

Sweet Love 3431

Chapter 3431: A New Addition (47)

One was given to vice, the other was anti-vice. It was simply...

Inconceivable.

Noticing Butler Fu's strange expression, Chu He asked, "Is there a problem?"

"Are you sure you want to take up this job?" Butler Fu hinted, "Master will be very angry for sure when he finds out!"

"What right does he have to be angry?" Chu He said unhappily, "Do I need to consult him on the sort of job I should take up?"

"Cough cough cough..." Butler Fu cleared his throat and remarked, "Baby Chu must be the most special child around."

"Why do you say that?"

"Daddy is given to vice, but Mommy is anti-vice. This..." Butler Fu looked awkward.

At night, Gu Jinglian returned from the office. Just as he was heading upstairs, Butler Fu saw him and immediately went up to him.

"Old Master...?"

Gu Jinglian noticed Butler Fu's hesitant expression and raised his eyebrows, thinking that something had happened with Baby Chu again.

"What is it?"

"It's like this..." Butler Fu cleared his throat, preparing himself to talk about this. "Chu He found a job."

Gu Jinglian was slightly surprised. "Why is she looking for a job?"

"She says she needs to earn her own living." Butler Fu answered truthfully.

During this period, Chu He had been idling at home without any income, so that she could recuperate. All her expenses had been covered by the Gu family.

Sometimes, when Chu He picked up Baby Chu from school, the boy would tell her about toys that he wanted and he would ask her to buy them for him. However, she did not have any money on her. Most of the time, she had no choice but to tell Butler Fu, so that he could buy the toys and bring them back.

It was not that Butler Fu did not want to give her the money for it, but rather, she felt that it was too shameful to be taking someone else's money.

Chu He had a strong personality and never liked being dependent on others. Hence, after her health saw some improvement, she started applying for jobs.

In fact, the police did not have a special anti-vice position. However, it was common for a police station to set up an anti-vice department. Hence, there would be police officers assigned to this anti-vice department.

The police officers of the anti-vice department were different from ordinary police officers. This department had stricter requirements for their officers. Other than skills and mobility, all other qualities had to be assessed as well.

However, the salary was not much higher. In addition, it was a rather dangerous job. They operated in the line of fire, and if things should go wrong, they would suffer injuries if they were lucky, but losing one's life was common. Therefore, most of the recruits were either retired soldiers or officers sent in from the special forces.

For these reasons, the position was not very attractive and it was difficult to recruit suitable people. After all, the mindsets of young people nowadays were different from before. Their lives were more important than anything else. As an outstanding police officer of Interpol, Chu He was naturally qualified to take on this job.

Gu Jinglian appeared indifferent and asked casually, "What sort of job?"

Butler Fu said cautiously, "Police officer..."

Startled, Gu Jinglian turned around and looked at him in surprise.

"Police?"

"Yes. according to her, anti-vice police..." Gu Jinglian was speechless.

How dare she.

"Who is she trying to antagonize?"

Butler Fu fell speechless.

Gu Jinglian said unhappily, "Why is she taking up this job for no apparent reason?"

"Because she has no income—" When Gu Jinglian heard this, he closed his eyes and said in a deep voice, "Did I not instruct you to give her a sum of money every month?"

Chapter 3432: A New Addition (48)

Previously, while Chu He was recuperating, Butler Fu had approached Gu Jinglian regarding this matter. After careful consideration, the man decided to allow Chu He to stay on at the Gu Family, for Baby Chu's sake. In addition, he had also instructed Butler Fu to transfer three million yuan to her account every month.

This was a considerable sum of money! After all, staying in the Gu family residence, she would not need to spend any money most of the time. Three million was just her daily expenses.

"I gave it to her, but she didn't want it." Butler Fu felt wronged and immediately defended himself.

"She didn't want it?"

"Uh huh."

"Why not?"

"Because..."

Butler Fu explained, "She said that she didn't wish to owe anyone anything and be obligated in any way."

