Now, would that not be a much easier life?

Armed with their various ambitions, these celebrities would try all ways and means to shine above the rest on that one night.

Of course, her manager did not harbor such a goal with his original intention. His actress had no lack of resources.

Many media reporters would be present to cover the star-studded event. There would be great publicity and exposure.

The actress did not attend any programs during the new-year break. While many starlets with the same rank as her had been busy putting themselves on spring celebration programs, talk shows, and entertainment broadcasts to increase their exposure, his charge had disappeared from the spotlight for more than half a month. Thus, she would need a prolific event to maintain her celebrity status.

The Bazaar Charity Night was one such opportunity.

It was a pity that the actress's father got into an accident just about this time.

The manager visited her father at the hospital with the head producer.

As a result, everyone in Huanyu caught wind of this matter.

A few from the upper management got together to discuss it and eventually agreed that, even though Mu Yazhe was no longer leading the media company, they still had to pay a visit as a matter of courtesy.

However, somehow or rather, it turned into a grand affair.

Many senior executives came to visit with their get-well gifts and wreaths, which lined up the entire hospital corridor. More than that, several artists also turned up at the hospital.

A few patients and their relatives next to Yun Yecheng's bed dashed out of their respective area to take a look. They were astonished to see so many famous stars walking in and out of the room. This was when they realized that an important patient was staying next to them.

This was also how the hospital's senior management discovered his extraordinary background. The hospital director immediately ordered the older man's room to be upgraded into their VIP ward, whereby four nurses would attend to him all day long.

Meanwhile, the media also found out about his hospitalization and lay in wait around the hospital to report, firsthand, any development.

These came much later, of course.

Having just transferred to the special ward, Yun Yecheng finally regained consciousness and woke up.

Yun Shishi was out having dinner when she received the news. She immediately ditched her food and rushed back to the hospital.

Inside the hospital room, a nurse was seen carefully wiping the tears from the old man's eyes. As he was unable to close his eyelids completely, someone had to help him wipe away the secreted tears or else they might infect his wounds.

She dashed up to the side of the bed, grabbed hold of the railing, and cautiously spoke to her father as she looked at him. "Dad, can you hear me?"

She dared not touch him where almost every inch of his body was covered with burned marks. The only thing she could do was talk to him with care.

Her father's mangled mouth was open, but no sound could be heard. No one would have thought that this person was still alive if not for his chest that went up and down.

Chapter 2342: Yun Na's Appearance

Looking at her father's sorry state, Yun Shishi's eyes started to brim with tears, but she forced herself not to cry as she uttered in a choked up voice, "Dad, don't force yourself to speak if you can't talk. Take your time to recuperate; I'll be here for you..."

The nurse told her, "Miss Yun, your father's larynx may have been severely damaged, so it's still unsure if he will be able to talk in the future. Right now, we can only hope for him to recover as best as he can."

The woman nodded in earnest agreement.

"Dad, you don't have to answer me... Who attacked you that night? Was it your enemy, or perhaps was it robbery? If it was robbery, you just must move a finger lightly."

Her father's breathing hastened for no reason upon hearing what she said, while his eyes turned red and misty sans a warning.

His bloodshot eyes flinched as his brows frowned with some difficulty. He clenched his teeth slightly and pointed a finger upward with much difficulty...

His thoughts traveled back in time...

...

He could almost see her childlike face before him, her flushed and wrinkly little face staring at him straight after delivery.

Only heavens could tell the magnitude of elation he had felt then as a first-time father.

He could still remember the sense of happiness and agitation he had felt when he carried that tiny bundle of infant in his arms.

He brought the baby girl to his wife's bed and exclaimed happily, "Wife, it's a girl!"

His wife sighed with regret unexpectedly as she muttered with her bare breath, "Didn't the doctor tell us that it would be a boy? How did it turn out to be a girl?"

The nurse by her side asked smilingly, "When did you try to determine the baby's sex?"

"We did a scan at four months, and the doctor told us that it would be a boy," replied Yun Yecheng.

The nurse laughed and said, "Oh, gosh; scans at four months aren't reliable. The accuracy is about eighty percent, but it can be wrong at times. In any case, the baby girl is adorable. Most importantly, the mother and child turn out to be well and safe!"

The man agreed eagerly, nodding. "That's right! All is well as long as the mother and child remain safe and sound!"

When he learned that his wife was about to give birth, the man rushed home from abroad to welcome his child.

