Chapter 1181

“Yes.”

Sean nodded gently.

According to his plan, Jason had told Blaze about Sean’s presence in River City.

Sean speculated that Blaze would not trust Jason with something as important as this.

Blaze would send his confidant to go after Sean.

Now was not the best time to confront Blaze head-on.

Besides, he had planned to leave River City even if Blaze had not tracked him Down.

Therefore, Sean thought of leaving River City quietly before Blaze’s men arrived.

That way, he could keep Blaze’s focus on River City. He would then have time to work on his plans.

“Then spend the day with me.

Blaze did not hide anything from the two middle-aged men.

They were his confidants, who he could trust wholeheartedly.

They were also involved when he went after Sean back then. One could say that they were in the same boat.

“Commander Lake, Jason spends a lot of time in the army and doesn’t know much about River City.

“According to his investigation, Sean seems to have regained his sanity.

“He’s still investigating whether his physical disability has recovered.”

A middle-aged man reported in a whisper.

“There is no cure for that medicine.

“There’s no way he can recover.”

Blaze put the photo down, his eyes brimming with confidence. He drugged Sean with a poison native to the Northwest.

It could affect the human central nervous system and cause irreparable damage. Even Hippocrates would be helpless.

Therefore, Blaze believed Sean would be crippled for life even if he had regained consciousness.

The living room was quiet.

Old Madam Quinn and the Quinn family lowered their heads and apologized.

Willow froze still like a statue.

Sean was on one side, quietly drinking a cup of coffee with no intention of interfering.

He knew Old Madam Quinn and the rest’s apologies stemmed from his success.

However, he still thought it had nothing to do with him.

The way they behaved with Sean did not bother him.

However, they needed to atone for Willow’s problems.

Whoever started the trouble should end it.

Members of the Quinn family caused Willow’s trauma.

So members of the Quinn family should fix it, of course.

“Willow, will you forgive us?”

Old Madam Quinn asked Willow, looking up slowly after a pause.

Samuel, Fion, and the others only kept their heads down. Old Madam Quinn's attitude and words represented them.

"Grandma, I..."

Willow had always been soft-hearted, and she was currently facing the Quinn family.

Therefore, Willow wanted to forgive them immediately after they apologized.

Chapter 1184

No matter how much she hated them, there was no way she would ask Old Madam Quinn to bow to her and apologize!

After all, this was her grandmother and her father's mother. Her seniority was leagues above her. How could she do that to her?

Old Madam Quinn did not bow in the end, but she still looked at Sean.

"Old Madam, you've only been fooled by scumbags. I don't blame you."

Sean was silent for two seconds before his expression softened.

"Okay! Okay!"

Old Madam Quinn let out a long sigh of relief. It was the end of the matter if Sean said so.

Old Madam Quinn was overjoyed that Sean and Willow could forgive them.

After all, Sean was now the richest man in River City.

No other rich son-in-law could compare to Sean.

The Quinn family knew they should cling on to Sean if they were not stupid.

"Sean, I... I'm sorry. Don't take it personally."

Fion got up and apologized alone as she looked at Sean.

Only then did the crowd come to themselves and hurriedly apologized to Sean.

After all, Willow was not the only one they had hurt in the last two years.

They were even mean to Sean, humiliating him on purpose.

“Grandma, let me see you off.”

Willow got up to see Old Madam Quinn and the rest off.

“Okay.”

Old Madam Quinn nodded with a smile before bidding goodbye to Sean and heading out the door.

As soon as they left, Sean got a call from Jason.

The call came through, and Jason immediately gave Sean an update on the situation.

“Mr. Lennon, I’ve sent the photo per your directions.”

“Okay.”

Sean nodded.

“You were right.

“They asked me to stay out of it.

“I suppose he’s sending someone to look into you instead.” Jason said again after a pause.

“Got it.”

Sean nodded again. He knew Blaze’s character.

Blaze was paranoid and shrewd, so he would not let Jason take charge of such an important matter. He could only be assured if his confidants took care of it.

“Mr. Lennon, what do you have in mind?

“Or is there anything I need to do?”

Jason pondered for two seconds before asking again.

“I’m leaving River City tomorrow if everything goes well.

“Keep an eye on things while I’m gone.”

Sean was trying to distract Blaze in this way.

However, he was no longer on his own now that he had someone he cared about in River City.

