

Sweet Love 3841

Chapter 3841: A Perfect Match (33)

It was only after Hua Jin had entered the bathroom that Liang Yin hid herself in a corner and started to strip.

She hugged herself and shivered lightly as she walked into the bathroom. The actor was already sitting in the bath and warm water was slowly being released into the tub. In the blink of an eye, the bathroom became misty from the steam. The bathtub was huge, a good two meters across, big enough for two people.

Liang Yin stood by the bathroom, still undecided. Even though she was currently in Hua Jin's body, she still felt a little awkward!

The actor said indifferently, "Come on in!"

Liang Yin lifted her leg to step inside. The moment she stepped into the tub and the warm water surrounded her ankles, a sense of relaxation came over her. Her desire for warmth was such that she couldn't care less. In addition, it was so misty now and the bathtub was big enough that there was a distance between them. They could hardly see each other through the steam, so Liang Yin slipped in and sat in the bath.

The steam rose from the water, forming a wall between them. Liang Yin drew her knees into herself and curled up as much as possible.

Hua Jin suddenly asked, "Are you a student?"

"No, I'm no longer one. I'm in my fourth year of university, interning."

"Oh!" The actor probed further. "What about your family?"

"I ... I'm alone."

"Alone?" He arched his brow. "How is that possible? You haven't graduated. Don't tell me you're living on your own."

Liang Yin sighed before answering. "My birth father... is abroad. My mother divorced him and remarried. She's married to another man now and lives with him. She gave me an apartment and sends me living expenses every month."

"Got it."

He tried to explain. "In the future, if your mother turns up looking for you, at least I'll know what the situation is. Otherwise, I won't be able to react appropriately. It would be disastrous if things got out of hand."

Liang Yin nodded. She asked worriedly, "Will I need to do any acting?"

"You've read the original book "Heavy Snow" haven't you?"

"Uh huh."

“Great. There’s not much change in the script, as long as you’re familiar with the lines.”

The actor made it sound so easy, but Liang Yin felt a headache coming on.

“Did you mention that there’ll be shooting the day after tomorrow?”

“Uh huh.”

“But... I haven’t memorized the lines!”

“After the shower, we’ll work through the night, I’ll rehearse with you.”

When Liang Yin heard this, she still felt uncertain.

The shower area was next to the bathtub, hence after soaking for a while, Hua Jin stood up and washed himself under the shower. Liang Yin kept a close eye on him, making sure he didn’t “violate” her. When he was done, she watched him walk out before she stood up, stepped out of the bath, and rinsed herself under the shower.

By the time she walked out of the bathroom, the actor was busy moving things around in the living room. He first positioned the two floor lamps opposite the sofa, then moved a small stool to the rear area on the left.

“You see these two lamps?”

“Yes.”

“Think of them as two positions, camera A and camera B.”

“Positions?” Liang Yin knew nothing about these technical terms.

“Video cameras, one for long shots, the other for close-ups. Sometimes, there may be other cameras in other scenes, but the two main camera positions will be directly pointed at you.”

The actor pointed to the small stool and continued, “That stool there, that’s the director’s seat.”

Liang Yin said, “Actually, I was in a play in university.”

Chapter 3842: A Perfect Match (34)

Hua Jin saw a ray of hope when he heard this.

“Then you must know how to deliver lines?”

Liang Yin frowned, looking rather troubled. “Definitely not comparable to a professional.”

“Actually, I didn’t go to any film academy either. I didn’t specialize in this subject. I figured out acting on my own.”

“Ooooooh...”

The actor sat down on the sofa and said to her, “Did you play a female character in your college play?”

Liang Yin smiled and said, "A male character."

"What?"

Intrigued, he asked, "What play was that?"

"It was an original script, but there are fewer male students, so I had to take on the role of a male youth."

Hua Jin nodded and glanced at the clock on the wall. He noted that time was running out. "We'll have to run through the lines for the next two days. Even if it's going to be a bad performance, we can't make the director feel like I've not memorized the script."