His wife, though, was still grumbling. "I wanted a boy. If I'd known that it would be a girl, I wouldn't have kept the pregnancy."

The nurse gave an awkward smile. Isn't this first-time mother too biased on girls?

Still, she had met a fair share of such women.

The husband, on the other hand, was rather happy. "What's wrong with having a girl? I prefer girls; they look sweet and docile. When our girl grows up, she'll be our sweetheart. How loving!"

The more he looked at the infant, the more he liked her. Her wrinkly, little face, which was flushing red, hardly resembled the looks of either parent, but the thought that she was his flesh and blood made him jump with joy.

"It doesn't matter whether the child is a boy or a girl. I'm just grateful as long as the mother and child turn out to be well and safe!" The man could not bear to let go of the baby girl in his arms.

"What should we name her?" he asked. "Since we have a girl... why don't we name her as Yun Na? She should be a pretty girl when she grows up."

Yun Na—

He had doted on her since she was born, and he looked forward to each day of her growth.

Her features had begun to resemble his by the time she became a young girl. This was especially so after she entered junior high school. She looked all the more like him.

How then did the girl whom he had loved and doted on all along, the girl who had such a sweet and lovely face, turned out to be that hideous creature with a twisted look?!

...

Chapter 2343: Despondency amounts to hatred.

On this bleak, dreary night, where there was not a star in the sky, Yun Yecheng knocked off from work and went home straight.

After parking his car in the garage, he walked along the windy path leading toward his apartment building. Right then, he suddenly heard a familiar, deep yet aloof-sounding voice bellow his name.

“Yun Yecheng!”

Startled, he turned around only to see a woman looking expressionless while quietly standing behind him with her hands shoved into her hoodie’s pockets.

Her countenance was indescribably aloof. It might be due to the sinister-looking scars all over her face, but coupled with her cold expression, her visage gave one the creeps for some reason.

Nevertheless, delight sprouted within him!

“Nana?!”

He recognized that voice at once and managed to identify the woman after examining her face closely for a while. Exhilarated, he rushed up to his daughter and wrapped her in his arms excitedly.

“Y-You’re still alive?! You’re still alive?!”

His voice was trembling from the overwhelming pleasant surprise he received.

Tears flowed down his face as he uttered her name thankfully. “Thank God you’re alive! Thank God you’re alive! I-I... I thought you passed away like your mother...”

Yun Na, however, pulled away and retreated from him, spitting, “Don’t touch me!”

His eyes widened in shock at her aloofness toward him. He tried drawing closer to her again, but she took another step backward once more. She tugged her lips coldly. “Thank God I’m alive? Hah! Weren’t you living blissfully while I was away? Without me, you didn’t have any stumbling blocks in your life. The cheek you’ve got to tell me that!”

On the night of New Year’s Eve, she stood behind a tree outside the villa and watched her father, through the windows, grinning from ear to ear while he hugged Youyou in the living room.

Large snowflakes had accumulated all over her body, but the coldness in her heart had far surpassed the cold, snowy ground.

At the thought of this, she clutched the bottle of sulfuric acid in her pocket ferociously, her smile becoming frighteningly cold.

The older man did not notice her small movement as he called her name anew in trepidation. “Nana—” “Shut up!” she snapped with a pokerface. “You have no right to call my name! Yun Na? She’s already dead! The person standing before you now is here to exact vengeance!”

The bone-chilling words made his heart skip a beat.

Never, in his wildest imagination, had he imagined that the darling daughter, who was standing in front of him now, was a devil incarnate who had followed him all the way here just to claim his life.

“What happened to you in these few months that you went missing?!”

He felt choked. “I thought that you had left with your mother. Your mom’s body was found a while back; I was so worried and afraid that you might’ve also encountered a mishap. W-Where have you gone all this while?!”

“Where have I gone? Ha ha... Worried?! Were you even worried at all, Yun Yecheng? You were living a happy yet carefree life while your wife and your daughter went missing!” Yun Na scoffed as though she had just heard a hilarious joke.

If it weren’t for me, my mom’s body would still be under the sea, her bones, skin, and flesh devoured clean by the fishes there, yet he had the cheek to say that he’s worried?!

“You were living well all this time while I was missing. What a good father I have!”

Chapter 2344: Reluctance

As Yun Na gripped the bottle of sulfuric acid tightly in her hand, with her head hanging low, every part of her body was trembling with rage!