Therefore, he was worried about Willow’s safety.

However, he could not take Willow with him, so he had to make whatever arrangements he could.

“Don’t worry, Mr. Lennon.

Reach For Will Group’s office.

Sean, Zander, and Harry were the only people in it.

They had some preparations to make since they were leaving tomorrow.

Click! Click!

Sean sat behind his desk, tapping away at the keyboard.

Sean had gone over Reach For Will Group’s current financial statements and the information of each company it owned.

He wanted to do everything he could to ensure nothing went wrong while he was gone.

Therefore, he would find a way to deal with any potential problem.

All the while, Zander and Harry had been waiting silently.

Harry stared at Sean for a moment and could not help feeling emotional.

He remembered the night Zander had just arrived in River City with him.

They did not meet Sean then but only observed him secretly.

Harry admitted that Sean had looked very different from what he had expected.

He had heard a lot from Zander about Sean’s achievements.

He had never lost a battle and was invincible. He alone could intimidate their enemies and protect the peace.

Harry thought Sean was a god until he met him.

Chapter 1187

After all, Zander was also a commander in the army, not a nobody.

It was not going to be easy for Blaze to kill Zander.

They needed a good reason if they wanted to arrest Zander.

However, what about Sean?

Sean was only a nobody now.

Maybe no one even remembered the name.

It would have been easy if Blaze had wanted to kill Sean secretly.

Therefore, Sean did not have to worry about Harry's safety even if he stayed in River City.

Besides, Sean had told Harry not to confront Blaze's men.

In this case, Harry's safety was more assured.

Harry could also take care of Sean's business while he was gone.

“What's the problem?”

Sean asked, looking at Harry after he finished watching.

“Nothing.”

Harry shook his head.

He did not know much about business.

Therefore, he only needed to follow Sean's instructions.

“Okay! Then that's that.

“Really?”

Sean was a little surprised.

He had one hundred thousand in his personal guard in the Northwest Army back then.

They took orders from no one but Sean.

Zander was their leader.

However, Sean had no idea that so many of those people were from Joules Town.

“Yes, Commander.

“As you know, a great event took place in Joules Town.

“So the men in Joules Town have a deep hatred of invaders.

“Many young men enlisted in the army immediately as soon as they came of age.”

Zander nodded and explained with a smile.

“In that case, this is fate.”

Sean smiled and nodded at that.

“Fate? What fate?”

Zander was a little confused.

“I’m from Joules Town.”

Sean was silent for two seconds but told the truth anyway.

“What?”

Zander was stunned. It was the first time he had heard of it.

“No way. How is that possible? How can you also be from Joules Town?”

“What a coincidence.”

Zander thought it was too much of a coincidence.

Chapter 1189

Over the past two years, Willow had taken good care of Sean without a complaint.

She never asked Sean for anything.

All she wanted was for Sean to get better as soon as possible.

Then she made her only request in the past two years.

She wanted Sean to marry her.

No strings attached, just a simple desire to marry Sean.

She wanted to take Sean's last name.

Her eyes were determined, and she was sincere.

Sean was touched.

He should have said yes but hesitated.

It was not that he did not want to marry Willow; it was just that he was in no position to make promises.

Sean could not predict how the fight with Blaze would play out.

Perhaps he would eventually lose to Blaze and even lose his life.

Therefore, he dared not make promises easily.

He was scared of giving Willow hope and then letting her down.

Even if he was confident of beating Blaze, he dared not promise Willow anything.

Therefore, the rarely indecisive man was now in a dilemma.

Sean did not do anything to Willow.

It was not that he was not interested in Willow. He just wanted to settle everything first.

Then he would treat Willow right without any worries.

He could also take all of Willow without a second thought.

Sean gently pulled his arm out.

Willow had laid out Sean's clothes for him beside the closet. They were neatly stacked together.

Beside it lay a symbol of status—the Guardian Sword and the set of silver needles.

Sean moved quickly and put on his clothes without making any noise.

“Wait for me.”

Sean walked over to the bedside, slowly crouched down, and gently kissed Willow on the corner of her mouth.

Willow stayed asleep all the time. She looked innocent.

Sean reached out his hand again and gently pushed Willow's tangled hair away from her forehead. He only watched silently.

After nearly a minute, Sean slowly got up and walked out the door.

Thud!

Sean left the room with a thud of the door closing.