Liang Yin replied, "Uh huh." She was genuinely willing to go along with the actor. After all, if it were not for her, this would not have happened.

Hua Jin took the script from a drawer and handed it to her. He sat beside her and guided her as she went through it.

He could recite the script backward with his eyes closed.

The very night he'd gotten the script, he had already gone through it once. Within a few days, he had underlined all the lines, memorizing them as he did so.

The man had an unbelievable memory. It was said that many famous directors had auditioned countless people, but only Hua Jin had a photographic memory and he'd never forget his lines.

The actor himself liked this particular script, so he had read through it with relish.

Liang Yin did not have as good a memory as Hua Jin, but she was more conscientious and hardworking. As a student, she had always come in at the top of her classes because she was serious and focused no matter what she did.

The actor gave her the span of a night to memorize the script, and lay on the sofa as she worked. He had initially thought that Liang Yin would find reading the script boring and would be unwilling to do it. Unexpectedly, she was very focused. As she recited, she highlighted the main points and tried to figure out the emotions and states of the characters, rehearsing the lines silently.

Seeing how serious she was, Hua Jin was relieved, and soon fell asleep.

When he woke again, it was daylight.

It was Liang Yin who shook him awake.

"Wake up!"

The actor opened his bleary eyes. Still groggy from sleep, he saw Liang Yin crouching by the sofa, but the faint blue tinge on her eyelids told him that she had not slept all night.

"What's the matter?" The actor sat up on the sofa and yawned. "Didn't you sleep?"

"Didn't you want me to read through the script?" Liang Yin smiled proudly. "I've memorized all my lines!"

“Oh.” He didn’t react at first, but then after a moment, his eyes widened. “What!?”

“I memorized all the lines!”

“Impossible!” The actor sobered instantly. He flipped through the script and muttered, “So many lines? How could you possibly memorize them all in one night?!” Even with his amazing memory, it took him an entire night to memorize it. This Liang Yin had only spent one night memorizing all the lines?

Liang Yin replied, “I’ve really memorized them all. If you don’t believe me, we can rehearse without the script!”

Chapter 3843: A Perfect Match (35)

The actor said, “Sure, but we’ll treat it as if we’re filming a scene. You throw yourself into the role, like you’re acting with me. We’ll work through this part first.” He marked out the paragraph that was to be shot the day after tomorrow. It was a key scene.

Liang Yin took one glance and knew which section it was. He stood up and walked calmly to the central area of the room. He could tell she was confident. First she closed her eyes and gathered her emotions.

The actor stood up as well. He took on the female lead role, Mu Qingge, playing opposite her. He stood and patiently waited for her to get into character.

After a few minutes, Liang Yin opened his eyes and nodded. “Let’s begin!”

The actor quickly slipped into character as well.

Although he was not considered an experienced actor, Hua Jin’s acting skills were definitely the best among young actors!

The story “Demon Eyes” depicted the love-hate entanglement between the Demon Slayer and the Fox Emperor. The female lead, Mu Qingge, was a disciple that no one in the Yin Yang Palace acknowledged.

As Onmyoji, her priority duty was to eliminate demons. However, as a demon slayer, Mu Qingge couldn’t even get the basic demon-slaying techniques right. It wasn’t until an accident happened that she found out that she wasn’t actually human, but born from a taboo union between a human and a demon. This secret was found out by the Yin Yang Palace, and the elders ordered Mu Qingge to be expelled.

The banished Mu Qingge was abandoned by everyone. She vowed to prove that she was a true demon slayer. However, she later met the Fox Emperor Feng Zhi. At that time, Feng Zhi only had a thousand years of cultivation and was unable to command a hundred ghosts. He was subdued by Mu Qingge.

As Mu Qingge’s shikigami, he eventually developed feelings for her after all their ups and downs together, so he confessed to her.

Hence this was the most important scene.