No one, unless they had the same experience, would be able to understand how despondent she felt while struggling for her life in the sea!

The amount of despondency she felt back then equated to the amount of hatred she felt toward her father and that adoptive daughter of his.

She hated him so much she wished with all heart that she could skin him alive, pluck his nerves, and toss him into the deep sea along with that b*tch to feed the fishes!

She wanted to see their despondent deaths for herself!

“He he he...”

The young lady cackled out of the blue, her laughter so mournful and cold that it sounded like the emotionless wails of a malicious spirit who had crawled out from hell. It was frightening enough to give one the chills.

She then lifted her head and cast those chilling, hatred-filled eyes on her father.

“Li Qin is dead, so is Yun Na! They died in the boundless sea amid their despondency. You deserve to die as well. I’m here today to claim your life!” With that, she slowly approached the elderly man.

Yun Yecheng, meanwhile, was so appalled by what his daughter had said that it totally did not occur to him that he should hide from her. In his momentary daze, he watched her pull out a bottle containing some sort of liquid, nimbly remove its cap, and splash its content right on his face!

The concentrated sulfuric acid burned and corroded his skin upon contact.

He hardly had the time to react before he felt excruciating pain in his face. He collapsed to the ground, holding his face while writhing in pain.

His agony, however, only caused his daughter's smile to deepen. As she unfeelingly poured the concentrated sulfuric acid on him, she took in the view of his pain-filled struggle in full appreciation.

Yun Na was filled with sick excitement as a twisted smile blossomed on her face.

"You deserve it, Yun Yecheng!"

Its powerful corrosion instantly burned and ate his skin and flesh away, forming holes in them.

She poured the entire content on him before eventually tossing the empty bottle at him expressionlessly.

She was not concerned in the slightest about leaving any traces of herself, for she had sliced off the skin and flesh of her fingers beforehand just so she would be untraceable via her fingerprints.

The young lady then took one last look at her father, who was struggling and yelling in pain, before she turned around and slowly made her exit devoid of any fear or guilt, leaving the scene so naturally it was as though she were just taking a stroll in the backyard.

...

Yun Yecheng became aware that he had been admitted to a hospital upon waking up and regaining his consciousness.

The doctor, who later came by his ward, cautioned him about plenty of things and also briefly explained to him his condition. Even though they had managed to revive him, he would have to live the rest of his life accompanied by pain.

As he lay in bed, he soon recalled what had exactly happened to him and could not stop trembling at the thought of his biological daughter's sinister yet determined look.

"Dad..."

Yun Shishi looked at her father worriedly, only to see him being motionless and dazed.

His eyes moved around, and upon looking at this adoptive daughter of his, he was reminded of the insane look of his other daughter. After hesitating for a while, he eventually let out a sigh and struggled to twitch his finger while holding his tears back.

If his vocal cords were currently working, he would not hesitate to tell her that he had been attacked by a psychopath on his way home.

Her sight flickered slightly at that. "Are you saying... that you were attacked by a robber?"

Chapter 2345: An Eye for an Eye

“...”

He was unable to speak, much less nod or shake his head. All he could do was gently bent his finger to express his agreement.

The actress wanted to ask him more questions but could only hold them back for now when the nurse at the side reminded her that the patient needed to rest and recuperate so she should not bombard him with questions.

She had her doubts about the truth of the incident.

Robbery?

It doesn't seem that way by the looks of the crime scene.

In fact, it appears more like an act of vengeance.

However, as her father gave her such an answer, and with her unable to continue the questioning, she could only wait to ask him more about it once his condition improved a bit more.

Her father's condition gradually stabilized over the following days.

With four to five nurses taking turns to look after him, she decided to free up some time and make a trip to Huanyu. Alas, she did not expect herself to bump into someone whom she did not wish to meet upon her arrival at the company.

“Yun Shishi?!”

Lu Jingtian had just stepped out of Ji Lin's office when she spotted the other woman, who happened to be seeking the man as well, much to her surprise. A smirk appeared on her face. “It's been a long time since we last met! I see that you're glowing from your success during the period that I was away!”

She flashed the irksome actress a bland smile. “So what are you trying to say?”

“Oh, nothing much!”

Despite having not met each other for quite some time, the socialite was just as arrogant and indifferent toward her as ever, though her attitude toward her had slightly improved compared to before.

