

Sweet Love 2401

Chapter 2401: A coincidence!

Yun Shishi was oblivious to the envious stares she was receiving when she asked rather worriedly, "What... if I like every design?"

"If that's the case, you can select two of them to wear during the wedding, and the rest, we can keep aside for our photoshoot."

"Alright."

Hence, the lady was led to select the gowns under the adoring attention of the employees.

The two lads were busy chatting away. "The wedding dresses are so beautiful!"

"Oh, please. Mommy is so pretty; she'll look good in any of these!"

Mommy?

The store assistants were surprised to hear that. "Madam, sorry to ask an abrupt question: Are these two boys... your children?"

They initially pegged the two as her siblings!

After all, the lady looked too young to have given birth to children.

Also, they could not believe that a young starlet, who had just made her debut in showbiz, to already be a mother!

This was earth-shattering news to them!

To think that Yun Shishi has children out of wedlock.

Still, they did not discriminate against her in the slightest.

This was because the lady was too elegant to be despised.

"Yes," affirmed the actress with a nod.

Youyou chimed in sweetly, "Pretty older sisters, you must keep this matter a secret, yah?"

"Don't worry, little boy, we consider our clients' confidentiality of utmost importance!"

After speaking with the lady, they came to realize how easygoing she was. The actress was polite, caring, and gentle with them, and unlike the proud and unreasonable missy who came in earlier, this lady was like an angel!

Besides, their code of conduct bound them to secrecy.

Song Enya was inside the dressing room, doing her measurements, when familiar voices drifted into her ears. She immediately sheesh-ed the sales assistant, who was still talking enthusiastically, "Keep quiet!"

The girl was stunned.

From outside the dressing room came Mu Yazhe's familiar, magnetic voice, "This piece suits you well."

Brother Mu?!

Jiang Qimeng heard the man's voice and was equally shocked, her face turning pale at once.

"Isn't that... Yazhe speaking?"

"Looks like it."

The missy pushed the sales clerk aside, walked to the dressing room's door, and gently opened a tiny gap to take a peek.

The scene jumped into her sight, where she saw her uncle holding Yun Shishi's hand, with their two sons in tow, deep in conversation over the wedding dresses.

She drew in a sharp breath in shock and pursed her lips tightly. Tears brimmed her eyes uncontrollably, which started to roll down her eyes, when she saw the intimate couple!

All along, she had been trying her best to curb her thoughts, desires, and longing for him. Instead, she was full of hatred for him, but the moment she set eyes on him again, her hatred was dispelled at once.

Oh, how much she hated him... yet at the same time, she could not stop missing him, loving him, and longing for him!

In fact, she was so tortured that she almost turned insane!

She really could not understand why she was so relentless over the man and was unable to let go of him in her heart.

All she knew was that this was something out of her control.

Today, he appeared before her, without warning, holding another woman's hand. The couple looked so happy and in love that it stung her heart completely!

Why are they here today?

Don't tell me they're also here to pick a wedding dress?

The thought devastated her even more!

Chapter 2402: Bumping into a Heartbreaking Scene

No woman would want to bump into the man she loved holding another woman's hand lovingly. That kind of happy scene would be too heartbreaking to bear!

Song Enya pursed her lips tightly to prevent herself from breaking into sob as she watched the store clerks lead the two to the dress which she had taken a fancy to earlier.

It was that Vera Wang wedding dress with a deep-V design!

The sales assistant smiled and asked, “Ms. Yun, this was a dress by the top designer Vera Wang made especially for you! Do you like it?”

Stunned, Yun Shishi stared at the display for a very long time. The longer she looked, the more she liked it. Finally, she could not help asking, “Can I touch the fabric?”

“Of course!” said the store clerk. “This gown belongs to you in the first place! Nobody will have it even if you don’t like it.”

“Thank you!”

The actress said as she walked over to the gown and reached out to touch the material gently.

The missy inhaled sharply at that point!

