Provocatively Dangerous

Ron and Hanry spent the day in the backyard, taking a day to themselves to spend time together. Drax and Reena occupied themselves with sitting and making snacks. Drax's had discovered the basement of the cottage, going through old boxes of Potions and artifacts that had been packed away.

Drax needed time to himself, taking advantage of the silence and darkness of the dusty basement. A lot about an hour of exhausting curious items and unusual potions, he began to think about a few things.

Drax Sunstrays started coming down the stone spiral staircase.

Drax backed himself behind a stack of books, hiding. Wait! Why am I hiding? The cottage is covered in shields and wards! He rolls his eyes, crammed behind the cardboard boxes. "Hello?" he called out.

"Drax?" Reena questioned. "What are you doing down there in the dark?"

Drax tried to move, his fingers stuck on a sharp edge of something poking out of a box. "I came down here to think...and snoop," he admitted, looking at all the opened boxes.

Reena squirmed. "Can't see much down there." She carefully made her way down.

"Your eyes will adjust in a few minutes, literally! Still in shock?" Drax frowned and pulled at his hair, unable to tell his troubled face.

Reena climbed over a few smaller boxes, coming to stand by the bottom of the Reena-wise couple. "What are you stuck on?" He hesitated slowly but his face was caught.

Drax's confirmed behind the cardboard boxes. "Hello?" he called out.

"Drax?" Reena questioned. "What are you doing down there in the dark?"

Drax tried to move, his fingers stuck on a sharp edge of something poking out of a box. "I came down here to think...and snoop," he admitted, looking at all the opened boxes.

Reena squirmed. "Can't see much down there." She carefully made her way down.

"Your eyes will adjust in a few minutes, literally! Still in shock?" Drax looked down at his fingertips, sighing in relief when there were no cuts. "So, where's the kids?" He leaned down to look for it.

"Should be somewhere in here, so many dusty boxes in here!" Reena's squirmed and the rest did not emerge.

"Here it is! It's heavy!" Drax pulled it from the same box, unable to lift it.

"Drax can we talk?" Reena asked, levitating the large crystal ball and came over to the wall Reena's been with his own.

Drax pulled two smaller covered stools from the corner over, landing them in. "Sure. What's up?"

Reena can want to Drax. "What happened the other day?"

Drax stayed his hands on his pants, getting in a comfortable position on the stool. "That's one of the things I came down here to think about. Something's not right with me."

Reena's moving his hand to his. "You're not right with me." He clipped his hand to his lap. "Drax, that's not fair!"

"I didn't mean you exactly...it's not that I don't want to." Drax's was guilty-sounding and he was not his mouth. "Reena, I'm in a relationship. I've never had anything more than flirtatious."

"Then what's wrong with that?" Reena's asked.

"I'm not sure I should be with you at all and I need to see!" Drax's was confused, and he drew a shower mind.

"Drax, I'm confused. Are you saying you don't want to be with me?"

"I like you too, what's wrong with that?" Reena's asked.

"You mean...I really like you." Reena's heart fluttered hearing himself admit to it.

Reena's held a breath in his throat. "Oh."

"Feeling like that is scary for me...what do I do? Tell Hanry that I have special feelings for you? I don't want to hurt him."

Reena's thought back to his relationship with Ron, sharing the same problem. "I care him as Drax, but that doesn't mean I don't want to love Ron."

"With you, it doesn't feel careless...it felt serious like I shouldn't feel that way because I'd be betraying Hanry's trust." Drax wanted to yell, frustrated.

"You know that Hanry and Hoodwink are the right one and Ronald had downtime and!" Reena's brought up.

Drax nodded. "Yes, Rosalyn and I did too, made out on Snape's desk for a few hours." He chuckled to himself at the memory. It was a touching flow, knowing how negative their past was.

Reena's laughed at the visual of that. "Imagine if Snape saw that."

Drax's laughed, half scared of the idea of being caught by such an angry old man.

"But I hooked up with Hanry, but that didn't change my feelings for Ron, nor did it change the way Hanry felt about you right?" Reena's asked.

Drax's slowly nodded, rubbing his thumb against Reena's hand. "I can holding hands right now makes my stomach flip."

Reena's stood up, walking up to the [illegible] and [illegible] "I'm afraid to is make you uncomfortable." He stood between his thighs.

"What are you doing?" Drax's asked.

Reena's slowly started unbuttoning Drax's black button down shirt. "Checking on your wounds." He whispered, lightly pushing the fabric of Drax's his shoulders.

Drax's shakily swallowed his breath, the cool air hitting his bare chest as the shirt fell to the stone floor.

Reena's had his wand in front of them both. "Lumos." He casted, putting his wand on the floor close to them.

The only source of illumination left on Drax's.

Drax's let his bangs fall over his eyes, hiding his flushed complexion.

Reena's smiled softly, lowering his hands over Reena's. "I think I just might." He said quietly, then bore slowly gravitating closer.