Liang Yin immersed herself in Feng Ji’s character. When she looked at Hua Jin’s face again, her eyes were filled with love. However, this love was a little arrogant because of Feng Ji’s cynical personality.

“Come back to the Village of Hundred Ghosts with me! I’ll make you my wife. How about that?”

In just one line, she was able to convey the nervousness, worries and fears of Mu Qingge’s rejection, displaying an expression of restrained admiration on her face.

Casting aside his pride, Fengji admitted that he feared rejection, but admired Qingge. However, he was unwilling to abandon the glory of his position as the future Fox Emperor.

Even the actor was stunned for a long moment. He was even prepared to interrupt, but he didn’t expect Liang Yin to put up such an impressive performance. It was incredible!

Has this lass really never acted before!?

When it came to acting, talent and spiritual energy were primary factors. Only after that did looks matter. Without talent and spiritual energy, it would be useless no matter how many famous teachers taught one.

For example, Gu Xingze was an excellent actor, as was Yun Shishi. Both of them did not go through specialized training in school. However Gu Xingze had a talent for acting, and was always convincing no matter what characters he played. Yun Shishi had spiritual energy. Her role as Yin Xiachun was definitely a classic performance.

He had not expected Liang Yin to pull off such a fine performance.

What a naturally talented actress!

Noticing that Hua Jin was in a daze, Liang Yin asked nervously, “What’s the matter? Is there a problem?”

“No... no...” The actor said quickly, “You acted very well!”

“Well then...”

“It’s not you. I was distracted!”

The actor quickly got into character and began to rehearse seriously with Liang Yin.

Chapter 3844: A Perfect Match (36)

The two of them rehearsed a few scenes. Liang Yin was so focused that Hua Jin didn’t skip any scenes but followed her emotions and got into character completely.

What shocked him was that in Liang Yin’s final scene, when she was about to part ways with Mu Qingge, she turned her body slightly. There were tears hidden in the corners of her eyes that kept surging, but because of her stubbornness, not a single drop fell!

It was too shocking...

The actor was so emotionally charged that he called a halt.

He walked up to Liang Yin and asked in surprise, “Are you... really not a specialist student?”

Liang Yin was rather curious, and asked, “What’s a specialist student?”

"It's..." Hua Jin halted and then continued, "Many of our actors are from Central Television. These actors from the film academy are called specialist students. They're professionally trained."

Liang Yin laughed. "I studied English Interpretation in university. Apart from the stage play, I've never done any acting."

"..." The actor was somewhat dismayed.

How did she get this good? That's why there's a saying: comparisons are odious. Liang Yin was no less talented than Gu Xingze.

/

"It's a shame you're not an actress!"

Liang Yin couldn't tell if Hua Jin's words were complimentary or derogatory. "Are you... praising me?"

"Of course." He grunted, "What would that be if it weren't a compliment?"

Liang Yin turned scarlet and said, "Thank you..."

The actor said, "It's morning now and you've been up all night memorizing the script. You must be hungry."

"Uh huh."

Liang Yin nodded. "I'm hungry!"

"Then, come out to breakfast with me!"

"Eh? Can we go out as we please?"

The actor explained, "This is a studio city. There aren't too many miscellaneous people who can sneak in, mainly visiting reporters and fans. The food street is next to the studio. There's all sorts of food. It's conveniently located, only a few hundred yards from the hotel."

Sometimes, celebrities would stay in the studio city for months to film. They lived in the studio city.

Many of the simple and unadorned buildings in the studio city were built later on. Because of the filming activities, this area gradually became prosperous. A few years ago, one would find only half of the fast food joints they saw here now, but later on, the film industry became more developed. Dozens of film crews would film here every year.

Actors, crew workers, journalists, fans... They came in droves and therefore, this bred many businesses. Hotels, inns, guest houses, food streets... Everything was available.

Hua Jin asked Liang Yin what she wanted to eat. Only then did Liang Yin realize that this Hua Jin seemed to be quite a gentleman!