So... he got Vera Wang to design that wedding dress for her specifically!

She recalled how much she liked the dress, but the store clerk firmly rejected her request to even touch the fabric then.

She found herself pathetic all of a sudden!

That wedding dress was just like the man she loved—totally out of her reach!

The mere distance of a few meters between the couple and her felt like a galaxy.

In a way, compared with her love rival, this was the truth about her situation!

Whereas custom-made dresses were catered for Yun Shishi, all she got were rejects from other people.

The store clerk then led the family to look at the remaining pieces reserved for the actress, where the mermaid dress, which the missy had also taken a liking to earlier, turned out to be tailor-made for the actress, too!

Clapping his hands, Youyou praised with a wide beam on his face, “Excellent choice! I feel that mommy will look really elegant in this mermaid design.”

The shop assistant asked in astonishment, “Little boy, how do you know that this is a mermaid design?”

“Oh, yes! I’ve already done my research. I wanted to find out which bridal style would best suit my mommy.”

His mother could not help probing. “So what did you find out?”

Nodding his head, the boy continued, “Well, my research shows that mommy will look good in any bridal style because she’s just so beautiful!”

Everyone was tickled by his witty comment.

Even his father had to give it to him as he teased his son playfully, “What a bootlicker!”

“I’m telling the truth! I’m sure you agree with me, daddy!” exclaimed the boy, to which the man agreed. “I also think that your mother looks gorgeous in anything she wears!”

The missy was devastated once more when she heard that.

Jiang Qimeng walked over to take a peek from the door as well. She frowned after taking a look. “Why are they here, too? Yun Shishi... I don’t know what that b*tch did to make my cousin fall head over heels for her!”

Her mother’s words stabbed the young lady’s heart as she bit her lower lip hard.

In fact, their appearance had foiled her mood once and for all. She had no interest to try any gowns further after witnessing the family’s happy moment.

She was too envious and jealous of them! Their smiling faces and happy laughter only accentuated her piteous plight!

All she wanted to do was destroy their happiness!

Gnashing her teeth at the upsetting scene, the missy refused to watch further. She turned around and plopped her butt on the sofa, too tired to cry even.

The store clerk attending to her could not make head or tail of the missy’s change in attitude. She approached the latter politely and said, “Miss Song, I haven’t taken your measurements yet!” Inwardly, though, she was grumbling, This customer is really hard to please!

Chapter 2403: Is this too extravagant?

It’s hard work to entertain such a client!

This was enough to trigger a bad reaction from the missy. “What’s there to try?! What you’ve selected are second-rates! These are dresses that others don’t want! Why are you giving me these?! Do I look that cheap to you?!”

Her scolding made no sense to the poor store clerk, who was totally clueless over her unexplained outburst.

What did she mean by second-rates? These are dresses specially tailor-made by the designers! They’re not selected only because the clients had a different aesthetic preference from their designers!

Some clients were suited for a deep-V cut, yet insisted on royal princess styles. Neither the dress nor the designer could be blamed for their clients’ stubborn capriciousness!

Besides, if she really dislikes these dresses, she can very well get a designer to custom-make one for her, can’t she? It appears that this lady can’t afford the high-designer fee which can go as much as millions of yuan!

What a conceited girl here, looking for princess treatment when she doesn’t have a life to enjoy that!

Of course, the store clerk did not know that she had been made to bear the brunt of this insufferable missy’s fury!

...

Outside the dressing room, Yun Shishi was oblivious to the tumultuous emotions running high inside. The store clerks brought the family to view the gowns one by one, where the actress was satisfied with every piece as she looked them over.

However, she seemed to have a particular liking for the mermaid dress, which might be due to Youyou's influence, or perhaps, the mother-son pair shared a common aesthetic preference.

As for the older son, he especially liked the dress with the deep-V plunge, where the waistline came with the su-embroidery. His mother got a shock when she stepped in for a closer look.

