

Taken By My Alpha Chapter 10

Heather's POV

I woke up. Selene was still awake and was murmuring something in my mind when I changed back to my human form. But I did not have the time and energy to pay attention to what she was saying. I was still coming back to my senses.

And then I looked down, and freaked out.

I was laying on the back of a giant, black wolf!

The blush that rushed to my face could have burnt a hole through the wolf's fur if I had not shot up on my feet. I was butt naked. Damn it, where in the world were my clothes?!

I looked around, found nothing but a lake and trees and leaves all around. My face was burning in embarrassment and shame as his yellow eyes stared at me. I ran and grabbed the bark of a tree, hiding behind it even though it did a very lousy job at covering me.

The wind in the atmosphere sent chills down to my whole naked body, making goosebumps appear on my skin.

“Don't run. Wait right there.” I heard Alpha say through mindlink.

I lifted my lashes, still red in face, to stare at him sneakily and found him shifting back in his human form. His hard back was in my sight, his hair blew with the soft wind and then before my eyes could wander down, I gave a mental slap to my pervert brain and looked away quickly before he could catch me staring at him.

“Wear this.” a hand came into my sight with a black shirt bunched up in the palm.

I snatched it instantly. The hand went away, and with relief flooding my veins, I pulled the cloth over my head and pulled my arms through the holes. It fell to my knees. When I looked down at it, I recognized that this was the t-shirt Alpha was wearing during the trials.

His t-shirt had engulfed my small form entirely like a loose dress. I came out from behind the tree and found him standing under the moonlight staring at the lake silently. When he heard the sound of my footsteps, he turned to look at me. His smooth, hard abs were exposed to me while his bottom half was covered with a trouser.

ing shadows from the trees onto his smooth, tanned skin. The s my eyes slid down, I noticed that he had an erection.

at I could have swore he saw how much red I was and was still holding back his laughter.

a man like him, so gorgeous and handsome and

I was one second away from burying my face in the sand.

“How do you feel?” I heard him ask.

Like an ostrich ready to find its way in the ground?

I cleared my throat to appear confident, and indifferent, but when I spoke, my squeaky voice gave me away, “Good?”

God...

‘Tell him that my name is Selene.’ Suddenly I heard Selene speak to me.

I was shocked to hear her communicating with me. She stayed asleep and dormant all the time. This was the longest that she had been active in my mind. And well, at least it gave me a topic to get over this embarrassment, “M- my wolf wants to tell yours that her name is Selene.” I squealed out quickly.

He grinned at my words, a wide, happy smile spread across his lips.