“I've just returned from abroad; Producer Ji called me over to arrange my work schedule.”

Due to negative scandals about her circulating around previously, the socialite flew over to the US to lie low until the fuss died down; she underwent cosmetic surgery while she was at it. She had recovered well after a few months. Now, with her upgraded looks, she appeared more like a celebrity.

Even though she was considered quite pretty in the past, she paled in comparison to the other hot starlets and A-listers in the looks department. Hence, she seized the chance to reconstruct her face abroad while lying low.

The rookie actress paid her no heed, though, and just headed straight toward Producer Ji's office.

Just as they brushed shoulders with each other, she suddenly mocked the other smugly. “I heard that Brother Mu had given up his position as the family head. As a note of warning, you should keep a low-profile if you want to keep working in this industry. Now that you don’t have the powerful Mu family to fall back on, you’ll surely die a horrible death if you continue acting so obnoxiously like before!”

Huanyu Entertainment was a subsidiary company of the Mu Group. Since Mu Yazhe was no longer leading the Mu family, he was of course no longer Huanyu’s biggest boss. Without the backing of that prestigious family, she naturally did not fear this rookie actress anymore.

However, Yun Shishi merely laughed as she said, “Noted, and right back at you.”

The other woman was baffled by her response. “What do you mean by that?”

She airily replied, “Even if I have no one backing me up, you’re not my match.”

“Hah! I’ve just received a new role as the main lead of a new film,” retorted the socialite in defiance, ignoring the rookie’s words. Upon noticing how her rival was paying her no heed, she smugly added, “Unlike you, I got the role based on my merits. Other than resorting to using dirty tricks and the unspoken rules, what other capabilities do you have to make a name for yourself?”

The rookie actress chuckled dryly in response. “Which director was so blind to pick you as their main lead?”

“You—”

That scathing remark nearly made Lu Jingtian blow a fuse right there and then.

“Well, it’s fortunate that you underwent plastic surgery during your trip to the States; you give off a whole different presence now. Gee, imagine what would happen if the audience recognized that you’re the protagonist of that scandal several months ago...”

Chapter 2346: Remains a Perplexity

After a beat, the rookie smiled lightly and added. “What an impression you’d leave the audience!”

“You!” Furious, the socialite eyed her rival for a second before she suddenly let out an angry laugh. “Just you wait, Yun Shishi! You think you could still live so glamorously like before? Hah!”

With that, she lifted her chin and left, strutting away on her three-inch high heels!

Yun Shishi stood outside the producer’s office and knocked on the door, only to hear his cold voice echoing. “Who is it?”

“It’s me, Producer Ji.”

“Come on in.”

As she pushed open the door and entered the office, Ji Lin looked up and asked in confusion, “Shouldn’t you be looking after your father at the hospital? Why are you here?”

“Producer Ji, I’m very thankful for your concern regarding what happened to my father, but...”

Her voice trailed off as she pulled out an envelope containing a check from her bag.

It was what he and her manager had given her during their visit to the hospital, and the amount written on the check was figures.

“I can’t accept this money.”

He glanced at the artist before smilingly looking down at the envelope in her hand. “What are you doing now?”

“I’m appreciative of your concern, but I can’t accept so much money,” said the woman with a smile as she moved to pass the envelope to him. “Thank you!”

The producer did not take it, though.

“Keep it.”

“?”

“This is a small token of appreciation from me and Qin Zhou.”

Small?!

She could not help grimacing wryly at that, for she had never seen anyone visiting a patient in the hospital with such a large amount of cash gift. This was too much for her to accept.

He explained, “It’s only a huge sum because a portion of that money is the balance remuneration for the commercial you shot previously! It’s what you deserve!”

“The balance?”

“Didn’t you shoot a commercial for a shampoo brand previously?”

“Yeah...”

He supplied succinctly. “It’s the balance for that.”

“...”

Didn’t the advertisers pay me several millions back then?

Where did this balance come about, then?

She remained skeptical of his words.

“So did you come looking for me because of this?”

“...”

The man set his work aside, looked up, and asked gravely, “How’s your father’s condition?”

“He is still under observation and is recovering slowly.”

“From what I saw previously, his injuries look pretty bad. His face is as good as disfigured.”

She nodded with pursed lips.

Concerned, he asked, "Is there any news from the police? Have they caught the culprit?"

The actress shook her head. "No. According to the police, the investigation will be tough... since the offender didn't leave any evidence behind, nor were there any witnesses due to the incident happening late at night..."