She found the wedding dress to be especially eye-catching from afar, but she did not know that this was because each embroidery stitch was studded with a diamond. According to the store assistant, every delicate diamond was well-polished and -cut. Because of this, the reflection of the illusionary glaze, brimming with color, was extremely dazzling!

No wonder!

Yun Shishi was tongue-tied with awe.

It's too extravagant. This wedding dress must be very expensive, right?!

Hence, when the store clerk walked away to take down the dress, she took the chance to draw close to her husband, then she probed softly. "Did you get designers to specially design all these dresses?"

"Yes." When he saw her hesitation, he asked with a raised brow, "Why? Don't you like them?"

"I like them! Still, isn't it a little too extravagant?"

The woman secretly did some calculations on the cost of a dozen dresses. The dress with the deep-V design should cost at least tens of millions, shouldn't it? If the rest cost a few million each, won't the entire collection add up to cost hundreds of millions?

The woman's lips twitched at the thought.

Her husband replied, "That dress with the deep-V plunge was specially designed for you by Vera Wang. Of course, on my mother's account, she did this on a friendship basis. The design fee was low, but the handiwork cost a little more."

"Your mother?"

"Yeah."

"Vera Wang knows your mother?"

"They were kinda old friends."

The woman raised her eyebrow but was not too surprised to hear that, either.

"Vera Wang knew my mother before she was famous. They were rather close. She attended my mother's funeral, and the white gown worn by my mother when buried was designed by her."

While the woman stood stunned by his account, the store clerk approached her and said, "Ms. Yun, the gown is ready. Can we leave it in the dressing room for you to try?"

“Sure.”

“Please follow me!”

Nodding, the actress turned and glanced at her husband.

Chapter 2404: Are you here to try wedding dresses, too?

Mu Yazhe assured her. “Go ahead; I’ll wait for you at the lounge.”

“Alright, then. You look after our two kids.”

Her younger son quipped in displeasure. “You just need to look after big brother; I’m a good boy!”

His older brother rebutted defiantly with squinting eyes, “You’re only a good boy when mommy’s around!”

Youyou had a beam on his face while he secretly stomped on his older twin’s foot, covered by a leather shoe.

Little Yichen let out a yelp with his face contorting in pain. He then hugged his father’s waist and moaned, “Daddy, look! Lil’ bro is bullying me again!”

“There’s no use crying for help.”

Their mother got a headache from the twins’ squabbling. “I’m gonna hit your butts if you two don’t stop your nonsense!”

Both lads immediately quieted, held hands, and made peace with each other.

The store clerks sent a few pieces to a dressing room as the actress followed behind them.

The moment she stepped into the room, she saw a familiar face flashed before her.

Song Enya was standing in front of the dressing mirror, looking glamorous and elegant with her impeccable makeup. Despite the thick layer of rouge on her face, her sickly constitution was apparent, though.

Yun Shishi was stunned for a while before she pulled her lips taut with befuddlement. She did not understand why her rival would appear at the same place as her.

Truth be told, the capital was considered a major metropolis, yet she would bump into the latter every so often.

By the way, why is she at the bridal salon, too?

Is she perhaps... getting married as well?

Still, since the two had already caught each other’s presence, it would be rude of her not to extend a greeting.

“Enya, what a coincidence; are you here to try wedding dresses, too?” asked the actress smilingly.

Enya?

The store clerk standing beside them got a shock.

After realizing that her customer's surname was 'Song' and was way too classy to be an ordinary folk, she wondered inwardly, Don't tell me that she's the famous daughter of our mayor here?

The mayor was well-known within the capital, having come from a family of politicians. On top of that, his daughter was considered a beauty; hence, her name was not foreign to many.

As a leader in the bridal trade, the store employees often came across many elites and socialites in their course of work. As a result, any names worth mentioning would not escape their attention.

Song Enya glared at the actress expressionlessly. Her lips curled into a half-smile as she glanced meaningfully at the few store clerks, holding a handful of gowns, standing behind her.