"..."

Butler Fu added, "I can tell that this girl is quite headstrong! Basically, she doesn't wish to receive any favors from others! Only, I didn't expect that she would be so eager to find a job the moment she recovered."

Feeling exhausted, Gu Jinglian knitted his brows and said nonchalantly, "Let her take up whatever job she wants. In the future, there's no need to specially report this to me!"

He turned and went into the room, shutting the door behind him.

What a strange woman.

Butler Fu stood outside the door, stunned. It took him a long time to react before he walked away.

...

The next morning, Baby Chu got up early indeed.

The words that Gu Jinglian said yesterday seemed to work on him. Hence, when Chu He came to the room, he had already put on his clothes and packed his little bag, all ready to leave. Chu He sent Baby Chu to school and then reported to the police station.

Many of the police officers at the police station were curious when they heard that there was going to be a new intern coming in, who was directly employed by the anti-vice department. When Chu He appeared in the meeting room, everyone was dumbfounded to see it was a young woman.

Chu He stood in front of the podium with her hands behind her back. Her posture was straight and she had a serious expression. However, her beautiful face made it hard for people to associate her with the trained anti-vice police. There were very few female staff in the anti-vice department.

This position was extremely dangerous. It was inevitable that unexpected situations would occur in certain situations. The reason why there were vacancies in the department recently and they needed fresh blood, was because three police officers had been transferred to the civilian department due to injuries sustained during the call of duty. Hence, such vacancies appeared.

Normally, this position had very strict requirements, but it was strenuous and unrewarding. Therefore, even retired soldiers were unwilling to join unless they were specially recruited.

Now, the sudden appearance of a female face at the morning meeting shocked everyone. Some of the police officers laughed scornfully and cursed in silence. Were they really that desperate for people?

Fancy recruiting a little white rabbit!

“Boss, why did you recruit a girl into the team?” One of the police officers questioned.

His words seemed to resonate with the others.

“Exactly! Are we really unable to recruit anyone else that we have to settle for a girl!”

“I find this strange too! This young lady looks delicate. She doesn’t have any skills, she will be a burden to the team!”

Everyone’s doubts were not without reason. After all, women were weaker than men. Prejudice was unavoidable.

Chu He looked in the direction of the voice and sneered at the male police officer who had looked at her with disdain, “I wonder who would end up being the burden..”

Chapter 3433: A New Addition (49)

“I wonder who would end up being the burden.” The moment she said this, the few burly police officers present were indignant!

What the hell, to think they were being slighted by a newcomer! Not to mention, a woman!

Chu He was clearly arrogant and full of sarcasm. It was obvious that she looked down on these old police officers.

One of the police officers slammed the table and stood up. Many of the people present were veterans who had retired from the army, so they were all courageous men.

Of course they couldn’t take it sitting down when they heard this!

Given this situation, the counselor on the podium shouted, “Settle down!”

“Captain! She...”

“I told you to sit down! Did you hear me? You don’t even obey my orders?”

The anti-vice group was particular about obedience. They may joke around and laugh a lot, but when the captain gave an order, no one would disobey.

The man snorted and sat down.

The counselor continued, "Let me introduce you! This is the new intern police officer of the anti-vice group. Her name is Chu He. From now on, we are all comrades, please take care of her!"

Chu He walked to the podium and stood in a standard posture, introducing herself, "My name is Chu He, I humbly seek your guidance." With that, she gave a standard bow, expressing her respect for her seniors as a new police officer.

After the morning meeting, Chu He needed to register herself. Next was a week of in-service training and a month of internship. A month later, there would be a strict assessment. If one passed the assessment, they would officially enter the organization.

The moment Chu He walked out, the few officers exchanged glances.

One of the men started towards her. He was just reaching for her shoulder from behind when she grabbed his arm without looking back. Then, in a flash, she flung him to the ground.

Bam!