The two of them had just left the room when Tang Yu's voice rang out from behind.

"Senior Hua Jin!"

Reflexively, the actor turned his head, realizing too late that he was now Liang Yin.

Tang Yu wasn't calling him.

Tsk. This Tang Yu is really annoying.

He suddenly thought of that day on the ship, when Liang Yin had been aggressive and said that Tang Yu was the real male lead in this drama. Perhaps it was for this reason he found Tang Yu annoying.

This Tang Yu is so young and foppish!

He wondered what the attraction was!? The actor glanced at Liang Yin and saw that she had also turned around. When she saw that it was Tang Yu, she turned a bright scarlet!

Furious, Hua Jin stomped on her foot. It wasn't hard, but it was enough to get her attention!

Liang Yin lowered her voice angrily and questioned, "Why did you do that!?"

Chapter 3845: A Perfect Match (37)

The actor's irritation increased.

"Why are you blushing!"

Liang Yin had no idea how flushed her face was right now. However, coming face to face with her idol, she really couldn't keep herself calm!

Before she could say anything, Tang Yu walked up to her and smiled. "Senior Hua Jin, you're up so early?"

"You don't have to address me as a senior!" Liang Yin looked a little embarrassed. She blushed and said, "Just call me Hua Jin!"

Tang Yu was stunned and flattered! For some reason, from the night before, Hua Jin's attitude towards him had changed dramatically, from arrogant to inexplicably intimate. The change seemed... too sudden!

But the real Hua Jin was furious! Who gave her permission to act on her own!? Who was she to allow Tang Yu to address him by his name! He was Tang Yu's senior. According to seniority, Tang Yu should call him "Senior Hua Jin". However, Liang Yin had taken matters into her own hands!

Tang Yu, however, did not notice the person standing at the side gritting his teeth. He rubbed his head in embarrassment. "Hua Jin... is it really okay for me to call you that?"

No way...

"Of course it's okay!" Liang Yin agreed cheerfully.

Encouraged, Tang Yu took a step closer to her. "Are you up early for breakfast?" he asked, trying to sound natural.

Liang Yin nodded and said, "Well, do you want breakfast too?"

“Uh huh, yes.”

Tang Yu continued, “I didn’t do a good job yesterday and stayed up all night memorizing the script, so I haven’t slept yet. I’m hungry and I’m going to get some breakfast.”

“What a coincidence!?” Liang Yin blushed with excitement and said, “I also spent the entire night reading the script. I haven’t slept yet. I’m planning to get some breakfast.”

“Alright, let’s go together!”

Tang Yu smiled and said, “My treat.”

“Alright, thank you.” Liang Yin acted appropriately. She was aware that she was now Hua Jin, so she could not get all excited like before. She now had to practice great self-restraint.

Except, Hua Jin could not remain calm. He tugged at Liang’s sleeve and asked incredulously, “Are you going to have breakfast with him?”

Liang Yin was stunned, and so was Tang Yu.

Almost in unison, they both asked, “What’s wrong? Can’t we?”

Their chemistry was incredible!

Hua Jin cursed silently, but he was smiling outwardly. Gritting his teeth, he relented, “Sure, sure, why not? Let’s do it together!”

Tang Yu was puzzled. Who was this girl? Why did Hua Jin seem to do whatever she said?

“Is this your assistant?” Tang Yu asked.

Liang Yin nodded, but Hua Jin turned his face arrogantly away from him with a snort.

When Tang Yu saw this, his expression darkened. He said to Liang Yin, “Hua Jin, I think your assistant has a really bad attitude. Where did you find her?! An assistant is an assistant. Her duty is to take good care of the celebrity. This is the first time I’ve seen an assistant throw a tantrum at an employer!”

The actor was livid when he heard this! The muscles on his face stiffened, and he cursed Tang Yu in his heart. Who are you to judge me?!