"What a coincidence!"

Jiang Qimeng held the same animosity as her daughter when she cast an unfriendly glance at the newcomer; her eyes revealed a glint of viciousness at the same time. Despite the older woman's efforts to hide her malevolence, her eyes clearly told the latter that she was unwelcome here!

Nonetheless, the actress was not put off by their attitude. Glancing at the few pieces of gowns next to the missy, she remarked with a nonchalant smile, "Are you here to try your wedding dresses, too? He he... Are you also getting married?"

The missy's face sank at her words.

The mention of wedding dresses only made her feel worse.

All of her rival's gowns came from the hands of famous designers, whereas hers had only come from fairly average designers.

The store clerk might have tried to gloss over the status of her designers by reinforcing the point that her gowns were uniquely designed, but that could not hide the fact that designers had different reputations. In short, her designers could not be compared to the actress's!

The thought was enough to bring tears to her eyes. She bit hard her lower lip as she glared bitterly at her rival!

Chapter 2405: You sure are good at assuming that you have a position.

The thought was enough to bring tears to her eyes. She bit hard her lower lip as she glared bitterly at her rival!

Feeling furious and indignant with their presence being suppressed by the actress, Jiang Qimeng spoke haughtily from the sidelines. "That's right! My daughter is getting married soon! Her husband-to-be is Mu Yancheng, the next family head of the Mus! Hah! Not only will she have a grand and lavish wedding, she'll become Young Madam Mu and may possibly be the next matriarch, too!"

Yun Shishi thought to herself, I don't care about those affairs. All I'm concerned with is that her daughter isn't so stupid to come and ruin my mood!

At the thought of this, she flashed them a graceful smile and said, "Oh, congratulations! You're about to make your dream of marrying into a wealthy family come true!"

The staff standing behind her spoke enthusiastically. "Miss Yun, do you want to try on the gown with the deep-V neckline first? I think it suits you very well!"

"Okay."

The actress was about to follow the staff into the changing room when Song Enua suddenly stepped forward and raised her chin at her. "Stop right there!"

"Yes?" She stopped in her tracks and looked behind with a frown. "What's the matter?"

The young missy took her time to approach her rival until she was standing right in front of her. As she stared down at the other, her red lips hooked up slightly in a creepy smirk.

The atmosphere turned tense in just a moment with the retail staff watching them nervously.

Facing each other, both stared the other down in an invisible confrontation. Even though neither of them spoke, they were already engaged in a fierce competition of theirs with the aura they were exuding!

Song Enua broke the silence. "Dismiss! I have something to say to this lady."

The staff looked at one another in perplexity.

What is she trying to do?!

If the missy appeared friendly enough, they would feel slightly more assured to leave them alone; her aggressive demeanor and the threatening mood, however, left them feeling frightened!

"What do you want to talk about?" Yun Shishi lifted a brow warily.

The other let out a scoff and answered mockingly, "What are you afraid of? I'm not a tiger that's waiting to eat you up."

The actress smiled and countered, "I'm not afraid. It's just that my time is precious. I have at least ten bridal gowns to try and select. I really don't have any spare time to waste on you."

Those words were indubitably the greatest insult and humiliation the missy could receive from her rival!

Incensed, Song Enua could not help spitting, "You're feeling rather smug, aren't you? Let me tell you this, though: Don't be too happy just yet! What? Did you think that Brother Mu will continue to dote on you forever like how he does now? Ha ha! He was so much gentler and doting on me in the past compared to how he treats you now, but look at what happened in the end? You'll likely end up like me eventually! You may be feeling very smug now, but once the day Brother Mu abandons you comes, you may very well be in a far more miserable state than I am now!"

"Oh?" The actress shook her head helplessly. "What position are you in to give me this lecture? His ex-girlfriend or his ex-wife? You sure are good at assuming that you have a position when you're not even his lover."

Chapter 2406: He wants to give her the best life.

