

Technician's Manual - Chapter 9

Chapter 9 - make trouble

“what!”

With a scream, Ingulite held up the wooden sword, stepped forward, pouring his whole body strength into the sword body, and smashed it towards the armor statue in front of him with all his strength!

嚓!

With the sound of the armor image cracking, the wooden sword stayed on the edge of the ninth ring of the armor image.

Ingulite retracted the wooden sword to restore his alert posture, exhaled a white breath according to the breathing method taught by the school, and quickly regained his energy.

‘According to this progress, I should be able to summon Sword Slayer Spirit within this month.

“Ingulite thought.

As a university of technicians that has been passed down for hundreds of years, Jianhua University has already had various guiding skills for training technicians. The training armor statue in front of Ingulite is a prop specially used to let the swordsman apprentice get started.

The outer surface of the A statue is a wooden stake with a ten-ring logo at the core. The material is extremely hard. When the apprentice can cut into the core ten rings with one sword, it means that his swordsmanship is enough to summon his first swordsmanship spirit.

Generally speaking, there are three types of one-wing magic spirits that a swordsman can summon. They are 'slash sword', 'stab sword' and 'slash sword'. Ingulite, who was undergoing slash training, naturally wanted to summon a 'sword slashing spirit'.

Ingulite took a second or two to adjust his breath. At this time, the statue had recovered, as if Ingulite hadn't broken it at all.

This is the strength of the Jianhua University training ground-no matter how severe the damage is, all the armor statues in the training ground will recover quickly. As long as you still have energy, the armor statues will be ravaged by you. Anyway, the legs are weak and crawl out. The training ground is not a portrait.

Boom!

When Ingulite continued the slash training, he suddenly heard the gate of the training field being blasted open, and couldn't help but look at it slightly distracted. Although the apprentices in the training ground kept screaming and sweating, in fact, this is a very well-regulated place, and very few people dare to splash here.

Who would dare to mess around here, every minute, dozens of apprentice swordsmen who are holding a sword aura will come to you for 'intimate communication' between the flesh.

Ingulite also had a few entangled suitors last semester, but they never dared to talk to Ingulite in the training ground. After all, like this kind of behavior that interferes with training, as long as Ingulite frowns slightly, the energetic apprentices next to him will immediately jump out to uphold justice.

Hot-blooded, restrained, aggressive, full of male hormones, these are the labels of the training ground.

There is a famous joke in Jianhua University: “Some boys, at first, they practiced swords clearly to pursue girls, but later they become swordsmanship to compare swordsmanship with other boys. Maybe it’s not love that is lost to power. It’s that simple power is easier to pursue than complicated love, right?”

But tonight, the complex love took the initiative to step into the realm of power.

A touch of ruby luster came out at the door, the skin was dazzling white, the features were as delicate as the artist’s careful polishing, the waist gripped with a full, slender and straight legs.

A rose that should have appeared at the dinner party just bloomed abruptly on the training ground lined with swords.

But what caught the attention of the swordsman apprentices most was the training wooden sword she held in her right hand.

“Sonia?”

When Ingulite watched Sonia walk through half of the training ground and found an unused statue to start training with a wooden sword, he was full of doubts.

Although she has no dislike for Sonia, in her cognition, Sonia is the type of person who can never touch swordsmanship.

Unlike the elegant and elegant female swordsmen in the “fantasy epic” and “knight drama” staged in the light curtain, the female swordsman in reality must even exercise better than men in order to summon the magic spirits and master the spells. .

The hands are full of calluses because of the sword swing, and the muscles of the arms, feet and even the waist are strengthened because of the exercise. Actresses like those appearing in the light curtain, use beautiful little hands with no muscles to show gorgeous swordsmanship, which is absolutely non-existent in reality.

Even the swordsmanship spirit will never recognize a weak magician. The news that Shu Ling escaped by himself after the swordsman was old and weak, Ingulite had been tired of hearing the news since he was a child.

Although some people say that female swordsmen have a 'beauty of power', according to Ingulite's own observation, there are many more boys who pursue female hydrologists than those who pursue female swordsmen.

And she herself admitted that Sonia, Lois, and other exquisite hydrologists are better-looking and more refined than her own swordsman who looks like a rough man.

She is not dissatisfied with this. After all, Sonia and the others were also applying makeup and skin care when she was training. Everyone got what they were after.

That's why Ingulite was so surprised. After all, if Sonia was only training in swordsmanship now, wouldn't it be a waste of her previous achievements? Not only did it delay her learning progress in the Watercraft faction, but it also affected her face that she had been careful to maintain.

But when Ingulite noticed a handsome young man not far away from Sonia who was wiping sweat and was still wearing a full set of training clothes even in hot weather, he suddenly realized.

Felix Vosloda, a first-year student in the same class as them, a genius apprentice in the swordsmanship department.

Although Felix, like Ingulite, is still training to summon the first nascent magic spirit, it is different from Ingulite just for summoning the most basic 'sword slashing' magic spirit, Felix thought Summoned, but the secret magic spirit of their Vosroda family 'Wave Sword'.

The nascent magic spirit of each magician is very important and will even determine the future development direction of the magician. Therefore, families with conditions will find suitable cultivation methods as much as possible, so that the geniuses can summon the strongest and most suitable ones. Newborn Shu Ling.

Even if it is a small noble family in the countryside like Ingulite, the family also has a secret practice method, but it's not suitable for Ingulite.

The Wave Sword is undoubtedly stronger than the Slash Sword, and Felix's training intensity undoubtedly crushes Ingulite—Felix can be praised as a first-year swordsman genius because of his swordsmanship. Skills and training intensity far exceed those of his peers.

