

TECHNOLOGY 421

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 421 Baymards Emerald Theatre 2

"For our first act..... we will have the 'Winged Trapeze heroes' open the show."

With that, soft music began to play... and the lights turned light blue instantly.

And soon, several spotlights were pointed towards 8 people who were all standing on several planks, all suspended on several ridiculously tall ladders as well.

And these people seemed to be holding onto some sort of stick that was attached to several strings on it too.

Oh my heavens!

Were they going to jump?

Wasnt this too crazy?

Everyone was on the edge of their seats.... and even Harvey couldn't help but squeeze the popcorn in his hands tightly.

And just when the anticipation from the crowd had reached its max, 2 of the people on the ladders immediately jumped down..... making everyone's heart sink deeply into their chest.

'Ahhh!'

But to their surprise and amazement, these people didn't fall to their deaths.

Instead, they swung at insane angles.... and one of the men left his own wing, did a front flip and hung onto the feet of the other person who was swinging as well.

Bravo! Bravo! Bravo!

This was too unbelievable!

At this point, Harvey and his family were completely sold by this circus thing.

.

And so just like that, the night progressed with them witnessing numerous acts all at once.

There was a case where a magician sawed a girl into half and even separated her legs from her upper body.

And then he put them together after saying something like 'Abracadabra!'.

Just with those words alone, her girl's body had been put back together.

When everyone saw the girl get out of the box in one piece, they all stood up and applauded like crazy!

Following that they also watched how one man made several wild Hangols jump over several hoops of fire as well.

And of course, one shouldn't forget the girl who stood on a moving bicycle, while doing flips and other stunts.

Also, there was also a woman who could climb up a rope while twisting and turning around it.... as if she was some sort of mythical creature.

Her makeup was soft, and her head had a fairy crown on it.

She was breathtaking, to say the least.

And the music just made her dance even more mesmerizing for the audience.

And after her, there was the man who rode a bicycle wheel over a thin rope that was suspended in the air!

How the hell was that even possible?

.

Harvey looked at the people around him and for the first time in his life, he wondered if he had ever truly put on a show for people.

As a jester, all he had done was throw food in his face, pretend to fall onto the ground angrily, and other silly stunts.

In fact, in his career.... being called a fool was one of the highest compliments there was.

But looking at these people, no one called them fools... and they didn't have to throw pie on their faces just for laughs.

And what was even more interesting, was that everyone looked at the performers with awe, respect and worship.

Rather than him, who had been called a fool or stupid all through his career.

No one would look at a fool with worshipping gazes, just as they did that magician.

It was utterly impossible!

And so just like that, his brain had suddenly been enlightened.

And now, he wanted to find his real strong points within the entertainment world and pursue that instead.

He quickly decided that tomorrow, he would go watch the stand-up comedy show as research instead.

He wanted to better his craft as much as possible.... as well as know whether these people also threw food onto their faces or did silly things as he did just for laughs.

He had to admit... he did like their way of doing things better than his.

So why not change?

He looked at the scene before him and nodded.

This is what entertainment should truly be like.

.

In fact, Harvey and his family weren't the only ones who were excited as well.

Since Landon knew that Little Momo and the rest would definitely like it..... he had also taken them to watch these shows as well.

Even if many people didn't believe in magic, Landon felt little children should.

As in a way, magic symbolized hope and belief that the impossible.... might one day become a reality.

Little Momo and the rest were also on the edge of their seats.

Their hearts heated aptly, and their mouths were left wide open in shock!

Ever since the show had begun, they had been standing over the Private balcony for the royal family in awe.

And of course, Landon had secretly invited king Micheal's family as well.

With all this time that had passed by, of course... Krea had now joined little momo's pack of friends as well.

As the show went on, their eyes gleamed, and they couldn't help but see the words 'Abracadabra' many times as well.

"Big brother Landon..... does magic truly exist?" Krea asked, with an expecting and overly excited gaze.

"If you believe it does... then it does!"

Only in believing, can something become true to you!

"Magic is believing!"

With those words, the little girl excitedly nodded and watched the show happily as well.

Landon smiled, as he watched even the adults get fully immersed as well.

For him, of course, magic existed!

How else would he explain how he could teleport or even use the system at all?

It was definitely not normal!"

.

Time passed by, and just like that..... the show had finally ended.

Some came out crying, as they had just watched the play of Romeo and Juliet, while others came out laughing from the stand-up comedy skits.

Of course, there were some who came out singing some heart-wrenching songs like: My heart will go on (Celine Dion).

In short, everyone was completely satisfied with these new theatre shows.

And the only complaint that they had, was that it was way too short!

With everything coming to an end, Landon dived straight for his bed and closed his eyes happily.

Tomorrow..... he would finally be leaving for his mission.

It was time to deal with the pandemic!

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 422 Planning Ahead

It was a brand new day, and Landon was currently standing within one of the large halls in the castle.... as he was about to give a brief overview to the soldiers, as well as the doctors and nurses on what was supposed to be done.

In essence, Landon had 3 main things to fulfill.

Up first, he had to send some of his men to rescue the slaves that were current on their way to Terique via ship.

As for the 2nd and 3rd things on his list.... since they all concerned Carona, Landon decided that both teams should journey together on their separate ships there.

Of course, what they needed to do in Carona, was to prevent and control the pandemic..... as well as retrieve some demented prisoners from Carona.

And since the system had told Landon to specifically control the Pandemic situation, he decided to assign another team to retrieve the prisoners.

Hence there were two separate teams travelling to Carona alongside each other.

.

In the hall had over 800 people within it, everyone in the room came with their pens and notebooks, as they didn't want to miss out on any information at all.

After Landon had already dived into what all 3 missions were about..... he quickly began assigning multiple tasks to the various leaders.

"Once again..... Baynard will be required to play an active role in world peace.

"Lieutenant Felix, Lieutenant Brant, and Lieutenant Trevor.... you 3 will be in charge of Operation 'Free Bird'.

I expect you 3 to handle this Navy mission.

You may only destroy the enemy's ships once you're sure that no hostages are still on board the ships.

And of course, you may also take in prisoners as well if need be.

Do you under?!"

"Yes sir!" Answered the 3 in unison.

"Good.... as for Major Beri (little Linda's brother and mother Winnie's son), you will lead a team of soldiers and travel alongside me to Carona.

Your team will focus on escorting the prisoners from Carona to Baymard without any hiccups.

I expect no prisoner should escape throughout the journey.

And bear in mind, even though most of the prisoners aren't as deadly as those S-Class prisoners..... they have still wanted criminals all the same.

So you and your men should not let your guard down.

Is that clear?!"

"Yes sir!!" Beri answered.

"Excellent.

Lastly, Second Lieutenant Grey, Second Lieutenant Pat, and second Lieutenant you will lead a team of soldiers to guard and protect all the doctors and nurses going to Carona for mission 'Shinjep'.

