

《Sweet Marriage: Smart Cute Wife》

C12 I Commit Suicide If I Don't Answer the Phone

Lu Jun started the car unhappily, "Where to?"

Xia Jinsheng stretched lazily and thought for a moment, then gave her address.

It was time to see the fellow locked in Gu Wensheng's house. If she suddenly found a new environment, would she explode like before?

Lu Jun's finger tapped on the steering wheel, turned the car around and said: "No, you have to treat me to breakfast first."

"Eat, eat, eat." Xia Jinsheng rolled her eyes, half supporting her head to rest.

"..."

Inside the Gu family's villa, Xia Jinsheng's bright red phone was placed on the table that everyone was resting on after the meal.

When Gu Nanchen picked it up, he saw a text message coming over.

"If you don't answer my phone, I'll kill myself!"

The sender was a "little lover."

Gu Nanchen squinted his eyes, before he even had time to think, his phone started to ring again and again.

He tapped lightly with his finger and picked up the call. He did not speak, and the other end of the line was also silent.

It was unknown how long the two had been in a stalemate before he heard the voice of a young girl. "Why aren't you speaking?"

Little girl?

Gu Nanchen frowned, "You ..."

After spitting out one syllable, the girl immediately hung up the phone with a "pa" sound.

Gu Nanchen looked at the hung up call interface and the phone number, the ending digit completely matching the one he saw last night.

When his phone rang, his little lover sent a message.

"You're actually a man, why is Xia Jinsheng's phone in your hands? Did you steal her phone? "Who are you?"

As a series of questions came crashing over, Gu Nanchen's mood improved greatly when he remembered the little girl's childish and clear tone earlier. He looked at the locked screen and tried out Xia Jinsheng's birthday.

Bad password.

He tried again on the day she was taken to the Gu family, but it was still a mistake.

His fingers paused for a moment before he entered his birthday and unlocked it ...

A certain vacancy in his heart seemed to have suddenly been filled.

He tapped his fingers on the screen and said, "I'm your father."

It was originally a joke, but the little girl suddenly jumped up from the sofa. Looking at the words on the phone, she pulled the nanny who was sitting beside her and asked, "Does this person mean that he is my father?"

Her delicate and pretty face was filled with surprise and joy. Because she couldn't read too many words, her uncertain and small appearance made one's heart go soft, making her seem like a cub.

The nanny nodded. "Yes."

"Really?" The little girl giggled and handed the phone to the nanny. "Then help me ask him where he is. I want to go find him!"

The nanny shook her head and laughed, she only thought that Xia Jinsheng was joking with the little girl, and honestly sent the message over.

Gu Nanchen who received the message frowned, he casually sent out a string of addresses, then kept the phone in his pocket. Walking out of the restaurant, he coincidentally met Gu Wensheng who received a call from Xia Jinsheng, and wanted to help find his phone.

Gu Wensheng's gaze swept across the table and looked at Gu Nanchen, "Nan Chen, do you see Jin Sheng's phone?"

"Nope."

"This little girl, she's always disgraced." Gu Wensheng said as he walked around the dining hall.

On the other side, the little girl who saw the address quickly sat down, stretched out her two little feet and said to the nanny, "Help me put on my shoes!"

Then he shook his head and got down from the sofa. He ran to the mirror and looked at his little skirt. "Can I wear my pink princess skirt to see my father?"

"Alright, please wait a moment." When the nanny heard this, she shook her head and went to find a dress for the little guy.

The little guy giggled as he looked at himself in the mirror. Her face was contorted with happiness. She found her favorite small leather shoes and put them away. Then she sat on the small stool and waited obediently for the nanny to bring her dress for her.

"..."

Xia Jinsheng looked at the bowl that Lu Jun had finished eating, and couldn't help but sigh. Was this man really a reincarnated hungry ghost?

Lu Jun wiped his mouth, rubbed his bulging stomach and looked at Xia Jinsheng, "Let's settle the bill."

Well, no thanks.

Fortunately, she did not need to be so formal. She took out her card and swiped it across the card, then asked Lu Jun who was walking slowly: "Can you still drive?"

Lu Jun burped loudly, then waved the car keys in his hand, "Soeasy!"

Was it really so easy to fake it? Xia Jinsheng was worried and stood still for a few seconds. Then, he decided to call a taxi to check on the little guy.

Monday was the peak hour for work, so she even picked a place to work. The car was too congested, so it was better to walk than stop.

After being stuck for more than an hour, they finally reached Gu Wensheng's private villa.

After using her own fingerprint to unlock the array, she walked straight to the pink decorated room and called out: "lovely kid?"

No one answered.

She opened the door of the toy room and looked at the empty room with a slight frown.

Where was he?