However, Liang Yin quickly tried to smooth things over. “She’s my distant cousin. She accompanied me all night as I read through the script so she’s tired and grumpy.”

“Is she your cousin?”

“Well, yes.”

“Oh, I see!”

Tang Yu turned to Hua Jin and said, “Actually, it’s hard on Hua Jin too. Although you’re his cousin, you have to be understanding towards him.”

Chapter 3846: A Perfect Match (38)

Hua Jin's expression darkened further. His handsome face was murderous, especially those eyes, it was as if they could bore holes through Tang Yu.

Tang Yu wondered to himself when he saw this, if this assistant had a grudge against him.

Why was she staring at him in that manner? They had never met before, so why was she glaring at him as if she wanted to kill him?!

When Liang Yin saw this, she immediately pulled Hua Jin behind her and smiled at Tang Yu. She quickly turned around and winked at Hua Jin.

"What are you doing!?"

"Did I give you permission to do this?"

"Huh?"

"All this while he has been addressing me as his senior. What gave you the right to decide that he can call me by my name? I don't want him calling me by my first name."

Liang Yin couldn't help feeling disgusted. "Why are you so arrogant?"

The actor snorted. "I'm an A-lister. There's nothing wrong with him addressing me as a senior."

/

"Actually, I don't think it's necessary to put on such airs." Liang Yin said, "I think everyone is equal no matter who is more well-known!"

"That's not for you to decide!" Hua Jin added, "Don't do it again! And you need to know your own place. You're Hua Jin now, not Liang Yin. Please don't blush so easily. People will think you're a pervert!"

When Liang Yin heard this, she was a little unhappy, but she said stubbornly, "When did I blush?"

"Just now." Hua Jin said, "When you see Tang Yu, you forget your identity. You're representing me now. Stop embarrassing me!"

Liang Yin was furious when she heard that, but because Tang Yu was there, she could only suppress her anger. Smiling outwardly, she said with gritted teeth, "Alright! I got it! I've only just realized you're so naggy!"

"You..."

Tang Yu walked over. Liang Yin and Hua Jin stood apart from each other, acting like nothing was going on.

He smiled. "What are you two talking about?"

Before Hua Jin could say anything, Liang Yin explained, "We were just discussing what to have for breakfast."

Tang Yu laughed when he heard this. "Is there a need for a discussion? Just order whatever you want when you get there."

"Exactly! I agree she's too conflicted." Liang Yin cleared her throat and glanced at Hua Jin angrily. Then, she smiled at Tang Yu and said, "Let's go! Let's have breakfast together!"

Tang Yu nodded and they walked side by side towards the breakfast parlor.

The actor crossed his arms as he walked behind the two, surveying them with narrowed, disdainful eyes. He really didn't know what this stupid woman saw in Tang Yu! Such an effeminate young thing. There was nothing masculine about him!

Obviously, he himself had forgotten that he had also been evaluated by some seniors as such, when he first debuted... A young thing with good looks. Back then, Hua Jin was known for his beauty in the entertainment industry. In terms of beauty, Tang Yu could not compare to him. Although, Hua Jin had no right to judge who was more effeminate or masculine!

Hua Jin had one more advantage over Tang Yu, however. He was six feet tall. Even in a modern drama, with short hair, he was handsome and imposing.

Liang Yin and Tang Yu walked in front while Hua Jin followed behind, secretly observing.

Tang Yu and Liang Yin chatted for a while. The two of them were naturally good at conversation and brought their own topics into it. In particular, he could tell that Tang Yu was trying to get into his good books.

Tang Yu and Liang Yin chatted for a while. The two of them were naturally good at conversation and brought their own topics into it. In particular, he could tell that Tang Yu was trying to get into his good books. After all, with Hua Jin's background and qualifications, and his influential status, if he could get close to him, he might be able to obtain some resources. It was obvious that Tang Yu was trying to flatter him.