The Shinjep pandemic is soon upon us, and apart from doing your main mission..... you all might be required to also aid the doctors in taking care of the Patients.

So take note!

And since I will be a doctor on this mission, you don't need to report to me on any safety concerns while on the mission.

I give you all full permission to make the calls.

But if you all really face some unspeakable problem, then and only then can you turn to me for advice.

Is that understood?"

"Yes sir!!"

"Alright...in front of you all, are the maps and layouts for your mission terrain.

With this at hand, you all need to photocopy them and pass them on to your teams as well.

And since everyone knows what they're supposed to do, I also expect you all as leaders...to come up with a detailed plan and submit it to your Army General or Navy fleet Commander in the next 2 days.

Any team that doesn't comply with this, will not leave Baymard, and will also receive 20 days of punishment from the forces.

And 2 days after submission.... you all will be called in to discuss if these plans need to be modified or not.

Of course then and only then, will you all be required to inform your squads on your plans for these missions.

So tallying everything up, everyone has just a week to prepare for their missions.

Be it food for the slaves on the ships, needs for the prisoners or ammunition needed for these missions.....everything will have to sort out by you all.

So I also expect to see a budget report submitted alongside your detailed plans 2 days later.

Bear in mind that the budget needs to show the list of needs for these missions.

On that note, anyone who doesn't give a detailed list will also be punished as well.

Any questions?"

"Your majesty..... since everyone will have at least 5 military doctors for these missions, do we need to budget on what they need as well?" One of the Lieutenants asked while taking down notes and looking at Landon seriously.

"No and yes!

In essence, they would need to budget based on what they think will accommodate the situation.

And when they do.... you all need to add that into your reports as well.

Any other questions?"

" "

.

After Landon finished talking with the military forces, he quickly sent them away..... and invited the doctors and nurses to come in for their own briefings as well.

Even though they weren't soldiers, they needed to know the basic guidelines... as well as what to do whenever any sort of plague or pandemic raided the continent.

Hence Landon also wanted them to come up with their own budgeting plan too.

And if there were any problems, he would amend it and show them the proper way of handling things.

In addition to that, one shouldn't forget that they needed to create a remedy for the situation as well.

So even when they arrive in Carona, the doctors and nurses would have to be split up into different groups: those in charge of treating the patients, those in charge of sanitizing and educating the people, those in charge researching and finding a cure... and finally, those in charge of producing the cure.

.

When going to Carona, those who were assigned for research... would have to bring all their test tubes, chemicals and equipment needed for testing.

And after they had a plausible answer, those who were assigned to drug production would have rush back to Carona, give their findings to the medical and pharmaceutical team there, who would then do their best to create these drugs.

Of course, Landon already knew about the cure for this pandemic thanks to the system.

One could actually cure this problem, by taking some of the drugs within Baymard already.

But he wanted to see what the doctors and nurses would do in this situation as well.

Of course, he wouldn't be doing this at the expense of other people's lives, as he would do his best to keep everyone alive and comfortable while waiting for the cure.

.

And so just like that, everyone had been thoroughly briefed.

Now.... all Landon could do, was wait for the day of departure.

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 423 More Issues

"Your majesty... King-Father Lucius had already arrived, and is currently waiting for you outside." "Thank you, Betsy"

" _ "

Apart from giving briefings for those meetings, today, Landon also had to attend to some matters in King's Landing.

5 days ago, the head military soldiers there had all requested to have a meeting with him and Lucius.

It was about safety.

He swiftly walked out of one of the castle buildings and got into Lucius' car.

'Bam!'

"How did it go?" Lucius asked, with one hand on his steering wheel... and the other on the joystick.

"They should be fine for now.... but it's no biggy since we'll re-address their plan of action 2 days from now," Landon said while wearing his seatbelt.

"Hmm..... we still have time.

But for now, let me give you a brief summary of what's being going on!"

'Vrrrrmmmmmm!!!!'

As Lucius spoke, he began to drive away as if he was on some sort of race.

Landon held onto the car and couldn't help but pray silently in his heart.

If the system didn't succeed in obliterating him, then for sure..... Lucius would definitely be the next to kill him with the way he was driving.

It wasn't so much the speed that was Landon's problem.

Nope!... that wasn't the main issue here.

The real problem was that Lucius would cut in ridiculously narrow bends and corners..... as if he were in a James Bond movie.

What the hell?

'Vrrmmmmmmmm!'

"Boy..... what's wrong with you.... are you sick?"

Hehehheeheh... since you're being so quiet, then that means that you're fine right?" Lucius said, with a mischievous smile on his face.

"You're definitely doing it on purpose aren't you!!" Landon glowered while trying to hold onto his dear life.

As for Lucius, he said nothing.....and even began to whistle happily.

.

"Alright, brat!.... let's talk about the situation down there.

You see.... while you've been moving in and out of Baymard for these missions, the roads leaving Baymard have become increasingly dangerous.

With more and more peasants walking on foot or even travelling by horse there daily, the wild animals that used to live deep within the forest have started migrating and making their way towards the roads.

They would quietly stalk their prey, dash out.... grab their victim in a blink of an eye, and disappear into the forest.

The animals are also a major concern, because now... they've started camping around our secret glass towers in the woods.

And outer men are now having a hard time doing to and fro from there."

"So far, how many cases do we have?"

"In total, we've lost: 23 elderly people, 9 children, and 76 adults.

And if we let this continue on, then this number might even multiply with time." Lucius said while smiling bitterly.

No matter what, they had to come up with a solution to this issue.

'Vrrmmmmmmmm'

They drove for another 1 hour 28 minutes, before finally making it to King's Landing.

Typically, they would've probably arrived there after 1 hour of driving... but with the traffic, as well as the normal checks that took place when they got into King's Landing, they could only make it after 1 hour 28 minutes.

.

One should know that at the main gate that separated King's Landing from the rest of Baymard.... anyone going in and out of Baymard still needed to have a security check, even the bus drivers who took the visitors at the port.

The checks weren't that long, as when the vehicles stopped, the guards there would immediately hop on board and check on the situation there.

Of course, they also checked for clearance I.Ds, as only those who were soldiers and workers here in King's Landing could drive vehicles in and out.

Anyway... Landon and Lucius had already shown their standard clearance I.D for entry.

But since they were going to the heavily guarded military building within King's Landing, even if Landon was a king..... he still needed to pass through the military checks for access.

They first started by getting past the first military gate, while showing their military clearance I.Ds to the soldiers there.

"All clear!"

'Vrrmmmmmm!"

They through 3 other clearance gates, before finally parking their car.... as from here on out, every other check would be done on foot.

'Kichack!'

Landon quickly undid his seat belt, opened his door, and immediately stepped out.

'Bam!'

Thank God he made it here in one piece.

.

