Chapter 1311

“A billion dollars?”

Jeffrey’s eyes suddenly widened as he exclaimed.

A billion dollars was just too big of an amount for him.

However, Jeffrey quickly came to himself after being surprised for only a few seconds.

After all, he had been with Sean for years.

Money meant nothing to a nine–star commander.

Sean said he could come up with ten billion dollars, and Jeffrey believed it.

“Commander, is a billion dollars enough?”

Zander pondered for two seconds before asking quietly.

He had set up a company with Ray’s help in these two days. He knew more about Joules Town than Sean

Sean shook his head slightly. He had the land in the bag.

However, the room was now empty.

None of the supplies Sean sent were left. Not even a bed.

“Well...”

May gritted her teeth slightly as if she had something to say.

“Aunt May, what are you not telling me?”

Caitlyn was aggrieved as she spoke.

When she took the children to breakfast this morning, she was going to bring out the milk and give each child a bottle.

However, she opened the door to find it empty with all the supplies gone.

When she asked May, May stammered and did not say anything.

It made Caitlyn uncomfortable.

“Madam Randall, you didn’t secretly sell these things, did you?”

One of the caretakers asked, frowning.

Sean became more puzzled and slowly turned to look at May.
May’s face was full of struggle, shame, and grievance.
Sean could tell May must have something she had trouble telling.
The two caretakers probably suspected May of misappropriating the goods.
“I thought something bad happened.

Sean stepped forward slowly and helped May fix her washed-out clothes.

The action made May feel at ease instantly.

“What?”

The two caretakers froze at Sean’s comment.

Even May looked up at Sean in shock.

She had expected Sean to question her about the supplies as the two caretakers did.

“said, so what if it’s gone?”

Besides that, he sensibly called Albert on the phone.

“Hello, who is it?”

Albert’s languid voice soon came over the line.

“Seanie, don’t...”

May grabbed Sean’s arm and shook her head gently.

She did not want Sean to go against Albert and get involved with the orphanage’s trouble.

However, Sean only gave May a look of determination and held his phone to his ear.

“I’m Sean Lennon.”

Sean exposed his identity on the phone.

“Yo, it’s you.

“Why are you calling me?”

Albert sounded dismissive.

However, Sean could hear a hint of tension in his voice.

‘Albert doesn’t deserve to be my brother’s brother!

“He’s no match for my brother!”

Caitlyn gritted her teeth. In her opinion, Albert was not even a match for Sean’s hair.

Sean looked at May, angry and frustrated,

Albert was selfish and of the worst character.

Sean did not know why May even considered her relationship with Albert. It was stupid.

However, on second thought, May watched Albert grow up after all.

She considered Albert her own child.

Parents all over the world could not turn their backs on their children even if they killed someone.

Parents love for their children was unconditional. It was love without any return.

Therefore, he could understand May's feelings.

"Aunt May, do you know what is the greatest difference between man and animals?"

"Animals will always be animals, and some people are worse than animals.

"Albert isn't worth it."

Sean looked at May, his tone meaningful.

May was silent for a long time after hearing Sean's speech.

Caitlyn had told her a lot of the same things.

However, she refused to listen when Caitlyn spoke.

Instead, she was willing to listen to the same thing from Sean.

"Aunt May, Brother is right. You must stop indulging Albert like this!

"He'll destroy our orphanage!"

Caitlyn also supported Sean.

This time, May fell into deep silence.

"What am I supposed to do then?"

May looked up again after a long pause.

"You don't have to do anything.

"Leave everything to me."

Sean said and waited silently.

“So you made me snub them for you.”

Sean slowly withdrew his hand, his tone calm.

It was as if dealing with Albert and his friends were as simple as eating and drinking.

Everyone else froze instantly.

May and the rest knew that Sean was an ex-soldier.

However, they did not expect Sean to be so good.

Four young men struck together, but they could not even get close to Sean.

Five men, including Albert, were taken care of with five slaps from Sean.

Were ex-soldiers such good fighters?

“Tell me.

“Did you take the things?”

Sean asked, turning slowly to look at Albert.

“So what if I took it?”

Albert glared at May before replying coldly.

“Aunt May, look at him. He slapped me!”

Albert’s eyes moved before pointing to his bleeding mouth and playing the family card on May.

May was already feeling sorry.

She thought of Albert as her own child. No matter how much he had done wrong, she could not bear to see him get slapped!

Therefore, May was pained to see Zander knock out two of Albert's teeth with one punch.

She was even a little mad with Zander.

However, Caitlyn kept pulling at her, preventing her from interfering.

"Seanie..."

May could not help but speak in the end.

"You treat him as your own child. Does he treat you as his parent?"

A rhetorical question from Sean left May speechless.

"Don't worry about it, Aunt May. My brother will take care of it."

Caitlyn persuaded again from the side.

"Oh!"

“That’s because you have no money for me. Also, why did you disagree when I asked Catie to work with Sophie?”

Instead of apologizing, Albert blamed May for not giving him a better life.

“Is that even a proper job?”

“How can I possibly let Catie earn money without conscience?”

May spoke louder as she felt aggrieved.

“Don’t blame me for taking the things then.

“I made a deal with them that a virg...”

Albert immediately shut up and looked at Sean.

He dared to say some things in front of May but not Sean!

Sean understood what Albert meant.

He wanted to send Caitlyn to the rich in exchange for a huge reward.

There were usually not many customers in such a high-end place.

However, people were coming and going today, and the parking lot was full of luxury cars.

The
reason was there was an auction led by the Joules Town government and jointly held by Joules Town's top real estate companies.

This time, the elites of Joules Town's real estate industry were not the only ones invited.

Many business elites outside the real estate industry were also invited, so Warren Hotel was busy today.

A hall that could accommodate up to 500 people on the top floor of the hotel.

It was already full and lively.

The auction had been going on for half an hour.

Besides that, a few lots had been sold earlier.

Jeffrey sat in the corner and could not help worrying.

Sean had arranged for Ray to meet up with him, and he sent him here first.

He did not know what Sean was handling.

“The initial bidding price for Camp Port City’s township site is tentatively set at 100 million dollars.

“Every markup can’t be less than 10 million dollars. The auction starts now!”

The atmosphere was hyped up as soon as the beautiful woman in a gown finished speaking.

“200 million dollars!”

“260 million dollars!”

“300 million dollars!”

The venue was filled with the yelling of increasing bidding prices.

Otherwise, today’s auction would not have brought together the elites of Joules Town’s real estate industry.

The bidding amount of hundreds of millions of dollars seemed nothing to them.

In less than a minute, the price went up to 450 million dollars!

Many people understood it was not the ultimate price.

Because even at today’s market price, the land was worth much more than that.

However, as prices continued to soar, some real estate company owners put down their bidding paddles

No matter how good things were, you must have enough money to pay for them.

Every time the bidding price went up a notch, the bidding lessened.

By the time they hit 600 million dollars, there were less than 10 bidders left.

“800 million!”

Just then, Weston raised the bidding paddle with his uninjured arm.

Swoosh!

All eyes looked over.

“Billion Trees Real Estate?”

“They’re bidding too. I guess we don’t have a chance!”

Once the crowd saw that it was Jimmy, several people gave up on the spot.

Billion Trees Real Estate was not exactly the best in Joules Town’s real estate industry.

However, their wealth could not be underestimated.

Top real estate companies would not go after the land at all.