“You sure are good at assuming that you have a position. The problem is that you’re nothing to him.”

The missy was rendered speechless.

“No matter how doting he was on you then, he only considered you as his young niece, so how can you be compared to me?” Yun Shishi spelled it out clearly for her.

She thinks she can rile me up just like that?

Hah.

For a man like Mu Yazhe, his greatest display of love for his woman was never to give other females the chance to put her down!

She was his first woman and would also become his last and only one besides being his lawful wife.

The man, as her husband, had never created any woman-trouble for her. Be it Mu Wanrou or Song Enya, his relationship with both was practically clean and clear—no messy love affairs.

Based on this point alone, what could she possibly be dissatisfied with him about?

“Honestly speaking, he used to dote on you a lot and see you as his younger niece. You could have maintained that relationship with him just fine, and I wouldn’t have any objections to it. Alas, you’re such a loathsome and irksome person, so I started to hate you and want to put an end to your relationship! He’s willing to make a clean break with you for my sake, but will he do the same for you?”

The question caused the missy’s face to turn ashen.

Seeing how her daughter staggering backward on her now somewhat wobbly legs, Jiang Qimeng could not help feeling worried and stepped forward to support her.

The actress persisted in firing back at her nemesis. “You’re nothing to him, so please stop acting as if your love is reciprocated, okay?”

“Yun Shishi!” screamed Song Enya as tears flowed down her face uncontrollably. Her pale lips parted to let out a miserable laugh. “What about you? How did you treat him when he’s treated you so well? Being the Mus’ family head, he had a bright and glorious future ahead of him, but he gave up his position and empire all for your sake! How selfish and willful you are to make a proud man like him give up that coveted seat! You single-handedly destroyed him! Is this how you love him?! Don’t you find it very cruel?! Have you never considered what kind of a predicament he’ll end up in with his fall from grace?”

The actress pursed her lips, feeling somewhat remorseful.

Truthfully speaking, she felt immensely touched when she saw how he, a prideful man, gave up his lofty position and the empire that he had built over the years for her. From this alone, she had set her heart to be with him for life, in richer or poorer, with no regrets.

Besides that, she had mentally prepared herself to face the challenges, which he might encounter after leaving the Mu family, together with him regardless of his social or financial status.

She had once thought that he would surely be unable to climb back to his feet after facing such a major setback of being ostracized by his family and becoming jobless.

Even though Youyou was a commercial genius and they could maintain a decent lifestyle with the earnings she made through acting, her husband would never accept financial help for them.

However, as facts had proven, the prideful man could surprise her time and again.

He once said to her, 'I won't let my woman experience even a day of suffering with me around and won't let myself become down-and-out even for a second.'

Chapter 2407: There should be a limit to how much disgrace you can bring on yourself.

He was constantly telling himself that he had to let his wife and children live the most blissful lives ever.

He had married her out of love and for the sake of doting on as well as taking care of his woman as her lawful husband, not for her to experience a life of poverty and despondency with him.

As the saying went, 'Everything goes wrong for a poor couple.'

He, as a man, wanted to let his wife lead the best life. Sure enough, he had done exactly that and proven his promise with his actions.

He had long intended to leave the Mu family. It was just that this plan of his had to be brought forward because of her. Good thing, though, that he had everything under control despite there being several critical moments.

Yun Shishi laughed it off and nonchalantly replied, "So what?"

"So what?!" The missy burst out laughing out of anger. "How shameless you are! Shouldn't one hope that her beloved man becomes more outstanding? You, on the contrary, made no contributions and have even, time and again, become a burden to him! If I were you, I'd give him up so that he couldn't be reduced into a sorry state! If he and Shengyu did not manage to pull through this crisis and climb back to his feet, would your conscience be at ease?! Things would've been different if he had ended up with me! Unlike you who only sully his name and excellence, my family has the power and means to push him back into power and get back everything that belongs to him at all costs! You're a selfish woman who doesn't love Brother Mu at all! Is this how you should be loving someone, you vile and shameless creature?!"