They did more than 4 body scans with metal detecting machines, 5 I.D documents and clearance checks, and all other necessary steps needed for entry.

And finally, they were done.

Stepping into one of the buildings there, a young man who seemed to have been standing there for white some time now...immediately walked towards them, and gave a military salute.

"Your majesty!...King-Father, Army General Lucius!..... Welcome!" The soldier said, with his chest all puffed out.

[*Lucius was known as 'King-Father'.... just as mother Kim was known as 'Queen Mother'.

And just because the men didn't want to overlook Lucius' position as Army General, they usually said both titles all at once.

As for the police officers, since Lucius was also the Chief of Police... they called him Chief of Police, King-Father Lucius instead.

It was a long-ass title, but they didn't mind it at all!"]

.

Looking at the soldier's badge on his uniform..... Landon could easily tell what rank the soldier was in.

The young man was wearing a black military attire that had red badges sewn onto each breast pocket.

In Landon's army, the red badge was given to any soldier within the 'Officer Ranks', which were all those above the 'Warrant officer' Class.

And on the younger man's red badge..... was a symbol which signified what particular rank the young man was, within the 'Officer Rank' class.

The young man saluted Landon and Lucius with pride when he approached them.

"At ease Lieutenant!

Is everyone ready?"

"Yes, your majesty... everyone is ready, and are in conference room 7, Floor E."

"Good!

Lead the way Lieutenant!"

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 424 Code Violet!

Landon and Lucius followed behind the soldier and swiftly made their way towards the meeting room.

"Your majesty, King-Father army General Lucius... this is where I'll leave you both." The young man said while giving them another Goodbye salute

"You did well Lieutenant Spencer!" Lucius said.

And with that, Landon and Lucius immediately stepped into the meeting room.

Once again, everyone rose up from their seats and greeted them.

Of course, soon after, they all sat down, and the mission had finally begun.

20 minutes into the meeting, Landon and Lucius had been well informed on the problem at hand.

Before, they only briefly knew of the situation at hand.

But now... they thoroughly understood everything concerning the issue.

"So..... what do you all suggest we do?" Landon asked.

Before he gave out his own solution, it was best to hear out what others thought as well.

"Your majesty, one of the main issues..... is that the roads are very close to the woods, making the animals come out and grab people as they liked.

So why don't we clear out some trees around the pedestrian footpath, creating ample distance between the pavement and the forest?" Said a female soldier, who was in charge of one of the sectors within King's Landing.

"Hmm.... that would definitely aid to make a divide between the forest and the highway roads.

"Alright!

Let's note down all the suggestions.

And after we're done, we'll analyze and talk in depth on the pros and cons of each point and later take a vote on them so as to choose the best options"

.

And so just like that, they debated and spoke for another 2 hours..... before finally concluding on what needed to be done.

First off, one should recognize that not only were the people not safe, but even those soldiers who had to keep a lookout from above those glass towers were also in danger as well.

And not surprising, Landon found out that most of the points that he wanted to suggest.... were already suggested by Lucius and the others in the room.

So to start off, they had agreed to create a very wide gap between the road and the forest.

Hence the government would have to contract some construction workers to get that done immediately.

And of course, while they worked, the soldiers would protect them as well, lest some wild animals attacked them while on the job.

.

In addition to creating ample space, Landon had also wanted them to place Road Rails along the roads as well.

This was also good, so that in the future when everyone in Arcadina or the world owned a car..... the railings could help prevent accidents or cars from sliding or skidding off the road and crashing onto the woods tragically.

In short, there were more than 11 solutions that had been voted and approved from all 27 solutions that had been suggested.

And just like that, the meeting came to an end, with Landon asking them to write a formal report and submit to the government office in District C.

Of course just to be sure that they didn't miss any crucial information or solution.... everyone decided to head on towards 'Shanks road', and envision these solutions for themselves.

Would what they had come up with actually be enough?

Would it keep the visitors safe?

These were all questions that they needed to figure out for themselves while inspecting.

.

As they walked in the roads, several peasants and people in carriages and horses all saluted them gleefully.

"Good afternoon your majesty!"

"Good afternoon King-Father Lucius!"

"Good afternoon seniors!"

" "

One should know that Landon and Lucius' faces were on some Bay bills.... As well as some posters in Baymard.

So how could those who had gone to Baymard frequently not recognize them?

And so just like that.... More than 45 minutes had passed since Landon and the rest had begun inspection.

They were almost ready to call it quits for the day.... But then, something happened!

Out of nowhere, a wild animal immediately grabbed a 6-year-old child from the side and pulled the child into the forest with great force.

"Timothy!!!!" An elderly woman who had been walking alongside the boy, screamed out in pain from sadness.

In her mind, her sweet grandson was gone.

A tear quickly slid down her wrinkly cheeks and her vision became blurry from the waterworks.

But before she knew it, someone came behind her and patted her gently.

"Granny.... please get up, he will be brought back in no time." Said the calming soothing voice of a tall stranger in Baymard military attire.

The elderly woman quickly wiped her eyes to look at the man before her.

Did he just say that to make her happy, or was he telling the truth?

No matter what, she felt like she had to look into the eyes of this stranger to be sure.

A minute later, she burst out into more tears.... as she felt that there was hope.

Her grandson might make it!

As for who had gone after her grandson..... she honestly didn't know who they were, but she truly thanked them in her heart.

Of course, her grandson wasn't the only one who had been grabbed..... just around her space, 7 others had been trapped as well.

Everyone wailed, as they truly felt despair.... but fortunately, they all saw hope as they saw the confident look on the soldiers' face.

They immediately dropped to their knees and kowtowed more than 10 times to the man who was comforting them.

"Thank you sir..... thank you!"

.

When the soldier who comforted them saw that everyone had now calmed down..... he immediately took out his Walkie Talkie and contacting those at King's Landing.

"Code Violet!

Code Violet!

I repeat Code Violet!!!!

We have an animal attack on 'Shanks Road'!

I need paramedics immediately for the injured.

As well as more soldiers now!!!"

" "

As the soldier spoke, the peasants around him all stood, as they truly wanted to see how this would turn out.

It was just 1 P.m..... so no matter what, they had the time to watch this show, as Baymard's gates dong close until 10 P.M.

So why not watch?

Plus the soldier right now sounded so heroic that they were in awe just from watching how fast he reacted to the crises at hand.

Even the little boys and girls around couldn't help but look at the man as a hero.

Now, they silently wished that they could be part of this sort of heroic squad.

Meanwhile, once those who were at King's Landing got the message..... they immediately passed on the message, jumped out of their seats, and dashed out of their offices.

In short, after the message was delivered.... the entire place became helter-skelter, as people ran left right and center continuously.

"Quickly! Quickly!

Where are the military paramedics?

Oh my God!

What's taking everyone so long?

