Chapter 1071

The two people seemed familiar to him.

However, Sean could not remember exactly where he had met them.

“Mr. Lennon, what did you find?”

“Is there anyone you have some sort of beef with?”

Mr. Zedric asked quietly.

They knew Willow was kidnapped, but they did not know Jon did it.

Therefore, they thought that Sean’s other enemies did this.

“No.” Sean thought about it carefully but still did not remember the identity of the man and woman in the video.

By the time Willow, the man, and the woman entered the private room, they could no longer be seen.

After all, cameras were not allowed in private rooms.

Customers would not allow that in a normal restaurant, let alone in one that sought privacy.

Sean did not say much. He only stared at the screen silently.

After more than ten minutes, the four slowly stepped out of the private room.

Sean took a close look at Willow’s expression.

They seemed to have had a pleasant talk.

Willow talked and laughed with them as they walked.

The two security guards were anxious to see what was happening inside. They stopped nearby without saying a word.

"Look at these people. Do you remember them?"

Zander asked the security guards, showing them the surveillance footage containing Willow.

The security guards gathered together and glanced at it before looking at the man in charge with some hesitation.

"Why are you looking at me? Don't look at me..

"Be honest. Say whatever's on your mind."

The young man froze before saying hurriedly.

“Yes... “We remember. We remember this beautiful woman.”

The two security guards finally nodded and told the truth.

After all, any normal man would do a double take on a beautiful woman like Willow

The two security guards were outside doing nothing When Willow showed up, they kept their eyes on her

Therefore, they did remember Willow very well.

“What happened after they went out?”

Sean looked at a security guard and asked in a whisper.

“What happened...

The security guard thought for a moment before shaking his head slightly.

“Nothing strange seemed to have happened. I think they talked.

Zander answered and picked up his phone to make a call.

However, Sean’s phone rang rapidly at that moment.

Sean picked it up to look. It was a long list of digits. It did not look like a phone number at all.

There was no indication of where the call was from.

Sean had a hunch that the call was probably from Willow’s kidnapper.

“Hello.”

Sean answered the call without delay.

“Haha. Worried, aren’t you?”

There was a sneer on the other end of the line. The voice sounded like it was processed with some special software.

“We can talk.”

Sean narrowed his eyes slightly as he got into the car

“Before we talk, let me tell you something.

“I called you through VoIP, so you can forget about finding my location

“You will only irritate me. Your woman will suffer if I’m upset.”

The man on the other line sounded triumphant.

“Got it.”

Sean nodded gently but did not say anything harsh to provoke him.

“You got it? I don’t think so.

“Now, pull your men out at once, all of them.

Samuel knew what the middle-aged man meant.

The crowd reacted subconsciously.

"Just because you can't doesn't mean I can't.

"Do you want the money or not?"

Sean frowned slightly. He did not have time to explain how he got the money.

"Uhh... Mr. Lennon, we... we didn't mean that. We were only surprised..."

The crowd quickly smiled obsequiously and explained when Sean sounded a little upset.

“Take what I give you.

Truthfully speaking, they needed the money.

They did not want to reject it.

Since Sean insisted on paying them, they were going to accept it.

"Yes, Mr. Lennon. We'll do as you say."

Everyone looked at Sean and nodded respectfully.

"Get Finance in here."

Sean looked at his assistant next to him and whispered.

"Yes, Mr. Lennon."

The assistant replied in acknowledgment and immediately turned around to walk out.

Soon, five or six people with laptops walked into the meeting room.

Everyone nodded and replied with a smile.

"Okay! Pay them."

Jon sat in the chair with a sneer.

No one knew how great Jon felt.

‘Don’t you know Colton? Didn’t you beat Jen-Bond Holdings?’

‘Why aren’t you so arrogant now?’”

“If I had known Willow meant so much to you, I wouldn’t have taken the long way around and gotten Jen- Bond Holdings to come.”

Jon looked at Sean with a smug look.

What he meant was that he should have done it a long time ago

Sean met Jon in the eyes. There was no anger in his eyes, just a chilling flash in the depth of his eyes.

“I’ve done what you wanted.

“Hand her over now.”

Sean looked at Jon and repeated

“Did you do everything I said?”

Jon asked indifferently, looking at Sean

“I’ve paid the money.

“I’ve also taken care of everything between you and Quill.

Sean reached out and grabbed Jon by the collar, his gaze cold.

“Sean, are you naive, or am I stupid?”

“Will I be able to leave River City if I let Willow go now?”

Jon sneered as he asked Sean.

He did not trust Sean any more than Sean trusted him.

Sean could throw them into the abyss again before they even left River City. Therefore, Jon must leave River City with Quill before letting Willow go.

Sean’s gaze grew colder. Rarely had he been threatened in this way.

A few seconds later, Sean withdrew his gaze.

“You can leave now.

“Remember, if Willow gets hurt, forget that you’ve left River City. I’ll find you and kill you even if you have left Dragon Kingdom and gone overseas!”

Sean pointed at Jon’s chest as he threatened.

In the dim incandescent light, two girls sat on the ground, snuggling up to each other.

One of them was Willow.

The other girl was her assistant.

Both girls were frightened, not daring to pass out.

Although Willow tried to play it cool, the flickers of panic in her eyes showed her nervousness.

There was food on the ground in front of them, but none dared to eat.

“President Quinn, will someone save us?”

The assistant’s voice sounded shaky.

“Yes, Sean will save us.”