"That makes things tricky," he said. "Do you think it's possible that your father offended a bigshot? No matter how I see it, this seems to be a case of revenge. Otherwise, there's no reason for anyone to act so cruelly."

"That's what I thought, too, but my father didn't reveal much and only said that it's robbery."

"Anyway, when do you think you can report back to work?"

"Next month, I guess! I'll be free to work again once my father's condition somewhat stabilizes."

As she was leaving the producer's office, Yun Shishi thought of his words.

'No matter how I see it, this seems to be a case of revenge. Otherwise, there's no reason for anyone to act so cruelly.'

Revenge?

Dad never offended anyone except for the time he went bankrupt, but we paid back our debts to those creditors a long time ago.

Chapter 2347: Song Enya's Scheme

She could not figure things out regarding this matter!

From how hard her eyes were twitching, she had a bad feeling that things were not as simple as how they seemed.

While feeling perplexed, she bid farewell to Ji Lin and left Huanyu in a rush.

Meanwhile, Lu Jingtian, who was sitting in her car, scoffed when she saw the other artist hurriedly driving off in her car. "Sluts always have many ways to draw attention to themselves!"

Her manager, who was sitting beside her, said urgently, "Tiantian, let's not waste any more time. You still have to meet Ms. Enya later in the afternoon to pick your gown."

"Alright, alright. I got it. Stop rushing me." She then looked in the direction of the driver's seat and barked, "Get moving!"

In a few days' time, it would be the Bazaar's Annual Charity Night. Her ticket to the event did not come easy, so she naturally wanted to glam herself up properly.

She had paid quite a hefty price just for this opportunity to mingle around and meet some well-known directors and producers during the charity event, unlike those short-sighted celebrities who just wanted to sell themselves off and get married to some backers in a one-time transaction.

She had initially stepped into the acting industry purely out of passion. Over time, she began to crave fame and fortune, though it should be said that it was more for the sake of fortune.

The socialite came from a superior family background, after all. She had all the resources and support she could get, so what of those scandals circulating about her previously?

After returning to the country, she got to act as the main lead all the same with her connections. Even though it was not a popular blockbuster, getting the role itself was quite a feat already.

Since she came from a good background, she did not have to resort to using the unspoken rules to gain fame like the other female celebrities who lacked such resources.

The thing was, her family background was not enough to satisfy her ambitious nature anymore.

There was a saying that went: 'A man seeks his way up just as water seeks its way down.'

One could not help but covet fame and fortune once they had a taste of both.

She naturally should improve herself and strive to be more outstanding in order to find a good match.

That was her ultimate goal.

Hence, she was desperate to solidify her position using fame.

As for her sordid past...

Well, her reputation would become clean again once she won over the audience with her solid acting skills.

Later that afternoon, she went to the boutique with Song Enya to pick out their gowns.

One must doll themselves all prettily and glamorously to attend such a charity event!

Unlike the actress, the rich missy was invited to attend the charity night.

The two had met up several times ever since Lu Jintian returned from abroad. However, she was unaware of the things that had happened to her bestie recently, and this naturally included the news of the other being an unwed mother.

All she knew was that her friend had vanished without a trace before. Word had it that she had gone to the States and returned a different person.

The presence she exuded had changed.

Song Enya of the past used to be haughty and unaffected, but now, her character seemed to have slightly toned down.

The two engaged in idle chit-chat while choosing their gowns, and just when the actress was excitedly asking the missy if there was any gown here that suited her, the missy suddenly retched and covered her mouth before rushing for the washroom.

Shocked, Lu Jintian followed her into the washroom, only to see her friend retching hard in front of the vanity counter. It was so bad that it got her frowning.

She asked out of concern, "What's wrong with you, Enya? What happened? Why are you retching so badly? Are you feeling ill?"

Chapter 2348: Do not tell me that you are pregnant?

Song Enya leaned against the table, unmoving. She slowly got up and looked at the wan face reflected on the mirror with bewildered eyes before she turned to smile awkwardly at Lu Jingtian, who had a doubtful look on her face.

"I'm fine!"

Just as she said that, she covered her mouth and coughed dryly for a while in utter pain.

Lu Jingtian's heart jumped as she witnessed this. Raising her brow, she could not help but force a laugh. "If it's not for having no boyfriend, I would suspect that you are pregnant—"

"No, I'm not!" denied Song Enya out of utter embarrassment.

