

Technician's Manual - Chapter 7

Chapter 7 - Glass house friendship

There was a traffic accident on the road, and the tram had to stop for half an hour. When Sonia returned to school, it was already past 7 pm—according to the regulations, Jianhua University is prohibited from entering and exiting after 7 pm. If students come back late You have to register your name. If you eat one thorn more than three times, students who gather three thorns will be dropped out.

However, under Sonia's low explanation, the young doorman opened the door and let her in without registering her name. Noting the door guard's dirty eyes that seemed to penetrate the clothes, Sonia thanked her with a smile on her face, secretly contemptuous in her heart.

Really think that by guarding the gate of Jianhua University, you can get close to beautiful female students?

doesn't even know this, no wonder it's a doorman.

Reaping the benefits of beauty, Sonia knew this since she was a child, but it was not until she came to Galos that Sonia knew that beauty is so powerful—compared to that poor little village, the city's civilization People are willing to provide more convenience for beauty.

Every time at this time, Sonia would sincerely thank the Starry Lord. Thanks to this God Lord for allowing the Starry Nation to develop so civilized and prosperous, she has the opportunity to exist and squeeze into the upper-class society.

If it were placed in savage places such as the Blood Moon Kingdom, it is estimated that she had just grown a few beautiful embryos and some barbarians would * the spoils of war.

also thanked her mother. If her mother didn't let her study at home when she was a child, but worked in the fields, even if she was born beautiful, she would have to be abused by the wind and the sun to become a rough village girl.

Back to the girls' dormitory, Sonia was about to push the door in, when she heard Lois's voice: "It's already past 7 o'clock. That dog won't be back tonight, right? Huh, finally hiding I can't hold my tail, I guess it's hooked up with a wealthy businessman."

Yo, is it time to meet the classic plot of the glass house friendship, 'Behind the scenes'? Sonia stopped her movements and listened quietly to Lois' incompetent rage.

Adele pretended to persuade: "Stop talking about Lois, she might be back..."

"I'll be back when I come back, I still want to scold her shamelessly in her face!"

Loisi became more and more angry: "You didn't see her sorrowful look, and you were dazzling with others in class. A native dog from the country, besides a better-looking face, what else is so great?"

Hehe, it's great to look better than you.

Sonia sneered in her heart. In the bedroom, Lois was the least likely to deal with her. Lois was the son of a local merchant from Galles. She was self-reliant in her superior appearance. She usually poked and cursed her for her low birth in the bedroom. However, Sonia was better-looking than her. When the two showed up together, the boys who showed favor to Sonia were obviously an order of magnitude higher.

But in the first grade, everyone finally maintained peace. It was not until Sonia successfully suppressed Lois to grab the position of the host in an intramural event, which completely aroused Lois's hostility.

Lois is also not a good stubble. She has organized many entertainment activities in the Hydrology Department, and even paid her own money to invite her students to go to a high-end restaurant for dinner, but she just didn't bring Sonia to play with.

With such a display of financial resources, more people are pursuing Lois.

After all, people who want to take shortcuts are both men and women. Although Sonia is good-looking, if she marries Lois, this white and rich girl, she can fight for ten years less.

When it comes to money, Sonia can't win, of course, but she knows too much in disgusting ways.

Every time there is a boy who pursues Lois and Lois moves a little, Sonia will specially create an 'incidental encounter', 'accidentally' make a little physical contact with the boy, and give a few more eyes, which is enough to be fascinating. The other party was overwhelmed and even gave up Lois and turned her head to pursue Sonia.

Lois's temper was so explosive tonight, it was because Sonia 'incited' the last senior who pursued Lois yesterday.

To be honest, Sonia despised Lois's eyes, because the senior had a sense of superiority besides being good-looking, but she didn't mind throwing a few winks in order to disgust Lois.

Although Sonia will definitely reject other people's pursuits, is Lois willing to associate with "Sonia, the * that this dog doesn't want"? So it's no wonder that Lois was so angry.

“Speaking of it, I heard Disrie say that she saw Sonia go out of school and talk to a peasant woman at noon.” Adele suddenly remembered: “Could that peasant woman be her mother, right?”

“Heh, there is such a shameless daughter, it is estimated that her mother is also a shame—”

Clang!

Before Sonia couldn't help but push the door and go crazy, there was a loud noise from inside.

She realized something, and stepped back half a step, just as the bedroom door opened from the inside, and a blonde girl with a single ponytail carrying a sword bag appeared in front of her.

“Good evening, Sonia,” she said.

“Good evening, Ingulite,” Sonia said.

Ying Gullit left the dormitory without looking back, probably going to the training ground for night training. Inside, Adele and Lois sat stupidly, the panic on their faces still not receding.

On the training target bought by Ingulite in the bedroom, there was an extra dent that Sonia hadn't seen before. UU reading www.uukanshu.com

Sonia came in and closed the door, calming down in the bedroom.

Since Ingulite helped her teach them, Sonia would naturally not do it again, but she secretly remembered this account in her heart, and sooner or later she would let Lois return with the benefits.

After shopping for a day, Sonia was also tired, so she sat down and put down her schoolbag. The desktop of 2 is different from others. Although there are cosmetics and skin care products, it is neat and tidy.

Loisy has repeatedly insinuated that she would use low-end cosmetics that she hadn't even heard of a brand when she bought cosmetics, but Sonia has become more and more beautiful and whiter throughout the year, and Lois has gradually stopped scolding. I even bought a set against Sonia's skin care products.

But they didn't know that although the appearance of these bottles of Sonia skin care products were low-end mass goods, they had already been replaced with high-end products.

You get what you pay for, how can a merchant take advantage of it?

fools will paint their faces with those low-end goods.

Not only that, Sonia also spent money to go to the female surgeon's beauty center "Perfect Xinghui" to fine-tune her facial features.

Lois and the others thought that Sonia really relied on weight loss and skin care to get more and more beautiful, but they didn't know that Sonia almost smashed all her scholarships behind her back.

Sonia did not buy expensive skin care products directly after she had some spare money through part-time jobs and scholarships. After all, there is a big mouth like Lois in the bedroom.

Sonia is sure that if she buys high-end goods today, the news that she will become someone else's mistress will be spread to the entire water system.

The identity tag 'poor and studious beautiful student' is very comfortable for her, and she doesn't want to take it off easily.

In addition, Sonia's heart is inevitably full of malicious expectations: If Lois really ruined her face because she stupidly applied those low-grade skin care products, that would be great.