5 minutes tops, I expect to see as many people as possible out there!

Get at least 3 Military doctors within the paramedics here now.

And what about ammunition?

We don't know what animal it is, so get the big guns always!

Dammit!

Soldiers are out there fighting for their lives....yet you all are here strolling around like grannies.

Hurry up!

That's an order!

" "

—

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 425 Code Violet! 2

Landon, Lucius and a few others from the meeting were currently running as fast as they could into the forest.

The forest was an assault on all their senses.

The sounds of insects, birds and other larger animals, immediately created a symphony of nature.

The forest floors would get wet, hard or mushy in different regions.... as well as the brightness of the forest, which would seem down or go bright at different regions as well.

And the heat and humidity soon pressed in on their skin, making them sweat like crazy.

As they ran, the leaves continuously crushed up against their bodies.

And even though they still didn't have a clue on what they were after, they still hurriedly chased behind the pack of wild animals with all their might.

All they could hear.... were the trees making 'swish!' Sounds, and the animals giving out loud 'Hissss!' Sounds..... as if they were communicating with each other.

At first, Landon thought that maybe what they were chasing..... were a pack of massive snakes.

But according to his knowledge of this world, there were no such things as snakes at all here.

And to add to this point, even if snakes did exist in this world...this part of the world was too cold for snakes to be in naturally.

So what other animals could make that sound?

.

'Hisssssssssss!!!'

'Din! Din! Din! Din! Din! Din! Din! Din! Din! Din!'

'Splash!'

They ran like crazy while stepping over rocks, puddles of water which connected to small streams and so on.

"Stay alert!

It seems like these animals are trying to draw us into the inner parts of the forest.

More specifically, they want to take us to their nests!

So keep your eyes sharp!" Landon said while loading up all the guns that he had on him.

Of course, those who followed him from behind also did the same as well.

After running for a while now, the sounds from these animals were finally getting louder and louder.

Dammit!

They must be near their lair!

.

'System... I want to buy explosives now!'

'Host... don't mind this system asking..... but isn't that wasteful?

Doesn't the host already have enough ammunition back in Baymard?" The system said, in a calm unfazed toned.

As for Landon, he was almost about to loose it.

The system was probably watching him from above as if his life was a movie.... while probably chewing heavenly popcorn too.

Damn you!

Damn you!

Damn you!!!

Just what was the point of saying that he had ammunition in Baymard?

Did it look like he could go back to Baymard anytime soon?

'System.... just do it!

No matter the cost!

"As you wish my wasteful host.'

' '

Landon truly felt like crying.

Why him?

Immediately, he requested for enough ammunition for the entire group.

'System.... place the items on chest strap-ons underneath my shirt.'

'As you wish host!'

Landon soon unbuttoned his shirt, and those behind him were puzzled by his behaviour.

But they quickly looked at Landon in awe.

"Here, before coming for the meeting... I had carried these items around, just in case we came for inspection and ended up in a sticky situation like this one." Landon said while giving everyone 1 strap-up belt from his chest.

Of course, each belt contained a maximum of 3 explosives in them.

And since the soldiers already had their guns and tasers with them, Landon felt like this number would be enough to do the trick!

Everyone couldn't help but nod in appreciation, as their king was always one step ahead of any crisis or situation.

He seemed to be prepared, even if the world was coming to an end.

With a mind like this, no wonder he was king.

.

Everyone was now ready for action... as they heard the 'hiss' sounds get stronger and louder.

'Hisssssssssssss!!!!!!'

They jumped over a log, and immediately found themselves in an open plain..... and just ahead of them, was a cave.

But before they could even make their way into the cave, they found themselves surrounded.

Landon's eyes flashed with shock, as he looked at the animals before him.

They were Mucins!

Everyone looked at the creatures before them in great vigilance, while they prepared themselves for battle.

.

Mucins!

They looked exactly like snakes, except that they had 4 legs like a reptile and could only grow up to 7 feet tall.

And no joke.... they actually looked like large Anacondas on legs.

Of course, since they had legs..... most of their length came from their powerful tail, which could grab their prey, curl it up and run away with their prey.

Fortunately, their tails weren't as strong as the bodies of Anacondas back In earth.... or else even if Landon found those victims, their bones might've already been crushed and broken already.

One important thing, was that they weren't poisonous at all..... but they did have a defence mechanism, which was to release some sort of liquid that would just numb their prey for a few hours, that was it.

And they had long snake-like tongues.... and their eyes also blinked and looked like those of a snake as well.

No wonder they made those 'hiss' sounds.

In addition to that, these creatures hated excessive heat....as they thrived more in winter instead.

Also, unlike snakes that could climb up trees or high places..... these ones could not, as one could imagine their 4 legs being as short as those of crocodiles.

And of course for the colour of these creatures..... Yup!... It was pink!

What was up with the God or Goddess of this world and pink?

In Landon's opinion, the goddess of this world was a little kid.

.

Right now, over 30 Mucins surrounded them from all directions, and Landon and his team were just 7 in number.

The Mucins slowly inched towards them, while looking at them with their cold yellowish reptilian eyes.

Their fork-like tongues slithered out of their mouths.... as they steadily raised their long necks until their heads were all levelled up with their prey.

Without waiting for the snakes to make their moves, Landon immediately yelled out for his men to take down the enemies.

Of course, while these reptiles were making their move and talking in 'hiss' language to one another... Landon had also done the same as well, as he had been instructing the rest on what creatures they should focus on.

Be it left, right or center... Landon had quickly split up the killings amongst everyone, with him having the highest number to kill of course.

.

'Hissssss!'

Slowly, but very confidently..... the Mucins moved in while swaying their heads slightly, as they slithered their tongues towards their prey.

Landon watched their every move, until they were close enough for their plan of attack.

"Now!"

'Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!'

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 426 Mucins

"Now!"

'Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!'

' _ '

.

Immediately, Landon and his team sprung into action like no tomorrow.

Lucius pointed both of his guns at 2 advancing Mucins that were coming his way.

As his majesty had said, aim for the head.

The creatures moved very fast like lizards..... and Lucius quickly calculated his attack point.

'Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!'

'Chahhhhhh!!!!!!'

The creatures who already had their mouths wide open ready to bite Lucius, wailed in agony, as they had just been shot in the mouth.

Of course, Lucius knew that this alone wouldn't be enough to kill them.... as it was better to get their skulls instead.

He had to make his move quickly!

The animals didn't wail for long, as now.... they were extremely furious.

One of them still attacked head-on, while the other one turned to the side, and used its tail to knock Lucius' guns out of his hands just at the moment when Lucius fired shots again.

'Pah!'

'Bang!'

'Shit!!', Lucius thought.

Right now, he had successfully taken care of one of them.... but the other was undoubtedly a hard nut to crack.

Immediately after the other one fell dead, 2 more came towards him happily.... as if he was a happy meal order.