She looked at Song Enya and watched how the latter was frantically trying to insult and satirize her as though, by doing this, she could achieve her goal of hurting her.

A scoff escaped her lips. "I'm sorry to disappoint you, but my husband isn't a weakling!"

The missy was struck dumb upon noticing that, not only did she fail to provoke her love rival, the other was actually regarding her with pity as though she were a pathetic creature!

“He chose me when his family forced him to make his choice between me and them. This might be the price he had to pay for loving me, but so what? He didn’t hesitate to abandon his family and choose me! What does that say, then?”

The actress stepped closer toward the missy and leaned forward gracefully to whisper slowly into the latter’s ear. “This means that he thinks that I’m worthier than you. He can abandon everything he has to love me, but what about you? He didn’t even spare you a second glance even when you shamelessly resorted to using dirty and extreme tricks of undergoing in-vitro fertilization to bear his child just so you could tie him down to your side! You’re quite the pitiful woman. You love him so much, but he’s reluctant to even look at you. Don’t you find yourself pitiful?”

When Song Enya heard that, she could not help but stumble backward with her fists tightly clenched. Her breathing quickened as she stared at the other with red-rimmed eyes.

Had the actress not mentioned it, she might not have this realization at all!

At this moment, however, she realized with a start that she was just insulting herself with the so-called insults she had hurled at the other! Every word that she had said earlier now seemed to be tearing her scarring wounds, resulting in pus and blood to flow from them!

“Enough!” She wailed bitterly as she bit her bottom lip so hard that it almost tore her skin. “Don’t go on anymore!”

Yun Shishi looked at her expressionlessly. “Song Enya, there should be a limit to how much disgrace you can bring to yourself.”

Chapter 2408: Getting Furious

“Song Enya, there should be a limit to how much disgrace you can bring to yourself.”

Gritting her teeth, Jiang Qimeng, who could no longer bear to stay as a bystander upon hearing the other’s insult on her daughter, stormed forward and raised her hand high to deliver a slap at the actress!

While the retail staff let out a frightened shriek when they saw this scene, the undaunted actress deftly extended a hand and gripped the middle-aged woman’s wrist tightly. Her grip was so strong that the middle-aged woman could not break free despite struggling.

She then lifted another hand but was stopped by the actress anew.

“L-Let go of me!”

“Like mother, like daughter. Both of you ultimately have a prestigious background, so please don’t destroy your family’s reputation. Never mind that your daughter is acting so shamelessly, but have you, a mother, got no upbringing at all?!”

Upon hearing that, Song Enya’s eyes instantly glowed red as she stared in the actress’s direction. If only she could kill her with a look!

“Shut your filthy trap!” growled her mother to the actress. “You’re not allowed to say that to my daughter!”

“I’m gonna kill you, Yun Shishi!”

She suddenly lost control of herself and charged forward to the actress. In her enraged state, she had lost all sense of propriety and manners and did not hesitate to deliver one slap after another to her rival.

Her mother, too, rushed forward and joined hands with her to tug and pull their enemy’s clothes and hair while slapping her everywhere.

The staff standing at the side hastily gathered around in a bid to stop them.

Just when things had gotten completely out of control, someone suddenly pushed the changing room’s door wide open to reveal a worried Youyou rushing in.

The boy had been browsing through the selection of bridal gowns when he heard the vague sound of conflict coming from the changing room, which got him rushing inside. His protective streak had him running toward them at once when he saw his mother and the Song mother-daughter pair engaged in a tussle. He then held onto Song Enya’s arm and bit down hard on it!

“Ah!” yelped the missy in pain as she instinctively aimed a kick at the boy.

“Get lost! Get lost!”

The relatively calm Yun Shishi, who could handle the duo easily, went mad with her eyes glowing red when she saw the missy kicking and beating her son. She rushed up toward them and, while grabbing Song Enya’s hair in one hand, delivered one slap after another to her face!