As for Liang Yin, she obviously couldn't see the real reason for Tang Yu's enthusiasm. She was more than happy to be able to chat with him, and if she had a tail, it would have been wagging madly. Several times, the actor could hardly bear to watch on, but he held his tongue.

When they arrived at the breakfast parlor, Tang Yu very eagerly selected food for Liang Yin. Liang Yin said that she liked to eat century egg and lean meat porridge, so Tang Yu asked for a bowl of porridge and some side dishes for her.

The actor prattled on for a long time about little dumplings, but no one paid him any attention.

Tang Yu looked at Liang Yin while Liang Yin stood at the side and looked at Tang Yu in a daze. Hua Jin was filled with anger and had nowhere to vent it. He stomped his foot fiercely.

The earth shook.

Liang Yin snapped out of the daze she was in and turned to look at him curiously.

“What’s the matter?”

“I’ve been standing around for too long. My legs are numb!” The actor demanded, “I want little dumplings.”

Liang nodded and was about to order him a bowl of little dumplings when Tang Yu stopped her. He glared at Hua Jin and snapped, “Get this straight, Hua Jin. She’s the assistant. You’re the employer. What kind of assistant directs their employer to do things?”

The actor drew in a sharp breath at that, and his brow furrowed with anger.

However, Liang Yin was also a little uneasy. She smiled at Tang Yu and said, “She’s my cousin isn’t she...”

“Even relatives can’t behave like this, doing as they wish, right?”

Hua Jin was on the verge of beating him up.

Liang Yin felt a headache coming on.

Why were these two so at odds? Probably born to be enemies.

Hua Jin snorted with anger and told Liang Yin, “I want some little dumplings!”

Although Liang Yin was a little unhappy with Hua Jin’s commanding tone, she still nodded obediently nevertheless and said, “Got it! I’ll get some for you.” Then she said to Tang Yu, “Take a seat and wait for me then!”

As Liang Yin walked past Hua Jin, she said meaningfully, “You told me to know my place. Similarly, you have to know your place too, don’t you?”

“What do you mean?”

“Now, I’m Hua Jin. I’m a celebrity. You’re my assistant. You should be taking care of me.”

Liang Yin returned Hua Jin’s earlier warning to her. “Remember, don’t do it again!”

With that, she walked away expressionlessly.

The actor’s mouth stiffened. Well, this wretched girl would argue with him now! Not a simple girl indeed!

Hua Jin said nothing and sat down. Tang Yu glanced at her and suddenly said, “You seem to be prejudiced against me.”

“Prejudiced?”

Tang Yu continued, “You don’t seem to like me. Those who don’t know better might even think there’s some deep hatred between us.”

The actor smiled coldly.

The actor’s eyes narrowed, and an obviously fake smile spread across his face. “Of course I’m prejudiced against you! Don’t be fooled by how Hua Jin treats you. Hmph. Do you think he wants to bother with you? He despises small-time celebrities like you who will do anything to become famous!”

Tang Yu’s expression changed, but he had his suspicions. Because, from what he knew of the actor, those words were not unlike what he’d say! Normally on set, he could very easily tell that the actor disliked him. But for some unknown reason, he seemed to have made peace with him overnight.

However...

Tang Yu was deep in thought when Liang Yin returned with the little dumplings.

“There you go!” She said in a rather unfriendly tone as she placed the little dumplings in front of him. Some of the soup spilled.

Fortunately, Hua Jin managed to pull his hand back in time. Otherwise, it would have splattered on him.

Liang Yin said, “Eat up then!”

He grunted and ignored her, then picked up his spoon and ate in silence.

However, when Liang Yin turned to face Tang Yu, she immediately sounded calm and friendly.

“You seem to like custard buns?”

“Uh huh.”

“But I remember during your live stream, you mentioned that soy milk and fritters are your favorite.”

Tang Yu was surprised. “You’ve seen my live broadcast?”

“Uh...” Liang Yin quickly said, “I saw it once by chance.”