However, her strong reaction only made it undoubtedly seem as if she had something to hide.

Lu Jingtian became even more suspicious. "Enya, you don't have to be so serious... Couldn't you tell that I was just joking?"

"..."

Song Enya's face turned ashen for a moment as the corners of her lips twitched. "That joke isn't funny at all..."

With that, she turned around and prepared to leave.

The other held her wrist nervously all of a sudden and probed carefully, "You can't really be..."

She was not foolish.

How could she not tell that her friend's fierce reaction was the defensive response of a pregnancy woman?

She originally only had her suspicions, but after seeing Song Enya's intense denial, it just confirmed her doubts.

Earlier, she had already noticed the packages in her friend's bag, which had the least lead capacity and were meant for pregnant women.

A look of fear flashed across Song Enya's face as she sucked in a breath of cold air. She then closed her eyes in agony and spoke slowly. "Jingtian, I... I really don't know what to do..."

She knelt on the floor despondently before burying her face in the gap between her arms, crying silently.

Seeing her shoulders quaking, the other walked over worriedly and patted her gently.

"What happened exactly?"

"I-I do... have a baby..."

Her voice was low and soft like a fly as if shame-faced. With just one sentence, her face turned as red as fire.

Lu Jingtian was stunned. She opened her mouth but was silent for a long time before asking, "Whose... Whose baby is it?"

"Mu..."

Mu?!

Song Enya only said the surname, so her heart thumped in terror.

Could it be Brother Mu's?

"Mu Yancheng..."

Her friend's eyes turned red helplessly. "The child is... his..."

"How?!"

She was in disarray!

Mu Yancheng?!

This...

How's that possible?!

He was someone her friend was not close to!

Lu Jingtian and Mu Yancheng were acquaintances. They met often to drink at a bar, where she would bring over some pretty playmates from her circle.

The man was a promiscuous person, but she knew that he had a long-time girlfriend who was a fresh model. No matter how fast the women around him changed, this fresh model remained unwaveringly by his side.

They had already been together for three years.

Three years!

For that promiscuous man, this was no easy feat!

Lu Jingtian had always been curious about how that fresh model looked as she was able to keep the man tied to her side for so long.

There were several times that she asked Mu Yancheng to bring the lady out to play, but he protected his darling closely and refused to do so no matter what.

To Lu Jingtian, the guy was like a big brother.

Although he was promiscuous, he had his principles. He absolutely would not touch women he was not supposed to.

Chapter 2349: Mu Yancheng, that scoundrel!

Although he was promiscuous, he had his principles. He absolutely would not touch women he was not supposed to.

Therefore...

How did he end up getting involved with Song Enya?!

Lu Jingtian was completely perplexed.

“Exactly what happened?!”

Under her relentless questioning, the other finally confessed the ‘truth’, sharing to her what happened that night.

“That day, I bumped into Brother Yancheng at a bar. I saw him sitting alone in the corner, drowning his sorrows with alcohol and looking frustrated, so I went over to check on him. Originally, I only wanted to accompany him for a drink, but after drinking just a glass, he became wasted. That’s why I offered to bring him home.”

“...”

“He refused to go home, though; I didn’t know his address, too. Naturally, I dared not be rude and impetuous, so I decided to send him to a hotel out of kindness.”

Lu Jingtian began to feel nervous as she probed, “And then what happened?”

“Then, when I carried him to the hotel room, he suddenly lifted me up, and I...”

As she spoke about her sore spot, Song Enya began to cry indignantly. “I shouted that I don’t want to, but perhaps he was too drunk, so he didn’t listen to me. How could a woman like myself contend against a man? On the hotel bed, he... he...”

She began to cry mournfully.

Her friend was rendered speechless. “He... Did he rape you?”

She held her face helplessly. “I said I don’t want to, but he didn’t even hear my cries for mercy! That... That was my first time!”

Hearing this, the other was outraged. “What did he say after?!”

She shook her head. “Things were left unresolved! When he woke up, he apologized and repented, saying that he drank too much and lost control. Some kind of unintended mistake! My innocence was destroyed by him just like that!”

Lu Jingtian’s pain point was hit by that.

Those dark memories invaded her mind as she tightened her fists in resentment. “Men are all scoundrels!”

She turned around and interrogated, “What happened afterward? Did you eat the medication?”

“Medication?”