Meanwhile, the boy, who was still holding onto the missy’s arm tightly, clamped his teeth even harder on it.

Having heard their dispute by now, Mu Yazhe and Little Yichen came to check things out in the changing room as well, only to be greeted by this scene upon opening the door. The older twin shrieked in shock and was about to charge forward but got stopped by his father.

Striding forward, the man pried the two women apart before lifting his fist to aim a punch at his niece’s face!

A deafening silence ensued immediately.

Song Enya held her hurting face and let out a painful moan as she fell to the ground from the impact. She soon detected a metallic scent coming from her mouth.

She wiped the corners of her lips with her fingers, only to find them covered in blood.

She coughed upon feeling something coming loose and dropping from her gums, only to see two whole teeth lying in her bloody spit. Her pupils dilated and constricted for a moment as she lost focus of her sight.

When Jiang Qimeng saw this, she let out a horrified scream, only to receive a deep, murderous glare from her cousin. The man proceeded to grab her clothes' collar with one hand and reached for her neck his other hand, where his slender fingers coiled around it.

"Are you going to go along with her nonsense?!"

His frightening demeanor scared her so much that she froze and broke out in a cold sweat.

"Yazhe..."

She could tell that this man had truly gotten furious!

Chapter 2409: Scram!

She could tell that the man had truly gotten furious this time! In fact, he was so enraged that he lost his cool and actually punched her daughter.

He was never one to hit females. The worst he had done was give Song Enya a tight slap across her face, but this time, he had gone out to use his fist! It showed that he could not bother to preserve their dignity!

Mu Yazhe barked, "Didn't I warn you that I don't want to see you laying a hand on my wife again?! Did you think I was joking?!"

"Brother Mu!" The missy burst into tears. "Why are you treating me like this?! Why?!"

He sneered. "Song Enya, must you be so degrading to the point that I look down on you?"

"I—"

As she held her stinging cheek, her lips quivered nonstop and her tears flowed down desperately.

How unfair!

I can't take it lying down!

She had already decided to let go of her feelings for the man, but when she saw how doting he was toward her love rival, she could not help but feel resentful! She had nowhere to vent her frustrations!

I've lost everything! Can't I even throw a tantrum?!

If Yun Shishi were to know what the missy was thinking, she would surely scoff and think, What kind of reason is this?! Why do I have to take the brunt of her anger?!

"Scram."

The man mercilessly tossed out an order for the mother-daughter duo to leave.

He did not care what they were here for. All he knew was that he did not want to see them souring his wife's mood.

He was looking forward to seeing his wife in a bridal gown, so he wanted them to stay as far away from his family as possible.

Jiang Qimeng was about to argue back, but when she saw her cousin's sinister look, she stomped her foot on the ground angrily and turned to help her daughter up. The two of them then left the shop like defeated soldiers on the run.

Yun Shishi immediately ran toward Youyou, picked him up, and examined his body thoroughly.

"Are you hurt?"

The boy pushed his mother shyly. "Nah, I'm not hurt!"

"I saw her kicking you nonstop."

"Oh, please! She couldn't hurt me with that puny strength of hers!" He was between laughter and tears as he added, "I'm not that weak! I'm all fine and not hurt in any way!"

Mu Yazhe walked to his wife's side, held her shoulders, and examined her nervously.

"What about you? Are you hurt?"

She stroked her hair as she mumbled, "Apart from my messy hair, I'm not hurt anywhere. They're just hitting me randomly and didn't hurt or injure me."

Only then did the man heave a sigh of relief. Before long, he asked askance, "What are they doing here?"

"They must've arrived before us. They're probably here to select a bridal gown."

"Select a bridal gown?"

"Mm. I heard Jiang Qimeng saying that her daughter is about to be married to Mu Yancheng. She's hoping for her daughter to become the Mu family's matriarch."

