Chapter 1081

“Yes!”

Zander immediately answered in acknowledgment and started making phone calls to make arrangements.

Moments later, three black SUVs pulled out of the Leron Group parking lot

It was not long before about 20 more black MPVs followed them

MPVs were multi-purpose vehicles with a core seating capacity of seven to eight people, and each car was full of passengers.

Sean sat in the front passenger seat of the leading SUV, watching the blip on his phone still moving fast

“Speed up a bit ”

Even though Zander was already driving fast. Sean was still wanted

Quill sneaked out at this moment, and Sean knew what he was up to without giving it much thought

He must have wanted to hurt Willow

Sean could not wait a moment longer.

“Yes!”

Zander responded and stepped on the pedal. The car sped off like an arrow from a bow

‘Commander, should we inform Damian?’

Zander asked casually, driving the car at maximum speed

“No.”

Sean said, and Zander understood.

If the government intervened, they would be restricted in many things.

However, Sean did not want to involve the government. He would handle this in his way.

Besides that, he had no intention of closing the door.

He wanted to humiliate Willow in front of others.

It would not be interesting without an audience.

Listening to Quill's foul language, Willow gritted her teeth slightly and said no more.

"What's the matter? Why are you quiet?"

"Aren't you high and mighty?"

"Aren't you hard to pursue? Why are you so arrogant now?"

"Where's your dignity and pride? Where's your ego? Huh?"

Quill sneered as he slowly stepped toward Willow

He thought about stripping off Willow's clothes as soon as he saw her.

However, Quill was in no hurry after seeing Willow.

Now that Willow was in his hands, he could do whatever he wanted with her

He was more annoyed than ever when he thought of all the money and effort he had spent pursuing Willow for the past two years.

He was going to vent his anger tonight.

"Quill, I advise you not to be impulsive.

"We're all adults. You have to think about the consequences."

Willow gritted her teeth and said to Quill.

She could only play it cool, hoping to stop Quill.

They knew they had reached the right place.
Sean led the way, while Zander and Harry followed on both sides.
Behind them were nearly a hundred burly men in black.
These men were Flint's best. They were tough and discreet.

They had looked round in the short time they had been there.

They were confident as there were only two guards out here.

Another man was guarding drowsily outside the door.

“Spread out and surround the place.

“Don’t let anyone go.”

Sean gestured to Zander and said to the men behind him.

“Yes!”

The men answered and spread out in the darkness.

After seeing Sean’s gesture, Zander and Harry immediately joined the night.

Killing these people was not Sean’s intention.

Getting Willow out safe was all that mattered.

Once the crowd dispersed, Sean was all alone.

Without pausing, he went straight to the lighted room.

The cold voice sounded as if it came from the devil in h*ll.

Everyone in the room froze on the spot.

The bald and burly man slowly looked down at the young man lying on the ground.

The young man had been on guard outside the door.

His neck was already broken, and blood gushed from his mouth. He lay on the ground with his eyes opened.

He must have died in an instant.

The young man's body was still twitching on the ground.

By the looks of it, he was gone.

The sudden situation shocked everyone.

Quill, grabbing Willow's clothes, turned slowly to look at the doorway.

Willow's eyes widened as her heart rate raced.

She knew Sean had come to save her. It had to be Sean

She could recognize Sean's voice.

"Sean's here to save us. Don't be afraid..."

Willow took her assistant's hand and whispered in reassurance.

Thud!

Footsteps rang, and Sean stepped into the dark factory building.

He wore a dark and fitting casual outfit. He was not burly, but his gaze was terrifying.

The bald and burly man and the rest were stunned by the terrifying force.

They guessed that Sean might know martial arts.

It turned out they were right. Sean did know martial arts!

"Go on. Curse harder, I will have my way with her harder. Haha!"

Quill did not even turn her head. All he could see was Willow.

The desire in his heart rose.

The next second, Quill swooped in, grabbed Willow by the shoulder, and yanked

Rip!

As Willow struggled, her clothes ripped open, exposing half her shoulder

Seeing Willow's shoulder made Quill even more excited. He rushed over like a fly that had smelled something delicious.