The man was thrown onto the ground heavily, and he arched his body in pain. The cold marble floor was cold and hard.

Chu He turned around expressionlessly and sneered, "Even if you'd wanted to test the skills of a newcomer, there isn't a need to resort to such despicable means!"

"You..." The man turned pale with fright as he stared at her in a daze. He couldn't figure out how Chu He's seemingly delicate frame could contain so much strength!

It was too scary.

Chu He gently clapped her hands and said, "Pity. I have to head off for training right away. Otherwise, I could spar with you."

Behind them, a few police officers had rushed out of the meeting room. They stared blankly at this scene, finding it unbelievable.

"Brother, how on earth did you get flipped?"

"How embarrassing!"

The man got up from the ground and clenched his fists. He was about to walk towards Chu He when the shorter police officer behind him stopped him.

"Alright already, don't be rash. Don't pick a fight with a newcomer!"

"That's right, Brother Hui, don't let your emotions get the better of you. If the counselor finds out, you'll be punished."

The man restrained his anger and turned to leave.

Chu He thought to herself: Crazy.

The entire day was spent in training. However, what surprised the instructor was Chu He's outstanding aptitude.

No matter how difficult the training was, Chu He could complete it to high standards.

After the training ended, the instructor took Chu He aside and asked her cautiously, "Have you... been a soldier before?"

Chu He raised an eyebrow and said calmly, "Yes."

"Oh? Veteran?"

"Mercenary."

The instructor's mouth fell wide open.

Seriously?

Chapter 3434: A New Addition (50)

Chu He came from a mercenary group and was a top mercenary. Subsequently, she joined Interpol and worked at the headquarters.

The instructor probed further, "Really? You were a mercenary before?"

"Not exactly."

"Oh? Then..."

She clarified, "I used to be a police officer as well."

"What sort of police?"

Chu He said seriously, "Interpol's highest-ranked anti-vice inspector."

"..." The instructor was confused.

Interpol!

It was an international police organization. They were the best among the best, and all of them were top international police officers. In other words, the anti-vice inspectors were some of the highest ranking officials. If an anti-vice inspector were to pay a visit to a country, they would be given a high-level reception.

But this...

"Are you pulling my leg?" The man looked incredulous.

Chu He said icily, "Instructor, do I look like I'm joking?"

The instructor was dumbfounded.

No, she didn't.

However...

The International Anti-Vice Inspector, according to what he knew, was appointed on a five-year term—The previous one was indeed a female. Furthermore, this female member had created a precedent in the history of anti-vice inspectors.

Could it be...

her?!

If that were the case, what could he teach her? She should be the one teaching him!

If anyone else had said that, he might have expressed his doubts. However, Chu He was too outstanding. To the extent that he announced her graduation within the day, because she did not need any training at all.

The moment Chu He left the police station, the instructor went to ask the counselor where she was recruited from.

“Politics and law examination” The registration form was submitted directly from the official website. Then, she took the examination at the Politics and Law Hall and was directly admitted.

“What’s wrong, Instructor Zhang? Are there any issues?”

“You got her to participate in the employment training?”

“Uh...”

“It would have been more appropriate for her to train us.”

...

Chu He managed to get to the kindergarten on time. From the entrance of the classroom, she saw Baby Chu packing his bag.

Sheng’er exclaimed when she saw Chu He outside the window. “Baby Chu, your mother is here to pick you up!”

The boy looked up, and his pale little face finally regained some color. He carried his school bag and walked out of the classroom, then threw himself into Chu He’s arms as if feeling a little aggrieved.

“Mom, the children are still ignoring me...”

On the way back, Baby Chu appeared unhappy. Chu He asked him again and again before he finally said, “I tried to talk to them, but they ran away and hid from me... as if I was a big monster!”

He tried his best to do what Gu Jinglian said and took responsibility for his own matters, but the children continued to ignore him. He was extremely frustrated.