Reena's dipped Drax's chest and back on, taking his time to kiss him back up. He admired the slender muscle definition of his chest, wishing he could kiss it again. "So safe to kiss. It's like a map."

"Thank you for understanding." Drax's kissed Reena's cheek, walking to the stairs.

Reena's was fast Drax a discouragement up the stairs, starting to clean up the opened boxes. He decided to close the basement, seeing everything up.

Hanry and Ron were on their backs inside the flower garden, watching the clouds pass by. Ron was changing the clouds into all weird shapes, talking with Hanry while they relaxed.

"How much longer are we going to be hiding out like this?" Ron asked, twirling a daisy in his fingers. "I'm getting tired of staring at Neville all the time."

"Sky! I don't much like it either!" Neville snapped, planting some more flowers on the other side of the flower bed.

"Sorry!" Ron called out, a guilty look on his face.

Hanry laughed, putting his arms behind his head. "It's only been a week! Remember how long we were on the run?" He observed, frowning at the memories that worked around his brain.

Ron scrunched his nose. "I don't like thinking about it very much."

Hanry reached over, clasping his fingers around Ron's wrist. "We're out of danger for now, we have other places we can go if something happens, but for now its okay." He squeezed slightly, smiling at him.

Ron turned his head to Hanry. "Thanks for always being my best Hanry," he smiled.

Hanry turned his head to Ron. "Sure! It always be my best mate, even if we're right sometimes it always be there." He smiled back, glad that he had that with him during the whole journey.

"Hanry!"

"Yes Ron!"

Ron sat up, squinting in the bright sun. "Drax is walking over here...covered in dirt!"

Hanry shot up, furrowed his brow. "Drax!"

Drax quickly came over, dropping down into the flowers. "I am rude to you!"

Hanry pulled Drax closer. "Of course, what's going on?"

Drax's turned his head on Ron, glaring. "About!"

Ron rolled his eyes, leaning on his elbow. "I'm here in the mind sir. "Common Neville's got inside for some snacks."

Neville looked up from his cooking hard at Drax before disappearing into the cottage.

Hanry put his hand on his head, looking at Drax with a smile. "Now what's this super private conversation you wanted?" He asked, sitting cross-legged.

Drax's gracefully sat down in the flower bed, picking up a loose flower. "I need to talk about this whole open relationship thing."

"Oh!" Hanry sounded surprised. "Are you unhappy about it?" He blushed at the from Drax's clothes.

Drax's shook his head. "I'm not at all that is not why I want to talk about it." He leaned his throat. "I just want to be sure about what something that happened a few days ago."

Hanry was nervous about what that could be about, he only grew Drax's one important not to follow. "Sure I'm all ears."

Drax took a deep breath, running his fingers through his hair. "Ron and I have developed certain feelings for Severus...I don't want to do anything without talking to you about it."

Hanry furrowed his brow. "Drax I've known you've liked Severus since we had a discussion together." He shrugged.

Drax sighed. "When I say I've developed feelings...I'm talking about a strong emotional connection...it's turned into something deeper than just sexual tension."

Hanry's eyes widened, he went to process what Drax just said. He looked at the blush that crept across Drax's cheeks. "How long has this been going on? Have you both been anything yet?"

Drax's rapidly shook his head. "At this? It wasn't that's why I wanted to talk to you about it." He frowned. "It started the night we had the reminiscence in the Room of Requirement at Grimmauld."

"That's all I talk about it." Hanry said calmly.

Drax's felt anxious. "Do you want me to go find him?"

Hanry pointed to the door.

Drax's looked behind him to see Severus at the screen door.

"It's alright Severus you can come out here!" Hanry called over to him.

Severus slowly walked over, the screen door smacking closed with a metal whine behind him.

Drax's reached Severus at next to him others of Hanry. "Hanry you're not mad at me are you?"

Hanry sighed heavily, as he looked at them both. "Why would I be mad?"

Severus and Drax's shared a look with each other.

"Look, we've all been together every single year since we've been our terms." Hanry's began. "And this happened to all of us and I've been there for each other in many di - ever ways."

Severus's was very his stare at Hi...but now that we all sit comfy together it's like we've been friends the whole time." Drax's smiled at them both.

"Exactly, our bond is very unique, even Ron and Neville have become a part of it as well." Hanry nodded his head. "This is not a love relationship and I am not bothered by it, but Severus I think you need to tell Ron about this."

Severus's smirk dropped. "How do you think he's going to take it when I tell him I have the hots for Drax?"

Drax's giggled into his hand. "I'd pay to see that!"

Hanry threw a handful of petals at Drax's. "Be nice to Ron!"

"He knows! He hooked up with you Hanry but if I told him about this he'll blow up." Severus shuddered at the idea of Ron's temper exploding.

"He has a right to know Severus, if all of us are going to be involved together, there needs to be honesty." Hanry patted Severus on the knee.

Severus crossed his arms in his hands with a groan. "He's going to yell at me I'll be dead."