“Haha, that was just a casual remark. At that time, I was acting in an online drama and my character in that show liked soy milk and fritters. Therefore, no matter what questions were asked of me, I answered according to the character. Doing that was good for publicity and for familiarizing the fans with the character.”

Liang Yin looked somewhat disappointed at his remark. “Are all celebrity interviews fake?”

“Not entirely. It depends on how the company packages you.” Tang Yu continued, “Senior Hua Jin, you’ve been in the industry for so many years. You should know more about this.”

“Uh...” Liang Yin asked tentatively, “Then... what about your ideal type?”

“Ideal type?”

“Meaning, the sort of girl you said you like, during the live interview.”

“Oh, that!” Tang Yu smiled and continued, “Actually, I don’t even know what my ideal type is. Anyway, she will have to be pretty and have a good figure.”

“And you said you’ve never been in love—”

“How would that be possible?” Tang Yu said disapprovingly, “That’s what the company told me to say. Actually, I had three girlfriends when I was in school, but the relationships ended. When I joined the entertainment industry, the company forbade me from dating, so I’ve been single for a long time.”

Liang Yin looked a little stunned. There was disappointment in her eyes! She was disappointed that her idol would lie. Everything that he was, was designed by the company and it was all part of a process.

Suddenly, it felt ironic! Because in some of these interviews, Tang Yu said that he never liked lying and was a very honest and reliable man.

Now it seemed ironic.

Hua Jin also noticed the change in Liang Yin’s expression and suddenly smiled mischievously. He pretended to ask casually, “You say you’ve been single for a long time, but actually, that’s just mental singlehood, right?”

“What do you mean?” Liang Yin and Tang Yu asked in unison.

The actor, however, tried to be mysterious. “Oh, I shouldn’t say more. In any case, you won’t admit it even if it’s true.”

However, Liang Yin became anxious and shoved him. “Go on! Tell me!”

Chapter 3849: A Perfect Match (41)

Hua Jin looked intently at Tang Yu as he calmly said, “I saw two female fans enter your room some time ago and didn’t come out for two days and two nights. It seems like an intense battle went on in there!”

Liang Yin was about to say “impossible” when the actor stopped her with a hand gesture and a warning look.

Tang Yu, on the other hand, was obviously not surprised to hear this.

So he was referring to this matter!

He did not deny it. Anyway, the entire crew knew about this.

That day, when he brought the two female fans back to the hotel, he ran into Hua Jin.

Tang Yu did not know that Hua Jin and Liang Yin had swapped souls. Therefore, he could not be bothered to quibble in front of “Hua Jin”.

“So what?” Tang Yu said casually, “In any case, it’s all consensual! Besides, we’re all adults. There’s no need to hide the fact we have biological needs! We spend a long time with the production team whenever we film. A celebrity is not allowed to have a girlfriend. However, I’m not a huge star, so I’ve got no paparazzi lying in wait for me. It must be hard for Senior Hua Jin, having to be on guard all day and night with so many paparazzi waiting to fish for big headlines. I’m afraid you won’t have the chance to have such luck with women. Haha!”

With that, Tang Yu turned and said to Liang Yin solemnly, “I was just joking. Senior Hua Jin, please don’t mind me!”

The actor, however, was scornful. He put an arm around Liang Yin’s shoulders and retorted, “Do you think our Hua Jin is like you? Anyway, even if he risked his life to date someone, unlike you, he wouldn’t sleep with a fan.”

Liang Yin could not stand it anymore and stood up. The screech of the chair’s feet sliding across the tiles was piercing.

Tang Yu and Hua Jin froze and looked at her in surprise.

Liang Yin’s lips twitched. Realizing that she had lost her composure, she quickly said, “I... I didn’t sleep well yesterday and didn’t have much of an appetite. I’m going back to the hotel to rest!” With that, she left.

Hua Jin saw that she had left and was worried about her making her way back alone. But he was hungry still... So he gobbled up a few of the little dumplings and gave chase.