In the last semester of the swordsmanship department, Ingulite lost to Felix, but she was convinced. After all, the other party was not only more talented than herself, but also worked harder than herself. The name of a swordsman genius deserved it.

But compared to the skill of swordsmanship, it is the other side of Felix that makes girls talk about it more.

Even if Ingulite came from the country, she knew that the Vosloda family was the top noble of the Starry Council and one of the five pillars of the Starry Council.

The Duke of Vosloda, also known as the "Duke of the Stars", controls the most advanced steel factory in the Starry Nation. Its business scope covers civil and military use. The three circles of military, political and business have a decisive position and can be called the most powerful person in this country.

As the second son of the Duke, Felix should go to the University of Truth to study, but he didn't know why he came to Jianhua University. Many people secretly guessed whether he would not be favored by the Duke.

But even if Felix is not favored, he is also a direct child of Vosroda. No matter how bad he is, he is also a member of the top class. Naturally, many people want to use his promotion device to climb the class.

And Felix's social skills are as excellent as his sword skills. He changes a female partner almost every week, and the speed of changing women is faster than changing clothes.

The most frequent time, Ingulite even found that the five consecutive days to the training ground to find his female partner were different. It really made Ingulite both shameless and admired-how did this person still survive after high-intensity training? Energy for other things?

She can't wait to melt on the bed after training herself.

With high technology, good appearance, and many scandals, Felix is undoubtedly the focus of the training ground. If Sonia had a special purpose, then her only target could only be Felix.

But when their dormitory relationship was good, Lois, Adele, and Sonia all made it clear that they all kept away from Felix when they talked to the boys in the school.

After all, the romantic aristocratic young masters like Felix must end up with a political marriage arranged by the Duke of Vosroda. If they post any expectations with them, the result must be that they become insignificant members of the ex-girlfriend group.

Although Ingulite, who has fantasies about love in his heart, dislikes their naked utilitarianism, he also admits that their judgment is correct. In one year, no girlfriend of Felix can break through the tenure of more than one week.

Didn't Sonia come for Felix? But apart from Felix, no one else here can see her...

Just when Ingulite was thinking about it, Sonia had already started training with a sharp glance.

"Ha!" Following the breathing technique, Sonia slashed towards the armor image, but did not even pierce the skin of the armor image.

Ingulite observed for a while, and then shook her head again and again: Sonia's forehead was unstable, her deputy was weak, her feet were loose, her body was sluggish, and none of her movements were decent.

didn't even change the clothes into training clothes that are convenient for exercise, but also wore dazzling uniforms.

Even the sound of a big drink seems to be acting like a baby.

It's not so much she is here to train, it is better to attract attention.

No matter what her purpose is, it's not training anyway.

Ingullit stopped paying attention to her and continued her training. Swordsmanship training emphasizes the integration of mind and body skills, and concentration is the top priority. Each sword must infuse all the mind, how much force it uses, how much force it retains, the rotation of the shoulders, the swing of the wrist, the movement of the footsteps... When all the details are known, a chest can be regarded as a sword.

To be lazy is the most meaningless. Every effort made by the apprentice or wizard is not for others, but for themselves.

Only when an apprentice is able to evoke the resonance of the Void Realm, can I summon the Shu Ling out of thin air, so as to transcend reality, obtain a pass into the Void Realm, and become a true Void Wing Sorcerer.

According to Ingulite's current level, he should take a short break every three swords, and he should stop to relax his muscles every 30 swords. If you swipe 900 swords in two hours, you can complete a training session, and the fatigue value is accumulated enough to make She will fall asleep as soon as she touches the pillow when she goes back and takes a shower.

“what!”

“what!”

“what!”

A few minutes later, Ingullit could not contain the anger in her heart, and looked at Sonia dissatisfied—in just a few minutes, Ingullit heard Sonia almost swung dozens of swords, and in the middle Without any rest, it's just a mess.

It is natural for Ingulite to be angry, just like in a very difficult and serious examination room, suddenly a stubborn examinee got the paper and started to answer without even looking at it, and he wrote and said, “It's so easy.” ‘Just this’, it's not true that someone can't do it,' UU reading www.uukanshu.com.

Others at uukanshu.com will definitely think this candidate is making trouble.

Sonia's behavior now amounts to making trouble.

However, when Ingulite wanted to warn Sonia, she found that she seemed to be wrong. Although Sonia's movements were still rough and a novice, she strictly followed the requirements of the “Swordsmanship” in every move. The sword squeezed all of his strength, and the sweat from his forehead ran along the bridge of his nose, which was by no means a mess.

And, compared to a few minutes ago, Sonia's swordsmanship has improved significantly, and her wooden sword can even cut into the edge of a ring of armor!

Although it still lowered the level of swordsmanship in the entire training ground, it seems that he already has some foundation in swordsmanship. At least those who have practiced for a few months have this kind of momentum!

"She has practiced swordsmanship before?" Ingulite thought.

However, she still thinks that Sonia is not here to train-like this, Sonia will definitely be too tired to stand up in a few minutes, and the training effect will not be achieved at all, but there may be a weight loss effect.

I see, it should be for body shaping! I have heard of this!

Ingulite suddenly felt that she understood Sonia's purpose, but she felt that Sonia was almost unable to hold it.

After all, even her swordsman who has been trained for many years can only swing two hundred and fifty-six swords at a time, which takes eleven minutes.

A novice swordsman like Sonia, who can stop for a few minutes is already very powerful.

Just a little tired, Ingullit stopped to rest, secretly counting the number of times Sonia's sword swings, and planned to go and point her when Sonia's movements deformed—though she didn't think Sonia would change her career. The swordsmanship department, but as long as Sonia's interest in swordsmanship can be improved a little, that's good.