Chu He picked him up and kissed his pink cheeks. “Don’t rush things. Take it slowly.”

She suddenly asked, “Your birthday is coming soon, have you thought about the sort of birthday party you want?”

Baby Chu fiddled with his fingers and said, “I wish to spend it with Sheng’er...”

“Sheng’er...” Chu He recalled, “Ah, the little girl sitting in front of you?”

“Yes!”

“Do you like her?”

Baby Chu blushed and immediately retorted, “Of course not...”

“Look at you, you’re blushing and you deny it?” Chu He said, “It’s your birthday next month! How about this, when Mommy get my first salary, I’ll invite everyone in your class to celebrate your birthday with you?”

Chapter 3435: A New Addition (51)

“Sure!”

Baby Chu got excited initially, but he suddenly thought of something and hesitated!

“What if... they don’t want to come?”

“Why wouldn’t they?” Chu He smiled. “If you invite them sincerely, why wouldn’t you want to come? Baby Chu, aren’t you fond of drawing? You can make an invitation for every child and invite them to your birthday party!”

Baby Chu nodded. Chu He took him to the stationery shop and bought watercolor and brushes, colored pencils, and hard paper cards. When they got home and finished dinner, Baby Chu and Chu He started their huge project.

“Let’s make an invitation card for Sheng’er first!” As Baby Chu thought about this, he started to take action.

However, what about the invitation letter?

Baby Chu was stalled for a moment by this difficulty.

Chu He suggested to the boy, “You’re really good at drawing, aren’t you? Why don’t you draw Sheng’er, then draw yourself, then write some words, and that would complete it!”

Inspired, Baby Chu picked up the pencil and started drawing. By the time Butler Fu walked in, the boy had finished drawing Sheng’er.

He was extremely talented in drawing, and although the drawing was not as realistic as a sketch, the cartoon version of the little girl had a pair of wide, glistening eyes, a small nose, and cherry lips. He drew her wearing a beautiful dress and standing in front of a beautiful castle. Baby Chu added himself into the picture, and the two of them holding hands with blooming flowers around.

Childish romance.

Chu He silently swore, ?this little fellow is going to be really popular with the girls when he grows up.

“It’s done!” Baby Chu showed the completed invitation card to Chu He and Butler Fu. The latter was dumbfounded.

“Baby Chu is really good at drawing!?”

“Uh huh!”

“Have you had drawing lessons before?”

Chu He shook her head. “No, he seems to have a natural talent for it!”

Butler Fu laughed. “That means he inherited Old Master’s talent!”

Chu He was stunned for a moment. “Is Gu Jinglian very good at drawing?”

“Old Master is good at traditional Chinese painting. When he was young, one of his landscape paintings was exhibited at the gallery. It was bought at a high price of 100,000 yuan.”

Baby Chu was very surprised to hear this. “Daddy is so good at drawing?”

“Old Master excels at calligraphy too.” Gu Jinglian definitely had the most beautiful writing that Butler Fu had ever seen. The calligraphy strokes were bold and powerful, like a dance between a dragon and phoenix. He had not seen a better calligrapher than Gu Jinglian, including famous calligraphers.

“If that’s the case, let’s get Daddy to write for me!” As Baby Chu said this, he took the card and ran to Gu Jinglian’s room.

The man was reading a book when Baby Chu placed the invitation card in front of him and demanded, “Daddy, Daddy! Help me write a few words!”

This little fellow always had a way to interrupt him. But what could Gu Jinglian do? He picked up the invitation card and saw the vivid cartoon drawing on it. For a moment, he was slightly taken aback.

“You drew this?”

“Uh huh! Baby Chu’s birthday is next month. This is an invitation card!”

Birthday? Gu Jinglian was reminded. Baby Chu’s birthday was indeed coming up next month. He picked up his fountain pen and asked, “What do you want me to write?”

“Hmm... write ‘Dear Sheng’er, I really hope to see you at my birthday party!’”