“Oh, dear! Morning-after pills! They’re effective if you take them within seventy-two hours after having sex!”

Song Enya shook her head, startled. “No... When I got home, my mind was in disarray, so I forgot about that!”

“Then, did you... take a pregnancy test?”

She looked downcast as she nodded her head while biting her lower lip.

“What were the results?” asked Lu Jingtian hurriedly.

“There are two red lines, so it probably means that... I am pregnant!”

She furrowed her brows.

Her friend revealed a box from her purse all of a sudden.

It was a pregnancy test kit. The missy took it out and let her have a look.

She took it from her friend and was taken aback. “You are really pregnant?!”

“I don’t even know whether this is accurate or not...” mumbled Song Enya vacantly.

“If a pregnancy test kit is negative, it doesn’t mean you aren’t definitely pregnant, but if it is positive, you are definitely pregnant,” she explained.

With that, she gritted her teeth angrily. “Mu Yancheng, that scoundrel! I thought he at least had a sense of propriety!”

Although they had known each other for many years, they were not as close as sisters, but at this moment, perhaps it was because Lu Jingtian was reminded of her unbearable memory, both ladies resonated with each other as righteous indignation filled their chests.

“Jingtian, what should I do?”

“What can we do?”

Chapter 2350: Ask him to be responsible for you!

“What can we do?”

“He needs to take responsibility for what he did!” exclaimed Lu Jingtian.

“Shh!”

Song Enya covered her mouth frantically. “Don’t be so loud!”

“Hey, this isn’t something shameless! You are a victim, so what is there to hide?! The best thing to do is stir things up and let everyone know about it so that that scoundrel will step up and take responsibility!”

“But... I don’t dare to!”

She cowered.

The other woman huffed. "What's there to be afraid of?! Just you wait. Isn't Mu Yancheng attending the Bazaar Charity Night? When that time comes, I will help you speak with him. You won't feel ashamed. He should be the one to feel that way!"

Touched, she responded, "Thank you! Thank you so much for doing it for me."

Lu Jingtian smiled. "We are good friends! Don't worry. Although Mu Yancheng did something like that, he would still acknowledge you if you are pregnant!"

"Okay!"

"Alright! There's no point in thinking so much about this now! Help me pick out some outfits."

"Okay."

As the other turned around, Song Enya shed away her helplessness and revealed a delighted smile.

When they were done shopping for clothes, the actress suggested shopping for bags in the department store nearby, but the missy evaded by saying that she was not feeling well and wanted to head home to rest.

The actress lost her interest in shopping around since it was only herself, so they waved and parted ways at the entrance.

Song Enya took a cab straight home, while Lu Jingtian made her way to the parking lot where her car was parked.

At this time, the sky had already darkened.

Walking briskly toward the parking in her high heels, she decided to hasten her footsteps, for the wind picked up as the night deepened.

All of a sudden, she heard footsteps from behind her.

The alley leading to the parking lot was desolate, and the dusky street lamp made her shadow appear elongated.

Initially, she thought that she was just hearing things. Therefore, she slowed down her footsteps, but as she did, the person behind her slowed down as well.

With one ahead of the other, they maintained a distance of several meters.

Lu Jingtian could not help but be alert. She stopped walking and cast a sidelong glance.

From the corner of her eyes, she caught a vague glimpse of a strange shadow. She turned around abruptly, only to be shocked by a person wearing all black, halting their footsteps behind her.

That person was wearing a hooded jacket, and their face was unclear, for it was hidden under the shadow cast by the cap. As the two exchanged glances, Lu Jingtian realized in shock that the stranger's murderous gaze was locked onto her.

Seeing that she had stopped, the person dressed in black did not hesitate much before picking up their pace and speedily closing in on her.

Lu Jingtian instantly saw the dagger in the person's hand. Under the street lights, it terrifyingly glimmered coldly!

"Ahhh!"

She screamed, turning pale from shock, as she turned around and made a dash for the parking lot!

The person in black chased her.

Lu Jingtian was afraid and worried that this was robbery. Therefore, she ran as if her life depended on it. When she finally saw her white car, it was as if she had found a floating piece of wood out in the sea. With disheveled hair, she dashed to her car and banged crazily on the car window.

"Open the door! Open the door!" she screamed repeatedly, shocking her chauffeur.

The driver quickly unlocked the door, which the missy then opened and jumped into without hesitation. She immediately locked the car door thereafter.