Lucius looked at his other gun, which had fallen not too far away from him..... and was covered up by the tall forest grass.

He looked at the advancing creatures and immediately calculated his next move again.

And just before he wanted to move, he saw one of the creatures shake its neck vigorously... and after that, the creature's mouth soon became puffy, as if it was holding a lot of water in its mouth.

Liquid!

It must be getting ready to spit out its paralyzing liquid into him.

One should know that these creatures could only spit out if they were on an empty stomach.

So this was good.... it meant that they still hadn't eaten any human for the past 3 days, as that was their digestion time.

But they did like to catch their prey and store... for when it was time to eat.

.

'Pwahhhh!'

The creature spat out its pink fluids, and Lucius immediately rolled away for his dear life.

Typically, the paralyzing effect found in the fluid could only be dangerous within the next 1 minute.

So if they had gotten Lucius now, then he would be paralyzed for a few more hours.

But now that they missed him, after one minute..... even if someone was to touch or step on that fluid again, it would just be pink water and nothing more.

It seemed that something in the atmosphere neutralizes the liquid's effect within a minute.

But of course, if the prey had already touched the liquid before then..... then the prey would be doomed.

For sure, the other Mucins hadn't moved when one of them had spat out that pink fluid, as it could also paralyze them as well

So they chose to watch the show instead.

But who would've known that this small human would be so nimble and flexible?

'Chaaahhhhhh!'

'Hisssssss?'

They immediately followed the rolling human, and when he dived towards some black thing..... they quickly made their way towards his feet wanting to bite and drag him off into the liar.

But of course, how could everything go as they planned?

Just as they were about to bite the human's legs.... the human turned around and pointed 2 black things at them.

"I'll be back!" [Terminator style]

'Hissss?' the creatures looked at the human in confusion.

'Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!'

' _

Landon who wasn't far away from the scene, almost slipped while running and killing as well.

"I'll be back?"

Father..... you're saying it at the wrong time." Landon said while shooting one of the creatures around them dead.

"Oh yeah?"

But you say it all the time." Lucius said while trying to get up as well.

"I agree with his majesty King-Father..... that shouldn't have been the line that you use for this scene.

Like 'Hasta La Vista Baby!" Said another who was beside them.

'Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!'

.

And so, the killing continued.... and after all 30 were dead, only 1 person amongst the 7 got paralyzed.

He couldn't talk or move for the next few hours no matter what he did.

Everyone looked at his situation and couldn't help but shiver a bit.

How frightening!

"Everyone..... you all stay here and guard Evan, while I head on in," Landon said while recharging his guns.

"But your majesty... but how could you go into the cave?"

There are probably more than 70 more inside your majesty..... so how can we let you go in alone?" One of the men out frantically.

In his mind, it was better for him to die than for his majesty to die.

His majesty was the hope of the entire Baymard, and his death would undoubtedly make their enemies restless.

In addition to that, all of them really cared for his majesty, as he had always been kind to them and treated them with respect.

this was a feat that almost no king could brag about.

So how could he or his teammates leave Landon to ho in there alone?

Impossible!

"But your majesty....."

"No 'Buts' Major!

Don't forget that there are victims in there who might be eaten any moment from now.... so time is if the essence.

It's currently dark inside the cave... and I'm guessing that I'm the only one who had night vision goggles amongst you all, correct?

So if I allow any of you to follow me, then wouldn't these creatures pick up all out like ants?

Never go into the enemy's liar blinded.

Isn't this one of the first things that I taught you all?

So if any of you follow me in..... you would be a burden to me, rather than a help.

And besides, help should be on the way soon.... so you all don't need to worry about me.

Besides.... if I wasn't confident in myself and my skills, then I wouldn't have chosen to go in at all."

" "

—

.

Everyone stood there quietly and smiled bitterly.

Even though what his majesty said was true..... it still made them feel incredibly guilty towards Landon instead.

They were literally sending one man into the enemies den..... that was the situation in summary.

Lucius looked up towards the sky and sighed.

I silently prayed for the ancestors to watch over the brat.

Truly... it seemed like this son of his was always one step ahead of him all the time.

The boy was indeed special.

Landon on the other hand really didn't want to worry about their behinds when he went in... because as he had previously said, none of them had night vision goggles.... so what was the point of them going in?

Landon ran towards the cave stealthily without turning back..... and just like that, he was off!

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 427 Into The Mucin Den

Stepping into the cave, Landon's nose was immediately bombarded with a strong foul and musty stench..... One he didn't recognize at all.

For sure, the smell was quite strong and unique.

The Cave's floor was as hard as a rock in some regions... and in other parts, it had puddles of God knows what, in it as well.

Landon slowly advanced with his night-vision goggles on, until he finally arrived at the innermost parts of the cave.

All this time, all he had picked up with his night-vision goggles... were bats that were hanging on the cave's ceilings.

But now, he had finally picked up the 4 Mucins just up ahead.

They were all slowly advancing towards him stealthily as well.

Landon didn't waste any time, and immediately shot each of them twice in the head as swiftly as he could.

'Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!'

'Chaaahhhhhhhh!'

They squirmed in pain and finally fell onto the floor hard.

'Bam!'

In these creatures' minds, they probably couldn't understand how a human knew their exact position in the dark.

.

'System, how many more are left?'

'119 left host!'

'Alright..... also, system, what can you offer me in this situation?'

'Answering to the host, the system can give you night illuminating eyes.

Right now, the host can only see living beings with those night vision goggles.

But what about the caves' topography?

If this system wasn't guiding the host previously, the host would've already fallen into several deep holes within this cave.

These animals have already mastered the topography of the cave.

So they have the upper hand when going up against the host in night vision goggles.

But if the host bought the system's night illuminating eyes', then the host will be able to see the entire cave.... as if the host were looking at a room or even the outside streets in broad daylight."

Listening to the system, Landon couldn't help but nod his head in agreement.

It was true, for all he knew, this place could be set up as the 'Cave of Wonders in Disney's Aladdin.... so it wasn't best for him to fight these creatures with only the night vision goggles as his aids.

Eh?

Since when did the system become so kind as to offer him something without any payment?

Did the system finally have a change of heart?

Had it finally repented from it's Point grubbling ways?

'Of course, the host should know that just using these night illuminating eyes alone for just 1 hour, will cost a pretty hefty amount.'

' _

Yup!

That's the system that he knew!

Kind?

Tsk!

He would rather believe that people could breathe through their ears, than believe that the system was kind.

Landon smiled bitterly and sighed.

Luckily, he had just been rewarded for his main mission not too long ago, so he had enough points in his stash right now.

'I don't care how much it costs..... so use my points and purchase them for 2-hour use only.'

'As you wish host!'

Immediately, Landon took off his night-vision goggles and paced it back in his storage space within the system.