After writing these words, Gu Jinglian handed the card back to the boy. Baby Chu took the invitation card from his father and looked at it. He, too, was impressed by Gu Jinglian’s elegant handwriting!

“Daddy’s handwriting is so beautiful!”

Chapter 3436: A New Addition (52)

“Daddy’s handwriting is so beautiful!”

This compliment was very pleasing to Gu Jinglian’s ears!

After completing this card, Baby Chu felt sleepy. After all, he had limited time at night. It was already 8 pm when he finished drawing the card. After taking a shower and brushing his teeth, he went to bed.

The next morning, when Baby Chu came to class, he secretly slipped the invitation letter into Sheng’er’s desk drawer, being too shy to give it to her directly!

When Sheng’er arrived in class and was about to stuff her school bag into the desk drawer, she noticed something in it. She took it out and found that it looked like a greeting card. Flipping it open, she saw a cartoon drawing. The drawing depicted a little girl in a dress and a boy in a little suit, standing in front of a castle, holding hands. It was very cute.

She could recognize some of the words written on it—Dear Sheng’er, I really hope to see you at my birthday party!—Gu Chengze.

Holding the card in her hand, Sheng’er turned around to see that Baby Chu was sitting there with his face flushed, looking a little restless. She smiled and asked, “Baby Chu, did you put this in my desk drawer?”

“Yes... that’s right!”

“Your birthday is coming up soon?”

“Uh huh!” Baby Chu said seriously, “I made this together with my mommy and daddy! Mommy made the invitation card, and I drew on it. Daddy wrote the words!”

“Wow...!” Sheng’er exclaimed. “You drew this?! Isn’t it too beautiful?!”

She spoke rather loudly and almost the entire class heard her. When the other children saw this, they immediately surrounded her and jostled to take a look at the invitation card. Gasps of surprise could be heard among them.

“What a beautiful drawing!”

“Baby Chu, did you really draw this?”

For a moment, the children had forgotten that Baby Chu was a “dangerous person” and could not help being envious of Sheng’er for receiving such an invitation card.

Sheng’er said smugly, “Baby Chu gave me this invitation card! He was the one who drew the picture, the invitation card was made by his mother, and the words were written by his father!”

“Oh my god! I thought this was bought!”

“It’s even more beautiful than a bought card! Look at the words on it, they look even better than the print in books!”

“Did Baby Chu really make this himself?”

“Unbelievable!”

Baby Chu was extremely pleased!

The children took turns to praise him, and he started to feel as though he was walking on air! For the entire day, Sheng'er carried the invitation card around and could not bear to put it away. This was personally made by Baby Chu, and she was the only one in class who received it. The other children were extremely envious.

Baby Chu said that there would be one for every child in the class! However, Sheng'er was the first to receive it! This meant that Baby Chu treated her as his best friend!

Baby Chu got home happy as a bird. He chatted non-stop with Chu He, "Mom, did you know? Sheng'er really liked the invitation card that I gave her! She said that she wanted to keep it forever!"

"The other children are so envious of Sheng'er! Some of them secretly asked me if I had made one for them too! they said they wanted to attend my birthday party too!"

Chu He was very glad to hear this. After dinner that night, Baby Chu started on his huge project again. This time round, he made two.

His deskmate was a girl who liked reading comic strips, especially Balala the Fairies. Hence, he depicted the girl as Little Magic Fairy.

The other kid was a boy who liked to play soccer. He drew a picture of the boy in his autumn clothes, performing a volley kick. Then, Gu Jinglian wrote out the invitations..

Chapter 3437: A New Addition (53)

It had to be said, Baby Chu was a very creative child.

None of the invitation cards was monotonous nor rigid. For example, Sheng'er had once said that she wanted to live in a dreamy castle with a huge backyard filled with flowers. Thus, on the invitation card, he drew a castle and flowers, and even meticulously drew a crown on her head.