The man laughed upon hearing that. "With Mu Shumin around, they can forget about being the matriarch of the family."

The retail staff immediately came forward to offer their most sincere apologies.

The actress waved in dismissal. "It's nothing. I was just bitten by a mad dog. How can I blame you ladies for that?"

The staff chuckled before adding, "Nevertheless, we're truly sorry that you've encountered something so unpleasant in our premises!"

"It's fine! I still have to trouble you ladies with my gown fitting!"

Upon realizing that his wife seemed to be unperturbed by the earlier fiasco, Mu Yazhe held the twins' hands in relief and told her, "It's a relief that you're fine. Go try your gowns. Just shout for me if you need my help."

"Okay!"

Chapter 2410: How beautiful!

Yun Shishi got into the dressing room together with the store clerks.

The rest of the store assistants quickly picked up mops to clean the mess on the floor.

The first gown she was trying on was the one with the deep-V cut. This gown was especially cumbersome with its long and wide hemline, of which required two helpers to carry. The dress was also weighed down by the numerous diamond stones inlaid on the fabric.

After fussing with the delicate gown for some time, the actress finally emerged from the changing room, looking rather awkward.

The eyes of the two stylists awaiting her outside the room went wide with shock the moment they saw her.

The protagonist looked absolutely dazzling in the gown even though there was only a light touch of foundation on her face; she had yet to apply any makeup, in fact!

“OMG... Only a master can produce such handiwork! This gown is truly stunning!”

Another employee quickly added, though, “Well, it depends on the lady wearing it, too! Ms. Yun looks really elegant and classy in the wedding dress. She’s certainly capable of carrying off this style!”

“Quick! Let Mr. Mu see how it looks on you!” The group jostled her through the door as they encouraged her.

Outside, Mu Yazhe was flipping through some wedding magazines on the sofa while the two boys loitered around aimlessly. The two were the first to catch sight of their mother in her gown from their periphery and both stood up in amazement simultaneously.

“WOW!” The older one let out an exaggerated exclamation that fully displayed his astoundment.

Although the younger sibling did not scream like his brother, his reaction was, by no means, any lesser as he stood rooted to the spot with his eyes and mouth wide open for some time.

As the woman slowly approached them, Youyou hastily tugged at his father’s sleeve. “Daddy, look! Mommy has changed into her gown!”

The man looked up and glanced in the direction that his son was pointing. What he saw was a woman, dressed in a classy and pristine white gown with a deep-V plunge, walking toward them. With its long hemline pulling behind her on the floor, she descended upon them like a proud queen, beautiful and regal.

She stood still, with her palms clasped together elegantly, and asked in jittery, “How do I look?”

One could see the dress’s hemline spreading out like a white lily on the floor. She twirled her body around gradually where a similar deep-V cut could be seen on the back of the gown as well; it showed off her shoulder blades and back curves. Extremely intricate hand-embroidered patterns could be seen on the shoulder straps and waistline. The waistline was covered with a large, elaborative piece of su-embroidery, where small, dazzling pieces of diamond could be seen inlaid in the stitches.

The gown was extravagant-looking, but more than that, it was elegant. She really looked ravishing in it. The sight of her took the man's breath away.

It was said that when the groom set eyes on his bride in a wedding gown, he would be moved to tears.

This man, however, did not cry, but he could feel a warm, electrifying current cruising into his chest. He was like a young, idealistic youth who had laid eyes on the girl he loved for the very first time.

Her flawless skin was especially fair and tender, like porcelain of a high grade, and looked as if it might break with just a blow!

The pristine-white, shimmering wedding gown complemented her impeccably flawless skin, transforming her into a work of art!

She was just too beautiful to be true.

It was almost impossible to find any words in this world to describe her beauty.

He held his breath for a long time before he could get a hang of himself again. After he recovered his breath, he curled his lips into a smile and said, "How beautiful!"

These were the only words he could think of when he lost control of his emotions!