Even though he had gotten it for 2 hours, in his mind... he would be done in no more than 40 minutes, as he wanted to wrap up things before helo came along.

But just in case he couldn't, then the extra time was necessary as well.

With the night illuminating eyes, he could now see everything clearly.

It was as if the sun's rays had directly hit every part of the cave, leaving no space dark at all.

.

Landon advanced stealthily, until he finally spotted 12 more up ahead.

They looked at him, and instantly moved towards him without even making any 'hiss' sounds..... as the creatures immediately thought of lunging a surprise attack on Landon.

But how could it be that simple?

'Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

'Chahhhhh!!!!'

'Hissssss!!!!'

Landon had shot 3 dead.

As for the other 9 Mucins, seeing that their friends who had dropped to the floor weren't getting up again.... they all decided to rush towards Landon crazily.

And so, the battle began.

Landon jumped, ducked, shot.... and even rode one of the Mucins on it's back like a horse.

And by the end of it all..... all 9 had also died, just like their friends before them.

Landon continued to advance while killing all Mucins that dared to appear before him.

Until finally.....he had reached the innermost chamber of the Mucin Nest.

'System, how many more are left?', he asked.... while recharging his guns for the upcoming battle.

'Answering to host... 23 more.'

Landon nodded, took a deep breath and finally ran into the room like crazy.

It was time to end this.

.

Within the nest region.... the Mucins were all divided up into different groups.

On the right side, Landon could see a huge pile of bones.... as well as no more than 15 eggs there, that weren't hatched yet.

And in addition to that, there were also 3 baby Mucins that were as tiny as a cat feasting away too.

Of course, instantly... Landon had decided not to kill them.

But rather, to place them in the Zoo instead.

This way, they could live without him feeling like they eat children or even adult visitors in the future.

But one shouldn't be fooled by the cuteness of these baby Mucins.

Because even though they were still babies, right now... Landon had walked in on them digesting 3 whole adult human legs.

What the heck?

Nah... no matter how one looked at it, they were still ferocious beasts... so he would rather keep them in the zoo, than let them live around Baynard's borders.

If this continued on.... even Baynard citizens who wanted to go for vacation in Arcadina, might also be swallowed by these beasts when they grow up.

As for the eggs, Landon had decided to save 2 and destroy the rest... as he couldn't take that many into Baynard even if he wanted to.

Anyway.... on the right side of the room, he saw a huge pile of bones, several Mucin eggs and 3 Mucin babies.

But on the left side of the room, Landon saw many of the Mucins guarding some sort of room..... which he guessed, was where the Mucins all kept their prey.

.

Landon burst into the room, and immediately... some Mucins went to protect their children, while others marched up straight towards him.

Of course, some sneaked around the others and went towards the exit of the cave.... before closing in on Landon from his back.

And just like that, Landon had found himself surrounded by them in an instant.

But how could this faze him?

'Hisssssssssss!'

'Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!'

'Chaaahhhhhhhhh!'

Landon immediately shot the closest 2 that were coming his way, before jumping up and somersaulting into the air..... immediately missing the pink fluid that had been spat onto the ground.

He rolled for a bit, before getting up and ducking again..... as one of the mucins had waved its long tail towards his direction.

'Bang! Bang! Bang!'

He fired more shots, and cartwheeled to the left with one hand.... as he saw one of the Mucins send it's long neck towards him, just like a snake would do..... since it wanted to bite into his head with its long fangs.

And while cartwheeling on one hand, Landon used the other to fire several shots as well.

'Bang! Bang! Bang!'

' '
—

The battle continued on, until no more Mucins were left standing... and then suddenly, Landon heard someone call his name.

"Your majesty Landon..... Your majesty..... We're here to assist you!"

" "
—

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 428 Help On The Way

"Your majesty Landon..... Your majesty..... We're here to assist you!"

" "
—

.

Landon turned around, to see more than 100 people running in with flashlights and other tools as well.

"Your majesty... are you okay?"

Several of them asked while running towards Landon frantically.

At first, when entering the cave... Lucius and the rest had been walking in stealthily, and slowly.

They first passed the first 4 dead Mucins... before passing 12 more..... 11 more and so on.

And the more they passed, the more shocked they were.

Was his majesty even human?

True enough, his majesty was definitely a battle genius for him to accomplish such a feat.

And the more dead Mucins they saw.... the more confident they felt in Landon's abilities.

They continued to slowly advance until they reached the region where Landon was in.

In fact, they had just arrived..... when they heard bullets going off.

And when they stepped in, the last Mucin was already dead.

And all that stood, was his majesty at the center.

Of course, at the far corner, there were also some baby Mucins that had been put to sleep with 3 tranquillizers.

Probably from his majesty.

They couldn't help but wonder how his majesty was always prepared no matter what!

This was definitely the mindset that only a true born leader could have.

His majesty was frickin' brilliant!

.

Landon looked at the men and nodded in appreciation, as he thought about the time they took to get here.

One should know that they had followed their trails.... as well as used the military dogs to sniff Landon and Lucius out.

And sometimes.... this alone could take time to accomplish.... as the forest can sometimes mask scent easily.

Also, when getting into the cave.... the men had to walk in slowly, as they had to be sure that they too weren't walking into danger as well.

So Landon was utterly surprised to see them arrive when he had finished the battle.

Good!.... he didn't waste his efforts in training them at all.

"Your majesty... are you okay?"

"I'm fine.... you all did well to come to our aid very quickly.

Well done!"

With that Landon quickly divided separate tasks for the men.

Some took 2 Mucin eggs, and the 3 Mucin babies.... while others quickly advanced into the room where these creatures usually kept their prey, of course, Landon followed them as well.

.

In the room, they could see more than 90 people in there.

Those who were just brought in couldn't move.... as they had been numbed by the pink fluid from the Mucins.

As for the rest, they could move, but some of them had fatal injuries... because while some mucins carried their prey using their tails, other mucins bit their Prey and dragged them into the den instead.

Luckily, these animals didn't release any poisonous venom from their fangs.... or else most of these people would've died way back.

According to the survivors, most were brought in 3 days ago... while others were brought in 2 days ago, as well as today.

They said that these Mucins would bring in people during the morning, afternoon and evening.

But they didn't know why they weren't eaten yet.

Of course, Landon knew why.... and that was because these Mucins could only eat every after 4 days.

Unlike snakes that couldn't move after swallowing up their prey..... these ones could move after an hour of swallowing up their prey.

But even though they could move, they still couldn't eat up anything until 4 days had gone by, for some particular reason.

Apparently, for the babies... today was their 4th day.

But for the adults, they hunted and did everything as a clan..... so they all had the same meal day, which would've probably been tomorrow if they hadn't killed them off.

.

The soldiers carried those who needed to be carried out...while those who could walk, followed happily behind them.

Some cried while others thanked their ancestors for leading these brave men to rescue them.