Sheng'er loved it so much that the children in her class could not be more envious. And when these two children's greeting cards were brought to class, they were extremely excited!

"Wow! Baby Chu has drawn me to be so handsome!"

This little kid especially liked soccer, and he played it very well. Baby Chu drew a picture of him in a jersey, and it was very impressive!

The other girl liked reading Balala the Fairies, so Baby Chu depicted her as a fairy. When the girl saw the invitation card, it became like her new treasure!

From this, one could tell that Baby Chu was actually a very meticulous child. He was able to make observations of the strengths of every child or what they liked.

This created an uproar in the Sunflower Class!

Because Baby Chu could only create two invitations every night before it was bedtime, after three days, only five children in the class had received the invitation card. The other children were extremely envious, but they could only hope that they would also eventually receive their very own birthday invitation card!

For a moment, they forgot that Baby Chu was the number one “dangerous person” that all the parents were talking about.

However, because they were reserved, they were a little embarrassed to ask the boy if he would draw them an invitation card, so they could only look forward to it. Some of the children would even go to class early and look in their desk drawers nervously. If they got an invitation card, they would show it off to the others.

Those who had not received it would look disappointed. There were even some who would be depressed and listless the entire day! To them, this was not just a birthday invitation. Because of the invitation card, Baby Chu’s relationship with the other children in the class also began to normalize!

Perhaps Baby Chu did not realize that the relationships between him and the other children had been restored. As soon as Baby Chu arrived in class, all the children watched his every move. Their eyes were filled with yearning and curiosity as they stared at what was in his hands. Their gazes followed him to see who his new invitation cards were for. Those who did not receive it were naturally disappointed. The children who received a card would bring it home and tell their parents about it.

Most parents were reasonable. Seeing that Baby Chu’s family was so thoughtful and that he had even drawn on each greeting card personally, they changed their opinions about the boy. Almost all the children who received the invitation card had been allowed by their parents to attend Baby Chu’s birthday party!

However, Chu He was sharp and noticed once, when she had gone to pick Baby Chu up after work, she saw many children surrounding Baby Chu excitedly and asking him questions.

“Baby Chu, who are you going to draw today?”

“Draw me, draw me! Baby Chu, I’ll definitely attend your birthday party and prepare a super awesome gift for you! So, can I have an invitation card drawn by you?”

On the way back, Chu He asked Baby Chu, “How many more invitation cards do you need to draw?”

Baby Chu took out a book from his bag. In it was a list of names.. He counted and told his mother, “Thirteen more!”

Chapter 3438: A New Addition (54)

There were thirty children in the class all up. In the past two weeks, Baby Chu had given out seventeen cards!

“Well then, I’ll cheer you on! Try to invite all the children in class to your birthday party!”

Baby Chu nodded excitedly.

That night, Chu He accompanied Baby Chu as he completed two more invitation cards. Just as she was coaxing him to sleep, her phone suddenly rang.

She picked up the call. It was from the anti-vice team leader.

“Hello? Captain.”

“Chu He, where are you now?”

“I’m at home.”

“Go immediately to the KTV on Huaihai Road. According to the public, there are offenders taking and selling drugs. Head to the scene now to carry out the arrest mission!”

Chu He frowned upon hearing this and immediately hung up the call. She changed into her casual clothes and prepared to leave the house.

Butler Fu was about to retire for the night when he saw her walking out of the room fully dressed and looking like she was in a hurry. This puzzled him of course.

“Chu He, where are you going?” he quickly caught up with her and asked.

“Mission execution!”

As time was tight, Chu He left quickly after saying this.

Mission execution!

This caused Butler Fu to be confused and worried...

By the time Chu He arrived in a taxi there, several colleagues in casual clothes were already gathered at the entrance of Niland KTV.

When they saw Chu He, the group of people looked extremely surprised.

“Why did Boss send for this newcomer?”

“Didn’t he say he’d send us a few more men? What... don’t tell me that he actually meant this skinny rookie?”

