Chapter 1451

Many people found Sean's move crazy, ridiculous, and naive.

When developers handled unit owners' issues, they did it separately.

After all, one person was easier to handle than a group.

It was what Billion Trees Real Estate used to do, so the other developers did so too.

However, Sean did the opposite.

Instead of handling them separately, he gathered everyone together.

Could he stand it?

Many billionaires and various company owners were gently swirling their wine, waiting for Sean to make at fool of himself.

Johnson and the rest of the Joules Town government were also slightly uneasy.

The scene was now chaotic.

Thousands of people clamored together, drowning out Sean's voice.

However, Sean remained calm and stood in place.

There was so much noise around him, but it seemed to not affect him.

Whoosh!

Suddenly, a mineral water bottle was thrown at Sean.

Smack!

However, Sean caught it accurately the next moment.

Sean then gently put the water bottle nearby.

"Get him!"

The next second, several bottles of mineral water fled toward Sean again.

However, Sean remained unfazed and grabbed the water bottles as if performing magic.

Then he put them down gently.

"What the heck..."

The crowd was a little dumbfounded to see this.

The crowd glanced at each other, not in a hurry to speak.

However, they could not help but wonder.

After all, it was pointless to continue making a scene.

They would be pleased if Sean delivered his promise, finished construction in a month, and delivered their units in two months!

However, they did not believe Sean could do it.

"Is what you say true?"

"If you can do that, we'll put an end to it, of course.

"But what if you can't?"

A unit owner in their fifties asked with a frown as they looked at Sean.

"I can do it if I said I can.

"I only wanna know if you believe me!

"If you tell me you don't believe me, I'll leave now. We don't need to waste each other's time.

"If you believe me, let's keep on talking."

Sean said indifferently, looking at the crowd with his hands behind his back.

"You!"

Everyone was more dumbfounded when they heard Sean.

Everyone knew the chairman of Billion Trees Real Estate, Jimmy had been thrown into prison.

Billion Trees Real Estate could be said to be leaderless now.

Sean was the only person to stand out and explain to the public these past few days.

If they said they did not believe it, and Sean left in a fit of anger, would no one bother with Billion Trees Real Estate?

Would their unit delivery date not be delayed further?

After the crowd thought it through, they were more scared of saying that they did not believe him.

Zander walked slowly forward and explained to the crowd.

"What the h*ll? Really?"

"Oh my. Extra two months' pay? So I'll make ten thousand dollars for nothing?

"No way. Is this businessman here to do charity?"

Everyone was momentarily stunned.

The unit owners were also confused.

Many businessmen delayed their wages, and the employees were happy if they could pay the full amount.

Sean was not only paying the full amount but also paying an extra two months' wages.

Well... Was this a joke?

"Of course, I'm giving you this compensation in hopes that you will continue to work here.

"You built the buildings. You know the projects well and are used to them.

"But I'll pay you whether you're going to continue working here or not."

Sean looked at the crowd and said again.

Clap, clap, clap!

Clap!

Clap, clap!

All of a sudden, the contractors led the migrant workers behind them to clap their hands.

Even many onlookers could not help applauding Sean's generosity.

"That... That's it?"

In a luxury car on the far side of the road, a middle-aged man said with wide eyes.

Whenever it was, cash had a bigger impact than anything else.

You could afford top luxury cars, luxury villas, and luxury brands as long as you had enough money.

Actual cash notes had more impact than bank balances.

Being a multimillionaire did not sound like much at first.

However, how much space would ten million dollars in cash take up?

Nothing could match the visual impact of cold hard cash.

A truckload of cash was sent over after Sean ordered.

Who would not be shocked?

"Gosh. Oh, gosh!"

"Money. There's so much money. I've never seen so much money..."

"There must be millions of dollars here."

"Millions? Are you kidding me? It's at least tens of millions of dollars!"

Countless migrant workers discussed in awe.

Some of these people were in their 40s and 50s-middle-aged people who had lived half their lives.

However, they had never seen so much money all at once.

Bundles of ten thousand cash notes per stack laid neatly in the truck.

Even from this distance, everyone seemed to be able to smell the unique smell of cash.

Though money stunk, countless people flocked to it.

The saying that the wages of avarice were death was not groundless.

It was why security was so beefed up now.

In the past, many people would have rushed up to grab it!

Was it not more convenient than robbing a truck full of cash?

Ryan hesitated for two seconds but eventually nodded.