Of course, before they all left the cave.... the men had planted several bombs around the cave, especially around the Mucin eggs that were left behind.

And with a loud 'Boom', the whole place came crashing down once they left the scene.

Everyone quickly made their way back to the highway and were immediately greeted with claps and praises.

The paramedics quickly rushed forward amidst the Chaos, and quickly assisted the injured in a flash.

More paramedics were called to the scene, as there were 97 survivors in total.

And even if some weren't heavily injured, the paramedics still had to treat cuts or bruises that they might have gotten when dealing with those ferocious feasts.... as well as bandage them too.

Of course, some soldiers came forward as well to write down the statements of these survivors.

If this incident would've happened within the city...then the police officers would be the ones taking down these statements.

But when it was out of the empire of Baymard, the military had full authority on the situation.

Hence it was their job.

Of course, those who lost their grandchildren, husbands... and other family members this morning, as well as this afternoon... immediately hugged their rescued family members in tears.

This was a miraculous occasion for them.

And while this was going on, those who had witnessed the Mucins grabbing the creatures, also came out to give their own description of the incident as well.

For sure, the news reporters were also there to capture the scene as well.

.

"A shocking incident has truly left several families devastated.

Today, here on Shanks road... several people were being yanked away by Mucins!

But fortunately, authorities swooped into the scene, chased down the vile creatures and rescued the victims.

And standing beside me, is Bucky.... who was an eye witness to the whole fiasco.

Bucky!... could you please tell the listeners what you saw or heard?"

"It was terrible I tell yah!

I minute I was walking on my own, marching towards Baymard with my new bag in my hand, see?

And then, I tilted my head to the right just to see who were those walking beside me, see?

But what I saw, was a long tail with scales on it... that grabbed a young lady beside me and pulled her into the forest in a blink of an eye.

The woman screamed.... and I screamed back as well.

And then, I saw some soldiers go in after the lady..... so I stopped screaming, sat down and ate my sandwich."

"But what does this have to do with your sandwich?"

"Oh.... since the soldiers are going in, I knew that the lady would be rescued, so why should I stress?

Look... wasn't she rescued in the end?"

" "

"Stick around with us more, as we continue to update you on the situation as it unfolds.

I'm Catherine Colber, and you're listening to the BBC station 1."

.

And so just like that, the day ended with soldiers being dubbed as heroic men.

But of course, Landon knew that this wasn't the end of the matter.

Based on the system's info, there were still 7 more Mucin nest sites around Shanks road.

So he decided to eradicate all of them, before going out on his mission to Carona.

And so just like that, the soldiers were now being dubbed as the heroes who took down a liege of Mucins.

They were nicknamed the Mucin Slayers.

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 429 Peek-A-Boo.... I see you!!!

The days went by quickly.

And before everyone knew it, it was time for the soldiers and soldiers to go out on their separate missions.

Everything was set and ready to go.... and on this glorious day, several men and doctors had sailed out to sea with determination.

The doctors and nurses were especially feeling giddy.... as for most, this was their first government mission ever!

But while all this was happening, with Tom the Yodan empire... several people were at their wit's end.

.

-The Capital City, The Empire of Yodan-

'Ahhhh!'

'Crashhhhhh!'

"I can't stand this!

I can't stand this at all!

How much more longer do I have to suffer under the hands of that shrew?" Said a woman who was making a fuss in her bedroom chamber.

"Mistress.... mistress.... please quell your anger." One of the maids standing beside the woman said as she was afraid that others might hear what her master was saying.

It wasn't just her, but all the other maids in the room.... who also felt anxious and poked their heads out the bedroom door, while looking left and right suspiciously.

Phew!

No one was around.

The woman in question, didn't seem to care if she was heard or not ... as all she wanted to do right now, was to vent her pent up anger as much as she could.

"Dammit! Dammit! Dammit!

Just who does she think she is?" The woman yelled hysterically.

"Mistress, Mistress.... please quell your anger!"

Once the maid spoke, the woman quickly paused and turned to look at the maid coldly.

"Eh?

What did you call me?"

'Pah!!!!!!'

The entire room echoed with the loud crisp sound of a slap from the woman into the maid's face.

"Stupid girl!

How many times have I told you to call me First Queen?

You all come!

Take this idiot out there and whip her 300 times with a horsewhip!" The woman said ferociously.

Hearing what her master had said, the little maid couldn't help but scream out in fear.

Wouldn't 300 slashes kill her?

"Queen.... queen... I was wrong!

Queen....." the maid begged and cried while being dragged out of the room by the other maids all around her.

The maids who were carrying her out, couldn't help but look at her pitifully.

They too understood her pain, but there was nothing they could do about the situation.

.

Their master was the former first Queen of Yodan... who was called Queen Ivy, when King Maclaine was still ruler of Yodan.

Almost everything thought that the next heir would either be the first prince (their master's son), the 2nd prince or even the 4th prince.

But who would've known that the former king would wield everything to the most unlikely candidate..... the 3rd prince instead?

Ever since the 3rd prince, Prince Sirius Maclaine became king.... of course, their master wasn't queen anymore.

In addition to that, she also couldn't be called Queen Mother..... as that position was also taken by the 3rd Prince's mother.

So with all that said and done, almost all of their master's resources and people had been pulled back into the palace.... and were now being used by king Sirius, as should be.

After all, when their master had just arrived in the palace years ago, most of the knights under her command had also been given to her by her husband.

So for sure, she had to return all those knights that were given to her since then.... as well as those that were added on later on through the palace.

They would be given used by Sirius, who did then give them to his future wife(s) and children as well.

So of course, they took most of their master's knights back to the palace.

And to add insult to injury, their master had moved out of the palace.... along with the other wives of the now King-Father Maclaine, and were now living in an estate that was not as big as that of the palace.

Sure, it was still bigger than that of most 1st class nobles within the empire.

But still, it was a real downgrade from their master's previous one. ... especially living space.

Now, all wives lived in one massive building.

So the chances of them bringing in people secretly, or even sending private messages and so on, was a real daunting task..... as all women in this house were already enemies.

Even though the women had their own hall wings.... it was still too close, and not as spacious as they would want it to be, as who knows where to a spy from the other wives would've been able to sneak in and listened to what their mistress was saying.

.

As for why they called their master mistress, that was because as per the law... no one could call her queen anymore, as it will only be used for Siruis' wife or wives.

Anyone who disobeys would be severely punished.

Everyone called her Duchess....and since she was their master, they could also call her mistress as well.

But their master hated both names... as she only wanted to be called Queen Ivy.

Hence her obvious disdain when they called her mistress.

Nonetheless, they still called her that because if any of the other wives heard them call her queen.... they wouldn't hesitate to use this opportunity to deal with their master.

The maids all shook their heads and smiled bitterly while pulling their fellow maid to her death.