“What can a woman do? Is Captain crazy? Doesn’t he know how dangerous this mission is?!”

Chu He frowned. “Captain didn’t inform you?”

“Yeah!”

“Isn’t he just messing around?”

“Even so he can’t be so perfunctory! What’s the point of sending a woman? These guys have guns!”

“ ... ”

This was true.

In fact, if these offenders were just selling drugs, there wouldn't be a need to involve the anti-vice team, because the police station had an established special crackdown team. However, this mission was not just about drug dealing. Many of the people involved were from the underworld, so they needed to mobilize the anti-vice team. Naturally, these offenders might be carrying guns and ammunition. Hence, it could be said to be a rather dangerous mission!

Given this, all the colleagues were filled with resentment towards the Captain for sending Chu He on this mission.

“When will the arrest be carried out?” Chu He asked.

Suddenly, sniggers could be heard among the group.

“Ha! Women. They always have more beauty than brains!”

Chu He looked in the direction of the voice and noted a tall officer with a buzz cut. He sneered and continued, “Do you think this is a game of adventure? Do you think you can arrest them just because you want to? What if they have guns on them? Do you think you should even make a move without knowing this? You'd be shot before you even know it!”

These words were indeed a little overboard. Even the other colleagues found it too much.

“Don't go too far!” Chu He curled her lips in disdain. “Do you even need to consider this? Regardless of whether they have guns or not, you'd just assume that they have guns!”

“You make it sound so easy!”

One of the police officers was unconvinced.. “Do you think this is a training ground where you can behave like an intern who will be given chances? You really don't know that if a bullet goes through your head, your life will be over!”

Chapter 3439: A New Addition (55)

Chu He responded with an 'oh' and stood to the side without saying anything.

She could not be bothered to waste her breath on them. Anyway, the captain sent her on this mission, so she just had to do as he said.

Soon, it was midnight.

There was singing and dancing, and neon lights were flashing. The nightlife in the bustling city started to pick up pace. Niland KTV was one of the bars on a nightclub strip. However, it was not very big and seemed rather well-hidden, being located in a corner.

Past midnight, seeing that it was almost time, the team lead immediately waved his hand, and his subordinates – various plainclothes officers pretended to be customers and entered the venue one after another.

As soon as they walked into the KTV, a huge circular platform greeted them.

The KTV transitioned into its midnight scene. In order to attract crowds, many scantily-clad girls stood on the dance floor, showing off their skin and dancing to attract attention!

“Vice-captain, check room 4302.” A team member’s low voice came through the earpiece.

The vice-captain turned around and scanned the crowd. He said unhurriedly, “4302. Find out how many people are in the room.”

Chu He was about to step out, but someone was more agile than her. It was a tall and thin man who came forward. “Vice-captain, I’m familiar with the terrain here. I’ll recce!”

“Yes. Find out how many people are in the room.”

“Roger.” The person left very quickly. After ten minutes, he returned and said, “There are about ten people in the room! It’s at the end of the corridor, the room with the loudest music!”

The doors of the private rooms in the KTV were affixed with clear glass. Through the glass window, he could see six to seven men, each of them hugging a woman. They were smoking and twisting their bodies along with the music.

He saw that the table top was covered with a pile of cash, bank notes were scattered all over the ground. It basically confirmed that they had gathered together to take drugs and gamble.

“I think they’re almost done drinking! Some of them are high and are just standing there dancing.”

The vice-captain stood up and ordered, “Execute the arrest!”

Several police officers immediately walked towards 4302. They couldn’t wait to complete their mission and go home to sleep. They were exhausted, having worked all day. They had returned home after work for dinner, and had not even had the chance to lie down to rest before they received the call from the captain.

Chu He remembered that every member of the anti-vice team had signed a life and death agreement. This so-called life and death contract was drawn up by the police and had all kinds of accidents specified on it. Therefore, when they joined the anti-vice team, they were already made aware that this was a high-risk position! Furthermore, it was a thankless task. The bars in Beijing were disaster zones.