He had other things on his mind.

Although the unpaid wages should be paid in full, he wanted to keep some of the extra two months' pay for himself.

What Sean did ruined his plan.

However, he dared not refuse, so he could only pay the workers on the spot

“Pay all workers on the spot.

“If there's any problem, I'll take care of it.”

Sean said indifferently, looking at the crowd.

Clap, clap, clap!

Another round of applause broke out

Sean did things in a way that no one could find fault with him.

The contractors were a little upset at first.

However, they were satisfied once they recalled that they got paid.

“Next, Mr. Gordon.

The company employees and Zander worked together to pay the other workers.

“What do you think?”

“Mr. Lennon is unlike Jimmy!”

“I think we can trust him. This young man isn’t as simple as he seems.”

The unit owners decided after discussing.

It would be great for the unit owners if Sean did what he promised to do!

Therefore, the crowd applauded after a short pause.

Some of the onlookers grew jealous of the unit owners.

Some even wanted to purchase a unit right away.

“Mr Lennon, we’ll collect our units in a month.”

Jeffrey stepped forward and shouted to Sean.

“You can smash the Lennon Real Estate building if you can’t get the keys in a month.”

Sean pointed at the building behind, sounding confident.

It was up to the other property companies to decide what they wanted to do.

The company conference room.

Sean sat in the main seat while Zander stood behind him.

On the left and right of the conference table sat dozens of the former Billion Trees Real Estate's employees.

Besides those quitting voluntarily, there were some that Zander had fired.

All that was left in Billion Trees Real Estate was these guys.

Sean kept them around because no one could replace them.

After all, they were longtime employees of Billion Trees Real Estate and were familiar with the company's affairs.

If they were replaced willy-nilly, it would be much harder for the company to get back up and running.

It was because even the most capable people would be confused in an unfamiliar place.

It was why companies asked the resigned employee to hand over their jobs to the new employee before letting them go.

Therefore, he could not replace those in front of him.

“Mr. Lennon, well... well...”

Dozens of employees were at a loss for words.

The bosses they had had in the past, including Jimmy, had been fond of making empty promises to their employees.

All they talked about was the vast potential for future development and promoting them to senior executives in the future.

Eventually, they did not see any future prospects nor made any money,

Sean was rather straightforward at this point.

He talked about money and not useless stuff.

“What’s the matter? Don’t you get what I mean?”

Sean asked indifferently, picking up his coffee cup. 21

“Mr. Lennon, we’d like to hear what you have in mind first...”

A young man in glasses said warily after a gentle cough.

“It means I don’t need you to talk about your ideals and ambitions if you work for me.

“Do what I want to do well, and I’ll give you the money you want. That’s all you need to do.”

Everyone felt better as soon as Sean said that.

Everyone worked to make money to support the family.

These people were workplace veterans to be senior executives.

Perhaps workplace rookies would believe the empty promises the businessmen made, but workplace veterans like them would not believe them.

They thought that with Sean newly in charge, he would give them a good kicking.

Or he would fire some people on the spot to intimidate others.

As the saying went, generous rewards roused one to step forward. The saying was universal at all times.

These employees were out there to make money. Sean's payment satisfied them. How could they not work hard?

These expenses were nothing to Sean.

Money was only a tool to him.

Anything you could solve with money was not a problem at all.

Sean would not hesitate when he could use money to motivate people to work hard.

"Get to work."

Sean waved his hand slightly to beckon the crowd to disperse.

“Yes!”

The crowd immediately nodded and left the meeting room.

Today’s meeting was the first senior executive meeting held after Sean took over Billion Trees Real Estate.

Sean did not say a single inspiring word during the meeting.

There was also no talk of ambition or future plans.

However, the senior executives were motivated when walking out of the room.

With all employees having such a working attitude, did they have to worry about the company’s development?

The turmoil of the past few days over Billion Trees Real Estate had finally ended.

Sean handled things beautifully and swiftly.

No one expected it.

You could predict Lennon Real Estate would grow stronger after acquiring Billion Trees!

With Zane and Johnson's help, Lennon Real Estate was poised to peak in Joules Town's real estate industry.

Even the summit of Joules Town's business circle was within reach.

The entire Joules Town business circle would also be greatly affected by Lennon Real Estate.

In particular, those real estate companies were now a little restless.

If Sean were only a normal young man, it would not have bothered them.

However, they understood how powerful Sean was.