And soon... Ivy was left alone to herself.

She ran her hands through her hair and crunched down by the fire in rage.

Today..... that idiot husband of hers had brought that shrew who was now the Queen-Mother to the estate.

At first, Ivy wanted to use this opportunity to teach her a lesson..... so she had planned to fall down the stairs and blame the sl.

But who would've known that the bch would beat her to it and fall down the stairs instead?

Of course, when Maclaine looked at the top of the stairs and saw Ivy, he quickly guessed that she was the one who pushed the empire's queen mother out of jealousy.

And now, she had been grounded for 6 months and had also lost her favour as well.

Dammit!

She truly wanted to kill that bch.

.

Thinking of her men who had already gone after Sirius in attempts to kill him..... Ivy couldn't help but smile coldly while watching the flames from the fire rise.

'Bch!

Just you wait!

Soon... I'll send your son to the grave, and then... we'll see whether you'll have the qualifications to be queen mother or not!

And just when Ivy was deep in thought..... one of the maids knocked her door again.

'Knock! Knock!'

'Mistress..... I've brought your favourite!' Said the maid.

Listening to her words, Ivy's eyes opened widely.

Ivy had 4 personal maids.... so she had taught them some coded words amongst themselves..... just in case others were listening on.

"Bring it in then!" She commanded.

And immediately, the maid stepped forward with a large bowl of fruits.

"Place them on the table and get out."

"Yes, mistress!" The maid responded while doing just that.

Ivy quickly closed the door behind the maid and went towards the table.

Sure enough, there was a note there.

[Master..... Former Queen Winnie and her children have been located

They're in Baymard.]

.

Reading the note, the corners of her mouth were raised slightly and her eyes twinkled mysteriously.

'Found you!'

I'M THE KING OF TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 430 New Baymardian Life

Back in Baymard, it had only been a day since Landon had left.... but of course, the empire was still as booming as ever, especially for the students.

A few days ago, the Museum had finally been created.

And now, it's a very popular touristic site for all.

Before Landon had left, he had made great plans to organize a Museum tour for the children from all Grades.... be it grade 7 or even grade 10.

For the next 2 weeks, the teachers and would have their hands full in taking each grade for a tour at the Museum.

.

Today, it was little Krea's class that would be going out today.

Of course, Little momo, Linda and the rest who had previously come to Baymard last year with Santa from Carona... weren't in the same grade as Krea, with the exception of Rebecca.

Rebecca who was previous 6, was now 7... and was the same age as Krea.

The 2 had developed an unbreakable bond ever since they began attending classes together.

And funny enough, they even started calling themselves BFF's as Barbie would do.

Anyway, when they both heard about their class going for the tour, they were both so pumped that the night before... they continuously talked their families' brains into mush.

It was so bad that everyone was seriously considering whether to strangle them to sleep or even put bandages over their eyes to make them go to bed early.

It was one of the longest nights ever for 5heir respective families.

And when they finally got the children to sleep, they all thought that this would be the end of it.

But who knew that the children would be so up early in the morning, singing and making all kinds of exciting sounds instead?

As for the culprits involved, they couldn't be bothered at all..... because in their minds, nothing could dampen their mood.

"Mom!... I don't want to be late for school today.

So can I not have breakfast?" Krea said while looking out her window anxiously.

"Nonsense!

Do you even know the time?

Young lady.... your school bus will be here in 45 minutes.

So how is that not enough time for you to eat?

And even if it was on its way right now, how can I let you go to school without any breakfast in that tiny belly of yours?

Come on little lady..... let's go downstairs and get you something to eat alright?" Queen Jasmine from Terique said while handing tiring yo the last place on Krea's shoes.

"But mom...."

"No buts.... downstairs! Now!"

"Yes ma'am...."

" "

—

.

With that, Krea was left resigned to her fate... but as the table, she ate as fast as she could, even though her mother told her to slow down multiple times.

And while she was eating, Jasmine unhurriedly placed her inbox into her bag and started placing food for her son instead.

Of course right on cue, Raul came down as well.... as he too needed to hurry off to work as well.

He worked within the Agricultural government office, as he took this as a chance to learn how to better the lives of his people later on.

In his mind, his older brother, the crown prince.... would definitely take the throne later on, so he wanted to do his best to support his brother.

So when he told his majesty Landon about his desires... he surprised that Landon had agreed to help him realize them.

He had been placed within the Agricultural sector, as the food was the most important thing that all peasants truly cared about.

Without good nutrition, even sick people couldn't get better with or without drugs.

So Landon had sent him there to understand the basics of farming crop yield and so on.

It seemed like a layman's job for someone of his status.... but as someone in the place of power, nothing was too insignificant for them to learn.

Hence he had taken the job seriously!

Of course in addition to that when he got his first pay, he truly felt like he had earned it.

As a prince, of course.... he had gotten much more money than what was currently given to him.

But ever since he had come to Baymard, he had learned things like budgeting, setting long term goals, short term goals and so on.

It wasn't just him who was thinking like this.... bit even Jasmine herself.

.

Everything about these Baymardian women shocked Jasmine.

She didn't know that women could do so many jobs like the women of Baymard.

Even Queen-Mother Kim worked as a teacher, as well as did other government jobs as well.

Not to talk of Princess Lucy and the other noblewomen that she had met here in Baymard.

So when she thought about how she used to just lay around in the castle all day long in Terique, she couldn't help but frown at her former self.

The women in Baymard earned their pay, but she had never earned anything.

While working in the Ministry of Finance, she too had begun to understand how complex running an empire was.

She had to write its reports and let her be secretary type them out using the typewriter..... as well as do presentations and so on in front of the board.

She had never felt so accomplished in her life!

It was precisely because of this that she had decided to change her lifestyle when she got back to Terique.

She would use her new-found knowledge and help whoever took over the throne in any way she could.

Of course, Jasmine knew that they Landon didn't want to make his move yet until Micheal was completely well and strong.... so for now, they could only bid their time happily in Baymard.

.

Jasmine looked at her children and smiled.

Sure enough..... just as Landon had promised, they were indeed comfortable.

Who knew that, that little brat would create miracles like the ones she had seen here in Baymard?

Was he really a messenger from the heavens?

Even she herself had started believing it as well.

After all, he had created so many miracles within the Pyno continent... so it wasn't far fetched for anyone to believe it.

Jasmine quickly placed her husband's food in several plastic containers..... as she would stop by the hospital just before going to work, to send the meal to Micheal's private Ward.

.

Time flew by with both children eating like wild animals... and very soon, Krea's school bus was finally here.

"Bye Mom... Bye big brother Raul...." Krea said while dashing into the bus excitedly.

Both mother and son just looked at her fading figure and sighed.

'Sigh..... they grow up too fast...'

'Vrrrrmmmm!!'

And with that, the school bus had left.... carrying a pack of excited children in it.