The few of them walked to the entrance of room 4302 in single file. They stood at the entrance and waited for the right moment!

Chu He finally lost her patience! If they continued to wait, how long would this mission take? It was just arresting a few criminals, was there a need to waste so much effort!?

She walked to the front door. Before the officers could react, they watched as she lifted her foot and kicked the door open. The sudden commotion frightened everyone in the room, especially those women, they were instantly frightened by this huge commotion!

The police officers gritted their teeth in anger at her rash actions! Indeed, this newbie was nothing but a hindrance! Why did she alert the enemy!?

However, they had no time to lament. They immediately drew their pistols out from their holsters and rushed in!

Chapter 3440: A New Addition (56)

Why on earth did this stupid woman alert the enemy?! However, they had no time to lament. They immediately drew their pistols out from their holsters and rushed in!

“Don’t move!”

“Raise your hands and squat on the ground!”

“Hurry up!”

“Ahhhhhh...” Screams rang out.

There was a strange fragrance and a strong smell of alcohol in the air.

There were a number of wine bottles lying on the floor, among scattered red bank notes. Chu He frowned, but she heard cold laughter coming from a man in the room who had his arms around two women, one on each side of him.

“Who are you guys? Damn it! You’re spoiling my fun!”

Clearly, the atmosphere was heated right now. Chu He barging in had ruined their mood. Even a fool would be able to tell that these people who were dressed in ordinary clothes and holding guns were definitely plainclothes policemen.

However, these people did not appear to be afraid. A few burly men slammed their guns on the table and snorted with cigarettes in their mouths. “All of you are new police officers, right? Do you know who our boss is? It’s not your place to be presumptuous!”

“Don’t fault us for being rude, now that you’ve ruined our boss’s good mood!”

The few police officers looked at each other. Just when they felt at a loss as to how they should get out of this situation, Chu He suddenly curled her lips. With a flick of her toes she tossed up a wine bottle from the ground and caught it with her hand. With the wine bottle she rushed at a man who was about to load his gun. Chu He took aim and smashed the bottle on his wrist. The bottle shattered and the man cried out in surprise. His wrist jerked and the gun fell to the ground!

The man cursed and immediately bent over to pick it up. However, Chu He reacted quickly. She kicked against the stairs and sprang into the air, delivering a handsome flying kick to his nose.

“Ooooooh...” The man grunted and flew a few meters through the air on the impact of this force!

Everyone was stunned. Chu He's flying kick was too cool! It was hard to imagine that someone who looked this frail was actually so strong and skilled! The man was so tall and sturdy, yet she had sent him flying!

While everyone was in a daze, Chu He grabbed the pistol and loaded it in less than half a second. She scanned the room and shouted, "Put your hands behind your head and squat on the ground. Don't move!"

A middle-aged man, seemingly the boss, who was protectively flanked by the gang slammed the table and stood up angrily. He pointed at her nose and scolded, "Who the f*ck do you think you are? How dare you behave atrociously in my territory! Are you showing off to me?!"

Chu He did not have the patience to listen to his nonsense. She turned around and flipped herself onto the platform, at the same time grabbing a wine bottle, and smashing this into his face.

"Bam!" The next second, there was the sound of the wine bottle shattering! The bottle exploded on the man's face and his nose bridge broke!

Everyone was even more dumbfounded!

"F*ck, you b*tch, how dare you hit me!?" The man covered his bloody nose and pointed at Chu He, shouting, "Attack!"

A group of men rushed towards Chu He.

Clang!

Splash!

Whoosh!

Clang! Clang!

Two minutes later, the police officers found themselves looking in shock at the man who, just a moment ago was sitting on the sofa, but was now rolling around on the floor in agony!

There were so many men, yet this woman managed to settle them all by herself!