Quill shouted to the crowd behind him before pouncing

Quill looked fierce, his speech full of grievance.

“Let Willow go, and everything will be fine.

“I can give you whatever you want too.

“If three hundred million dollars isn’t enough, I’ll give you a billion or even two billion.”

Sean could only compromise with Quill.

However, the more Sean showed concern about Willow, the smugger Quill got.

He had been fighting Sean for so long. Sean had overpowered him every time.

Now that he finally got Sean’s weakness, how could he pass up the great opportunity to get revenge?

“I didn’t know you had such a face, cripple Lennon.

“What about all the punches you threw at me and the threats you used to make against the Zimmer family?

“And what about the way you stole Zimmer Corporation? Huh?

“Hahaha!”

Quill laughed manically, and his heart was full of pride.

At this point, he even wanted to go up to Sean and slap him, to get revenge for being slapped by Sean.

However, he dared not do so.

He could only hold on to Willow as a hostage.

Once Willow was free, he knew Sean would kill him immediately.

Therefore, he would never go near Sean.

He would yell even if Sean took one step forward.

He kept a safe distance from Sean at all times.

“What are you looking at?
“Can’t you concentrate when you’re being beaten up?”
A young man punched Sean in the chest.
Sean tucked in his head slightly but looked up and stared at Quill’s feet.
Quill had pulled Willow out of the enclosed room.
However, the desired position was still a little far away.
Sean wanted Quill to step forward some more.
However, as if knowing Sean’s ideas, Quill stood at the door
“Come on! Take a good look! Look at this loser! Hahaha!

Quill took Willow by the hair and yanked it.

It was so painful that Willow had to lift her head and look in Sean's direction

Still standing, Sean was mobbed by the bald and burly man and the rest.

Sean could have taken care of them easily.

However, since Quill had Willow hostage, Sean could only hold it all in.

"Sean, I don't know how a loser like you managed to beat us. Huh?"

"How did a worthless loser like you beat us?"

Once he got the knife, he could put it on Willow's neck.
If Sean moved the slightest bit, Quill could cut Willow's neck in one go.
He did not believe that Sean did not care about Willow.
The more Quill thought about it, the more sure of himself he was.
After approaching the steel knife, he slowly bent down to pick it up.
However, his eyes were always on Sean.
Sean stood in the room as Bill and the rest guarded outside the door.
Quill felt fine as long as he was facing in Sean's direction
Swoosh!
Just then, a cold wind blew from outside the window and hit Quill
Quill shuddered and glanced at the window but soon withdrew his gaze
Quill slowly squatted, holding Willow's body and reaching for the steel knife
"Quill, you're going to die."
Sean said suddenly.
"You're the one going to die!"

“Now, get on your knees at once.

“I’m going to show you how I have my way with your woman. Hahaha!”

Quill laughed.

Just as Quill had grasped the knife and relaxed slightly, Sean shouted suddenly.

Even if Quill did not grab Willow today, they would have attacked anyway.

Sean nodded gently and walked straight to Quill without saying anything.

‘Did I lose?’

Sean asked indifferently, looking condescendingly at Quill.

“You loser! You’re a loser! You will always be a loser!

“Try laying a hand on me. You’ll regret it!”

Quill’s eyes were red as he shouted like a madman.

Sean had lost interest in talking to him.

“Which hand did you hit Willow with?”

Sean asked in a whisper as he folded his cuffs.

“Commander, he doesn’t deserve having you hit him yourself.”

Zander lowered his voice and said to Sean.

“No, I want to do it myself.”

Sean shook his head and folded his other cuff.

Zander was silent for two seconds before handing the knife to Sean.

“Which hand hit her?”

Sean asked again, knife in hand.

“F*cking hit me! You loser!”

Quill was still swearing at Sean.

“If you can’t tell me which one, I’ll take it that you used both hands.”

As soon as Sean spoke, Harry pulled Quill’s right hand and pinned it to the ground,

“What the f*ck are you doing? Sean, let me go if you have the balls!

“Are you a man? Let go of me!”

Quill finally began to panic, struggling and shouting.

“Let him go.”

Sean nodded and said to Zander and Harry.

“Yes.”