He caught up with Liang Yin outside the breakfast parlor. Grabbing her by the wrist, he asked in surprise, “What’s wrong with you?! Are you angry?”

Liang Yin, however, shook off his hand and looked away, saying nothing.

Hua Jin understood why she was reacting this way. “Don’t tell me you were disappointed by what I just said in there!?”

Liang Yin turned around and asked extremely seriously, “Let me ask you, is every word you just said true?”

“Of course. Go to the production team and ask around. Everyone knows about this. Those who don’t know, it’s because Tang Yu isn’t famous and no one pays attention to him!”

When Liang Yin heard this, her expression darkened and her heart almost broke! She never expected that her idol, Tang Yu, would actually... sleep with his fans behind the scenes! How could he do something so immoral? Too shocking! Also... too disappointing!

She could not understand such a thing! This was not only a matter of principle, it was a matter of a person’s character.

How could Tang Yu do this? It was... too much!

Liang Yin was rather disappointed and this was obvious to Hua Jin.

“That’s right. Being disappointed is right. People like that aren’t worth being idols.”

Liang Yin ignored him and turned back towards the hotel.

Chapter 3850: A Perfect Match (42)

Intrigued by her reaction, Hua Jin caught up with her. “Why are you walking so fast?! Can you slow down? Your legs are so long.”

However, Liang Yin immediately said, “These are your legs, not mine.”

The actor snorted at that. “They’re yours now!”

Liang Yin pursed her lips, refusing to speak!

Hua Jin saw her expression and knew what she was disappointed about. He smiled and said, “Why? Have you given up? Your idol looks like a gentleman and a high-quality idol, but he’s no different from an ordinary man.”

Liang Yin was already quite upset, and with Hua Jin fanning the flames, she became even angrier. She snapped, “What about you?”

Hua Jin was confused now that she was directing an accusing tone at him.

“What ... what do you mean by that?”

“Since you say that celebrities are all like that... They appear to be high-quality idols, but in fact, they’re no different from ordinary men... If ordinary people make mistakes, so do celebrities. What about you?”

The actor fell silent.

Liang Yin continued, “Do you sleep with your fans?”

“Please. There are only fans who want to sleep with me. There are no fans I want to sleep with.” He added, “I would never do such a crude thing.”

“Why?” Liang Yin did not understand. “A girl who’s your fan would be very eager to have intimate contact with you!”

“Although it’s normal for men and women to love each other, it has to be based on the fact that two people like each other and understand each other, right?!” After a pause, his gaze went blank. “The Hua Jin they like isn’t the real me.”

“What are you talking about?” Liang Yin could not help but stop and look at him in surprise. “I don’t understand what you’re saying. If it’s not you that your fans like, then who is it that they like? A ghost?”

The actor laughed in a self-deprecating way.

“Every time I make a movie, I gain millions of fans. These fans don’t like the real me at all. They like the character and the persona in the movie. I, on the other hand, just use the persona in the movie to make them like me. And outside of the script, they like me because my looks allow them to create fantasies.” The actor paused, then continued, “They fantasize that I’m their boyfriend, husband, or ideal lover. I, on the other hand, as an ideal lover, have no right to be in a relationship, for that would cause me to lose my fans. In the eyes of the beholder, there might even be a fan who would jump off a building because of it. At which point, the media would accuse me and make me a sinner.”

“Then why did you become an actor?”

“Because it’s my job.”

The actor smiled. “If you accept it, then there’s no point in complaining. Even if fans like your persona, you’re an actor. You can disappoint anyone but your fans.”

“That’s putting it nicely.” Liang Yin said, “As I recall, you have no lack of a bad history. Isn’t there also a rumor that you performed sexual favors for the higher-ups in the past?”

The actor frowned deeply at that. “Who said that?”

“Sister V said so.”

“Sister V?”

The name seemed familiar to Hua Jin.

“Who’s Sister V?”

“I can only tell you it’s Sister V. I can’t say much else.”