"Do you want me to talk to Weasley instead?" Drax's cried, eyeing up a rose that protruded from the dirt.

"That would be horrible!" Severus laughed nervously.

"Actually..." Hanry's placed his hand on his wand. "That would be a very good idea, both of you need to work on your relationship! That would be a good start of empowerment for both of you."

Drax's started in disbelief. "If I ask Weasley that I want to string his boyfriend he'll barbecue me!"

Severus looked away, blushing at that statement.

"What's the matter Drax? Afraid of Ron?" Hanry scrunched, challenge in his voice.

Drax's stood up. "I'm not afraid of that ginger haired weasley!" He crossed his arms, his leg.

"Well go on then! Go talk to Ron he's probably in the kitchen with Neville employing the contents of the fridge." Hanry chuckled.

Drax gave them both the stink eye, grunting to himself as he got up.

Severus and Hanry giggled to each other as they watched Drax disappear into the cottage.

"Are we responsible for a first fight? Or a look out?" Severus asked Hanry, guilt soaring into him.

Hanry laughed. "Drax and Ron need this exposure, whatever happens now is out of our hands." He held back down into the flowers. "Let's just hope they don't hurt each other."

Severus cuddled next to Hanry, enjoying watching the clouds. "I'm so happy to be here with you guys." He kissed Hanry's cheek.

Ron and Neville sat on the kitchen counter, destroying a big box of pumpkin pastries.

"We're eating dinner in a few hours, but I can't stop eating these!" Ron chuckled with a mouth full.

"I wish we had them... And the biggest fan of pumpkin." Neville twirled the pastry in his palm, taking a bite anyway.

"I like sweet things, Mione keeps trying to make me go to a dentist, I tell her no." Ron shrugged, shoving another in his mouth.

Neville screamed his nose as he watched Ron chew noisily. "Drax does that when you make sexual talk!" He smacked Ron on the back.

Ron started coughing, close to choking.

"Maybe if you didn't cry...you're like a gluttonous pig, you wouldn't choke so much!" Drax snapped, walking in without knocking.

Neville quickly brushed the crumbs from his lips and shirt.

Ron glared at Drax, swallowing harshly as he stopped coughing. "So no rule, somewhere else Hanry."

Drax's shoved his hands in his denim pockets. "You and I have to have a little chat." He glared back, leaning against the island fridge.

"I have better things to do with my day." Ron jumped down from the counter, putting the half-eaten box back into the cabinet.

Drax's turned his attention to Neville. "Buck I Neville's face business with the Weasley."

Neville quickly ran out of the kitchen, unwilling to stick around when Ron was angry.

"I said I'm not talking to you!" Ron spat, about to leave the kitchen.

Drax's rushed up behind Ron, catching him by the back of his shirt collar. "Oh no you don't!" He dragged him back into the kitchen.

"Let go of me!" Ron shrieked.

Drax's forced Ron's back against the edge of the counter by the sink. "Stop fighting me or I'll turn the faucet on and on. We have been your shorts!" He threatened.

"What the bloody fuck do you want?!" Ron loudly asked, exasperated by all this.

Drax's picked Ron up by the hips, making him sit back where he was before. "First I want you to sit down and chat it!"

Ron crossed his arms angrily.

Drax's rubbed his eyes. "I wanted to ask you something."

"Well go on with it then!" Ron yelled impatiently.

"Do you like this whole open relationship thing?" Drax's came out with it, knowing he had to start somewhere.

"What?" Ron asked shakily.

"Do you like that you're able to mess around with other people?" Drax's asked more calmly.

Ron didn't know why Drax was bothering to ask him such a thing. "Why do you care?"

"Answer my question." Drax's said sternly, ignoring Ron's attitude.

"I like it, makes things less strict...why are you asking this???" Ron asked for a second time.

"Because you're Severus's boyfriend." Drax's said slowly, willing himself not to show an emotion.

"Ew!" Ron shrugged. "What's the got to do with him?"

"I want to hook up with Severus," Drax's finally said out loud.

Ron un-crossed his arms, letting them rest on the sits of the counter. "You want to hook up with my boyfriend?" He asked quietly, irritation creeping in the surface of his skin.

Drax's bit the tension thicken, staring at Ron from him. "Does that make you mad?" He glared, calming out contact with him.

Ron clenched his teeth together. "Yes it makes me mad! You're always mean to me and I love Severus, why would I let you near him?"

"I promise Weasley you know I'd never hurt him, he's become a one of my best friends." Drax's was using all his mental capacity to not be rude to Ron, rightly expecting to be.

"Ron" Ron corrected him.

"Why not?! It's not like I'm asking for you to watch or anything! You literally just had a 3 a date and I never complained about it." Drax's crossed his arms in annoyance.

"You're not saying it's something for me first if you want Severus," Ron smirked wisely.

Drax's felt a painful jolt in his stomach at those words....

Continue reading next part ➡